MAYOR WINS IN COUNCIL FIGHT

Salary Raises Lose Out—Significant Gain Shown in Woodward's Strength.

Mayor Woodward won a significant victory in being sustained on two out of three of his vetoes in Council Monday afternoon in a political fight of considerable importance.

The count on the vote, as compared with past performances of the city body showed a distinct gain by the Mayor.

The first of the vetoes to be voted on was the proposed raise for City Attorney James L. Mayson which was sustained for lack of a two-thirds majority of Council to override the Mayor's action.

On the second proposition Mayor Woodward's veto of the proposed raise in salaries for the city police, aggregating $100,000 annually, the veto was sustained for lack of a two-thirds majority to override it.

That the fight on the three issues would be a hot one was presaged by declarations of influential members of Council preceding the meeting.

The Mayor's objection to the raise in salaries of members of the police force was based on the inopportune time, as he expressed it, when the proposition was raised.

An ordinance providing for the establishment of the office of purchasing agent for the city was unanimously passed by Council.

An ordinance was also introduced by Alderman Rasdale to prohibit smoking in all theaters of the city.

TAMPA Fla., Nov. 17.—Mrs. J. M. Wood, 78 years old, of Jacksonville, called on the police for aid to-day in getting a "detective's" badge from a Kansas City agency that runs a detective "school."

Wilson Praises Ga. Commerce Chamber; Asks Membership

President Haden, of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, received the following telegram from Woodrow Wilson Monday apropos of Georgia Products Day to-morrow:

The White House, Washington, L. C., Nov. 17, 1913. C. J. Haden, President Georgia Chamber of Commerce, Hurt Building, Atlanta, Ga.:

I wish the Georgia Chamber of Commerce every success. Your organization has a great opportunity to do constructive work in the development of the agricultural resources of Georgia.

WOODROW WILSON.

Pensacola Navy Yard Inspected by Official

PENSACOLA, FLA., Nov. 17.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here this morning, coming from New Orleans, where he inspected Algiers Station Saturday, and devoted to-day to inspecting the Pensacola Navy Yard. He is accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Delano.

The tug San Francisco and tugs Patuxent and Patapsco arrived and dropped anchor in the harbor yesterday afternoon. They will be here several months, probably, and will be followed soon by other vessels.

Jacksonville Depot Wrangle Again Up

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., Nov. 17.—The State Railway Commission met here to-day to consider a new terminal station for Jacksonville.

Morton Riddle, of the Terminal Company, said the Myrtle avenue location was impracticable and presented plans for an enlargement of the present plant, explaining.

$18,000 Is Raised for New Church in 30 Min.

Spartanburg Now After City Market

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Nov. 17.—Dr. Kaupp, of the Board of Health, and City Commissioner Waller have returned from Asheville and Knoxville, where they have been investigating marketing conditions, with a view to the erection of a central market for this city.

Man's Suicide Is Laid to Love Affair

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 17.—Frank Somers, a sawmill operator, 27 years old, was found dead beside the road near his home in Iredell County this morning with a bullet hole in his head.

It is thought the young man committed suicide because of a love affair. He borrowed a pistol Sunday night, saying he wanted to shoot cats. This weapon lay beside him when the body was found to-day.

FINISH ST. MARY'S SCHOOL. WAYROSS, GA., Nov. 17.—St. Mary's new schoolhouse, for which bonds were issued several months ago is nearing completion.

GIRL BARES DEATH RIDE STORY

Miss Elizabeth Todd Tells How She Pleaded to Halt Davis' Suicide.

With the identification of the handsomely dressed woman who was with Carl Davis, the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic agent of Haralson, Ga., just before his suicide on an Atlanta-bound train Sunday night, as Miss Elizabeth Todd, well-known member of a prominent family of that city, the mystery of the man's act was revealed Monday in a remarkable story.

The young woman was on the train with Davis, from Haralson to Senoia on his ride to death. To her the agent confided his determination to kill himself, declaring that he could not endure the difficulties into which he had been plunged since his mother's death, and had decided to end it all.

Abandons the Attempt. Finally, as the train sped on, he pleaded with her to leave him that she might not witness the act. Driven nearly frantic by her failure to save the man's life, Miss Todd finally abandoned her attempt at Senoia and returned to her home.

Immediately following the report of the suicide a search was made for Miss Todd, who had been seen at the station with Davis when he departed. Upon her return to Haralson she told the story.

"I had gone to the station to go to Atlanta," she told the chief of police of Haralson. "By accident I met Mr. Davis, and he told me he also was going to Atlanta."

"We chatted on the platform until the train arrived. As he helped me up the steps he whispered to me: 'I am going to kill myself.'"

"At first I laughed at what I thought was a joke. Then he asked me not to go on that train but to leave him. Then I felt that he spoke seriously and I looked at him. His face was ashen white. Then I knew something was wrong."

"I questioned him as we went into the coach. He began pleading in earnest with me not to go on that train. I asked him then why he intended to kill himself."

"I've had more trouble than I can stand, since my mother died," he said. "I am going to end it all on this train, and if you stay on it you will be a witness to the killing."

Pleadings Are in Vain. "For the next fifteen minutes I pleaded with him. I was almost frantic. When the train slowed down for Senoia Mr. Davis almost lifted me from my seat, telling me to get off. I told him that I had no money to return on, and he said that if I would I saw that there was no more use to go he would furnish the ticket. When in my attempts I gave up and left the train."

"As soon as Miss Todd left the train Davis went into the baggage car. Here he accosted the negro porter, asking him if Conductor Lamar was there. When the negro said no, he asked:

"I know right away it was suicide," said Lamar. "I caught him by the shoulder and lifted his body, trying to get him to talk and tell me the reason for his act, but he closed his lips firmly. A moment later he lapsed into unconsciousness and all hope of solving the mystery was gone."

FRANK GLASS IS CHOSEN SENATOR

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 17.—Frank P. Glass, editor of The Birmingham News and president of The Montgomery Advertiser, was appointed to-day by Governor O'Neal as United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Joseph P. Johnston.

Ever since Congressman Henry D. Clayton, at the urgent solicitation of President Wilson, decided to remain in the House and resigned the Governor's appointment many well-informed men in public life have predicted the appointment of Mr. Glass.

Dr. Patten to Speak At Spartanburg

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Nov. 17.—The Episcopal Sunday School Convention of the Diocese of South Carolina will convene in this city to-morrow and continue until Thursday.

The Rev. R. W. Patten, of Atlanta, and other noted divines are expected to be present and address the convention. An interesting program has been arranged and thousands of people are expected to attend.

Waterway Delegates Pay Savannah Visit

SAVANNAH, GA., Nov. 17.—Delegates to the Atlantic Deepwaterways Convention, that meets at Jacksonville to-morrow, among them President J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, are in Savannah to-day, the guests of Commercial Trades Bodies.

Butts County Cotton Practically Picked

JACKSON, Nov. 17.—Cotton picking will soon be a thing of the past in Butts County for the present season. The crop will be a little ahead of that of last year, while the good prices have brought several thousand dollars extra into the county and business has been brisk all the fall.

GEORGIAN PUTS $100 IN EMPTY STOCKING FUND

Mailing a Letter to Santa Claus.

Progress of Project to Give Needy Atlanta Children Happy Christmas Gets Boost.

A $100 subscription by The Georgian Monday gave the Empty Stocking Fund its biggest boost since it was started several days ago by this newspaper. With an enthusiastic response from readers of The Georgian, more young people at whose homes Santa Claus is not a frequent visitor will be made happy with presents this year than ever before.

Colonel Frederic J. Paxon made himself a very desirable sort of a committeeman to administer the fund when, as soon as he had read of the plan to fill the empty stockings, he immediately sent a check for $10 to be credited to Mrs. Paxon and himself.

Youngsters Contribute. Other prominent Atlantans who have been selected to see that the money is expended where it will bring the most happiness in the poor families of Atlanta are Captain James W. English, Wilmer L. Moore, Forrest Adair, Mayor Woodward and Hugh Cardozo.

Other recent contributions are $1 from A Friend and 50 cents from Dorothy H. Richard.

Young persons who are in more fortunate circumstances than those who will be made happy by The Georgian's Empty Stocking Fund are probably the most frequent contributors. They realize that it would mean to them if Santa Claus should pass them by on his midnight trip and they are not going to let this misfortune befall any of their young friends if their dimes and quarters and dollars can prevent it.

Atlantans always respond generously to any appeal whose object is to make some one happy or to lift a burden of sorrow.

There will in all probability be many contributions of $10 and $25 and more, but it is the desire of The Georgian that every one of its readers have a part in the campaign to eliminate the empty stocking if only by the contribution of a few cents, a half dollar or a dollar.

Whatever you feel like giving, just place it in an envelope and mail it to the Christmas Editor of The Georgian. Or you may stop in at the office, No. 20 East Alabama street, and hand in the money, simply saying that it is to become a part of the Christmas fund. It will be acknowledged and it will be acknowledged where it will do the most good by the members of the committee who have agreed to administer the fund.

The money will be used to procure the necessities of life for many a poverty-plinched little person. It also will buy the toys and trinkets in which the youthful heart so much delights. Will not every reader of The Georgian have a part in the fund?

HUERTA THREATENING TO DESTROY RAIL AND WIRE LINES TO CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—More than 1,500 Americans in the city of Mexico are in danger of having their means of escape cut off, according to State Department advices late to-day.

Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy informed Secretary Bryan that President Huerta has threatened to destroy railroad communications between Mexico City and Vera Cruz.

The American Charge was instructed to do what he can to preserve the railroad intact for the use of such foreigners as may wish to leave.

Huerta's threat also included the demolition of the telegraph lines leading out of Mexico City.

Audubon Society To Wage Dixie Fight From Offices Here

James Henry Rice, Jr., field secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, has announced that Atlanta is to be made the Southern headquarters of the association. He is in Atlanta preparing for the opening of the office.

"The purpose of establishing headquarters here is to build up in the South the strongest bird protective society in North America," said Mr. Rice. "The South has more birds than any other section, and her grain crops and forests that are being ravaged by insects need their protection."

"Even the songbirds in the South have suffered through ignorance and vandalism. To educate the people to a higher conception of the value of birds is the object of the Audubon Society."

Wrestlers in Fight Over Who Is 'Gamer'

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—"Strangler" Lewis and Charley Cutler, rival wrestlers, staged an impromptu scrap this afternoon in a downtown restaurant and created a near panic among the waiters and diners. Lewis punched Cutler in the jaw across the table, upsetting the heavily-laden board. Cutler fell and carried another table with him. Arising unsteadily he attempted to get at the Kentucky man. Waiters seized both men.

The trouble arose over a question of gameness that each fired at the other.

Suits Against Dady's Bondsmen Are Filed

Suits against the American Bonding Company, of Baltimore, as surety for Chester A. Dady, have been filed by the city of Atlanta for the Royal Lumber Company and the Broad River Granite Corporation for payments for material used in the construction of the Intrenchment Creek disposal plant.

The suits allege that Dady, the contractor, has been declared a bankrupt. The lumber firm's claim is $1,221.24 and the granite concern's $252.

Youth, 17, Held for Trial as a Bandit

Fletcher Griffin, 17 years old, No. 129 Connally street, one of two boys charged with having attempted to hold up B. Unger in his grocery store at No. 43 Crew street, Saturday night, was bound over under $1,000 bond Monday by Judge Broyles.

The charges against young Griffin are assault with attempt to murder, robbery and carrying a pistol without a license. Griffin's associate, 143 Kelly street, will be tried in the Worth Clements, 14 years old, No. 10 Juvenile Court this week.

7,000 Suffragettes Invade White House

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The White House was invaded to-day by a delegation of women suffragettes from New Jersey, bearing a petition signed by more than 7,000 women who urged President Wilson to include woman suffrage among the subjects with which he will deal in his annual message to Congress.

The President's reception was brief.

START NEW RAIL LINE. GADSDEN, ALA., Nov. 17.—J. M. Spradlin, promoter of the Chattanooga and Birmingham Railroad, here to-day, said ground would be broken at Road for the first stretch of the road within the next ten days. Work will be carried on all winter.

HOOSIER POET IS IN MIAMI FOR WINTER. MIAMI, FLA., Nov. 17.—James Whitcomb Riley, Hoosier poet, arrived here this afternoon to spend the winter. He is accompanied by his physician. He is feeble but in his average health.

65 HUERTA MEN EXECUTED AT JUAREZ

Barbarities Inflicted by Bandits Under Protection of Carranza's Name After Fall of City.

After midnight. He probably will be appointed to succeed Alcala.

That the dictator is making some sort of appeal to the powers was advertently related by Foreign Minister Moseno. When asked for some expression on the departure of Alcala, he said:

"I can not talk now. I am very busy on a memo of the international situation which General Huerta has requested."

65 Federals Are Executed at Juarez.

EL PASO, TEXAS, Nov. 17.—Sixty-five Federal officers and soldiers have been executed by the Constitutional troops since that city was captured Saturday morning, according to refugees who crossed the international bridge into El Paso early today.

"Some of the executions have taken place with the consent of Villa," said one man, "but most of them were literally assassinations of helpless victims by brigands who enrolled themselves under the Carranza standard in the hope of big loot."

"The bodies of all the men shot, even those killed by regularly detailed military squads, were robbed."

Despite Villa's orders that all liquor be destroyed, a large supply was secured by the rebels Sunday, and all night long residents of this city could hear cries of "Viva Villa" and "Death to Huerta."

Lind Spends Night On U. S. Battleship

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN. VILLA CRUIZ, Nov. 17.—Important developments in the situation involving the United States and Mexico are expected here today.

Special Envoy John Lind passed Sunday night on the United States battleship Rhode Island. At the United States Consulate today information as to whether the Envoy's presence on the battleship had anything to do with plans for landing marines in Mexico was refused.

South America Backs U. S. in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—South American nations have joined the United States in trying to force General Huerta to resign the presidency of Mexico.

President Wilson told callers today that the situation still is hopeful despite reports to the contrary. He believes that the co-operation of certain foreign governments, including Brazil and Chile, which never have recognized Huerta, is assured. He indicated to callers that progress is being made in gaining support from Europe and South America for the anti-Huerta policy. He also indicated that the United States is not planning mediation between the Carranza and Huerta factions.

Another Town Falls to Rebels.

LAREDO, TEX., Nov. 17.—A Constitutional army has captured Victoria, capital of the State of Tamaulipas, according to word received here today by the rebel press. The city is said to have been partially destroyed by fire and artillery attack.

Trainmen's Strike On S. P. Is Settled

HOUSTON, TEXAS, Nov. 17.—The strike on the Southern Pacific of trainmen, engineers and conductors has been settled. The railroad yielded to the demands of the men to meet a federated committee of the four unions in the controversy.

The men were ordered to resume work immediately and within 30 minutes after the announcement the idle wheels in the local yards began turning.

Robs Drug Store, But Takes No Pills

A burglar, apparently of William J. Bryan's crew, stole $12 in silver and several bottles of grape juice from the drug store of Louis H. Redd, No. 195 Bellwood avenue, early Monday morning. The intruder gained entrance by smashing a front window.

He took no pills.

Whistles of Engines Stir Sleepy Citizens

W. I. Bloom, of No. 62 Washington Terrace, called at Mayor Woodward's office Monday to protest against the blowing of whistles of railroad engines during the night hours when most people are supposed to be asleep.

"We don't mind the choo-chooing, but we can't sleep with the whistles blowing," he said. "There is no doubt that the noise is a nuisance and as such we are going to see that it is stopped."

Asa Candler Back In Realty Market; Buys Ivy Property

Asa G. Candler has returned actively to the Atlanta real estate market, consummating a deal for valuable semi-central property five blocks northeast of the Candler Building and four blocks from his valuable holdings at Peachtree and Ellis streets.

Mr. Candler has bought from Fitzhugh Knox, the well-known apartment house builder and real estate developer, the northeast corner of Ivy and Baker streets, for a price that is withheld. This is the former Martin Amoroso home site, the two-story frame dwelling having been moved around the corner to a position on Baker street, about 100 feet east of Ivy street.

Frontage in this neighborhood has been sold recently for as low as $700 a foot and is held as high as $1,000, so that Mr. Candler probably paid between $51,500 and $88,000. The lot is 88 feet on Ivy street and 98 feet on Baker. It is depressed on account of Ivy street's regrading and consequently has a natural basement.

Mr. Candler's return to the local field is considered an indication of good real estate times. Mr. Candler now owns approximately $1,500,000 worth of local property, exclusive of improvements.

Mail Gifts Early To Insure Delivery, Postmaster Urges

"Unless Atlantans do their shopping early and get their presents mailed a good many days before Christmas, they need not hope to get their parcel post packages delivered by Christmas," said Postmaster Jones Monday.

"If people wait until the last few days before Christmas before mailing their packages and then expect the parcel post to take care of them, they are mistaken. We can handle 25,000 packages a day, and above that number we can not go. Neither can the railroads handle them."

Postmaster Jones said that "Do not open before Christmas" sign could be put on every package. He advises everybody to insure their packages. It costs a nickel to insure a parcel up to $25, and 5 cents more for twice that amount.

Wins Damages for Destroyed Telegram

GADSDEN, Ala., Nov. 17.—When Johnnie Ponder, 10 years old, a Postal messenger, was started with a death message to the outskirts of the city he tore the message up. As a result Elbert Nall did not know his grandson at Birmingham was dead until he had been buried two or three days.

He sued the company for $1,999 and when the messenger admitted he had destroyed the message to save work, a jury awarded Nall $500.25.

Takes Poison Before Whole Family; Dies

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Susie Harrell, wife of Columbus Harrell, one of the most prominent women in Alabama, committed suicide in Tallahassee, Fla., last night.

She is said to have taken carbolic acid in the presence of her entire family at the supper table. She died in 30 minutes.

Epidemic of Itis Attacks Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Representative Fowler, of Illinois, informed the House that he had been compelled to stay in Washington until Majority Leader Underwood had become afflicted with senatorialitis. Progressive Leader Murdock with chautauquitis, Republican Leader Mann with filibusteritis and the entire membership of the House with longtermitis.

A wag remarked: "What funtitis!"

$3,500 Raised for Oglethorpe Varsity

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 17.—Thirty-five hundred dollars for the benefit of Oglethorpe University, at Atlanta, was raised by two Presbyterian congregations in Mobile Sunday.

Thornwell Jacobs, representing the university, made his pleas for money at the Central Presbyterian Church and the Government Street Presbyterian Church.

Altoona Burned Area To Be Rebuilt Soon

GADSDEN, Ala., Nov. 17.—Several business houses are to be built at Altoona in the next few months to take the place of stores destroyed in the fire which swept that town Friday night. Six stores, a hotel and three residences were burned.

The loss is estimated at $30,000.

Robs Jewelry Store With Policeman Near

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds and jewelry were stolen from a display window of the C. D. Peacock jewelry store in the heart of the retail section of Chicago early today. The robber broke the plate glass window with a padded brick.

A policeman was a block away.

1913 IS BANNER YEAR FOR U. S. ATHLETICS

Ninety-three Records Were Made. Amateur Union Lays Plans for 1914.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The year 1913 was the banner one in American athletics, according to reports made at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union here today. Ninety-three new records were set up. These were divided as follows:

Running, 53; hurdle racing, 5; standing high jump, 2; sack racing, 1; javelin throw, 1; putting shot, 2; throwing weights, 4; throwing hammer, 3; relay race, 4; all-round track and field, 1; swimming, 17.

The formation of an organization to have control of all athletics on the American continent and which would have the power to bring about meetings between amateurs and professionals was advocated by the delegates. It was suggested by the delegates that the organization be called "The American Federation of Amateur Sports."

Twins Are Held for Fight Over Fiancee

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Francis and Nicholas Holly, brothers, two of them twins, are arrested for fighting in a car.

The trouble was caused by Andrew and Frank, not liking the fiancee of Nicholas.

is a man's most valuable possession, and it should be carefully safeguarded not only for one's own personal health, but also in order that its blessings may extend through many generations. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA absolutely does make good blood, and that is why it is of such wonderful benefit to humanity.

Thousands of people have voluntarily written letters describing and proving relief by Hood's Sarsaparilla in such afflictions as scrofula and eczema, boils and humors, eruptions and sores, rheumatism and catarrh, kidney and liver troubles, loss of appetite and that tired feeling.

Remember, it is HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA that has this great record. Don't be induced to buy a substitute. Be sure to get Hood's.

"PROTEA" 5-REEL THRILLER AT ELITE TUESDAY

Tuesday and Wednesday, "PROTEA" in five parts will be shown at the Elite Theater. Two nations are about to enter into a treaty, and the third nation is anxious to learn the terms thereof. To secure the desired information a charming adventuress is engaged. She undertakes the task provided she can have the assistance of a certain man who is at the time serving a prison sentence. His release is ordered, and the pair start on their task. From this point we are treated to a succession of changes of costume, rapid and startling, until one begins to wonder what can possibly be the next. By means of disguises and impersonations without number, the two spies manage to enter the house of the ambassador who has the copy of the treaty for safe keeping and secure possession of the coveted document. They are closely pursued by secret service sleuths, and are captured in their own house. It is not for long, for as the sleuths are searching for the missing treaty the spies escape. The house is full of tricks and traps that outwit the secret service men, some of which are most ingenious. Having eluded the detectives at the outset it remains for the spies to pass the frontier, which they do. At first Protea buys a small traveling circus. Later Protea takes a bicycle from a passing cyclist and continues her flight. Clever sleuths succeed in cornering her with the only avenue of escape, a rustic bridge over a stream. The span is about 30 feet in length, and the banks are high, so the sleuths burn the bridge. She leaps the gap in true dare-devil style, describing a high arc and landing safely on the other side, much to the discomfiture of the waiting sleuths.

Eighty Girls Flee In Panic From School As Smoke Fills Room

Eighty girls, pupils of the Bagwell Business College, No. 341-2 Luckie street, were thrown into a panic and fled pell mell down into the streets Monday morning when smoke from a fire originating in the rear of the Belcher Heating and Plumbing Company, No. 44 Fairlie street, filled their classrooms.

From a moment of uneasiness, as the smoke first began filtering through a classroom in the rear of the school, the scream of fire was sent ringing through the building to be picked up and carried from mouth to mouth as the panic took hold.

All efforts of the teachers to control the frantic girls was unavailing. The great cloud of smoke which arose from below had stricken them with terror.

Without waiting to gather up their cloaks and hats, the girls rushed headlong down the stairways of the Luckie and Fairlie street entrances. Outside a large crowd had gathered by the time the fire department arrived in answer to the alarm.

Mrs. John Hammond Eugenics Advocate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Mrs. John Hays Hammond pleaded with the experts here for the convention of the Society for the Prevention of Infant Mortality to urge the doctrine of eugenics upon the American people. She said:

"When young women are made to realize that the defects as well as the excellences of their husbands will be reproduced in their children, that men of intemperate and immoral habits are likely to produce defective children, they will refrain from marriage with such men."

Baptists Criticize Mayor for Barring A Street Preacher

In an arraignment of Mayor Woodward, members of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Conference in their meeting at the First Baptist Church Monday, declared that the City Executive stepped beyond his bounds in revoking the license of a street preacher last week.

The ministers declared that it was not within the Mayor's province to govern the belief of any man, nor prevent his expression of such belief.

Mayor Woodward's only comment on the ministers' action was that he revoked the street preacher's license at the request of a minister.

PLAZA PLAN READY FOR W. & A. BOARD

The City Council and Chamber of Commerce plaza committee met in the Mayor's office Monday and agreed upon plans for a conference with the State Western and Atlantic Commission in the Senate chamber of the Capitol Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Tentative plans for a plaza to cost $1,400,000, which were prepared by Chief of Construction Clayton, will be presented for discussion. W. A. Wimlish, chairman of the Atlanta committee, said Monday he expected co-operation from the State Commission.

At the meeting Monday W. A. Spell, an engineer, submitted a plan for moving the State passenger station from Pryor street to Forsyth street and building a park over the ground between Forsyth and Pryor streets.

Members of the committee expressed fear that the plan would not be acceptable to the State, but it will be considered.

Man Slays Wife, Former Convict, And Takes Poison

WILMINGTON, N. C., Nov. 17.—George W. Beaman, 40, shot and killed his wife with a rifle in a field near their home yesterday and then swallowed an ounce of strychnine. He will recover, having taken an overdose.

Beaman left a note stating that he had killed the woman because she had left him three times.

Coroner Fowler stated he learned that the woman, who was about 25 years old, had served a term in the penitentiary for conspiracy with another man to kill her first husband, who was murdered. Soon after leaving the penitentiary she married Beaman. Recently the man who went to the prison with her on the conspiracy charge returned to Wilmington, and this, it is said, led to the tragedy.

Georgia Farm Grows 24-Lb. Sweet Potato

WAYCROSS, Nov. 17.—What is reported to be the largest sweet potato grown in the South since 1888, when a potato weighing over 30 pounds was produced, is on exhibition now in Blackshear.

The potato weighs 23 1-2 pounds, and was grown on the farm of Matthew Dixon, not far from Blackshear.

2 Killed When Limb Brushes 15 From Car; Another Dying

WAYCROSS, Nov. 17.—Two dead, one is fatally injured and three seriously hurt as the result of an accident on a branch line of the Waycross and Southern in the Oklawaha kee Swamp, 25 miles from Waycross late Sunday. A. B. Lancaster was killed instantly. F. P. Stewart died today at a local hospital and the latter's wife is not expected to recover. George Squires and Hunter Smith are seriously injured.

Returning from Craven Island, a steam hand-driven car, on which the party of fifteen employees of the Heber Cypress Company were riding, was struck by an overhanging limb. Lancaster fell in front of the moving car and was crushed to death. Stewart's legs were broken and he was internally injured. Everyone riding in the car was swept off. The party had been on a pleasure trip.

At almost the same hour that Stewart died his brother-in-law, Solomon Lucas, died from a stroke of paralysis at his home in Waycross.

Harrison Descendant Weds Busch's Nephew

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Miss Margaret Lodge McKee was married to Karl Reisinger here. The bride is a granddaughter of the late President Benjamin Harrison.

Mr. Reisinger is a nephew of the late Adolphus Busch, of St. Louis.

Radium - Georgia-Made Sox

Made in Marietta
Worn in Forty States
Sold at Muse's

RADIUM is the Sock that says, "I'm a son of Georgia soil; I was once a fluffy boll of Georgia cotton; I was Georgia spun and Georgia knit; I am made in Marietta; I am now a pair of sox, smooth as silk and mighty good looking."

This Georgia product stands at the top for steady worthiness and popular price. Any man who wears a pair goes about his own "knitting," feeling the soul of loyalty from his sox up.

A sock is defined as a half-hose, but Radium Sox contain every substantial element that makes a perfect whole.

Every step you take in Radium Sox stamps approval for this sturdy Georgia product. Buy a dozen pairs and you'll not be found wanting a pair of sox for a surprising interval.

Buy them at MUSE'S. We sell them (and have for years without complaint); we commend them. They cost little and are worth a lot.

In Re The Georgia Products Dinner To-morrow Evening---

You will find at your plate a coupon for a pair of these good Radium Sox; present it here and we'll be delighted to deliver a pair complimentary. You'll be delighted with the Sox.

A "Little Journey" to a Georgia Knitting Mill

Marietta is only a stone's throw from Atlanta and a gallon of gasoline will put you there.

Once arrived you'll be glad you didn't throw the stone but went instead. It's a beautiful little city nestling in the mountains of North Georgia, where healthy, happy people live and where Radium Sox are made.

At Detroit Henry Ford grinds out automobiles like sausage—a thousand a day—placing time-saving transportation in the hands of millions of men at a minimum of cost.

At Marietta R. H. Northcutt "tends to his knitting" at the rate of fourteen thousand sox a day, placing a worthy foundation under the feet of other millions of men who may tramp where it pleases them, in perfect sox ease, and arrive without a puncture at a maximum of 12½ cents a foot.

John B. Stetson, who lifted the hatters trade from the slums, was the first to say, "There's no advertisement equal to a pleased customer." It was his endeavor to so satisfy the man with the Stetson hat that he would show it, and explain to others where he got it.

It need not be explained that a hat is not concealed on the person. It may be doffed and exhibited. Not so with sox. In a sense they're out of reach of the advertising acumen. But, if a man is fitted with Radium Sox and filled with Radium inspiration he'll take off his shoes and show 'em.

Mr. Northcutt, president of the Marietta Knitting Mills, his sons, officers, operatives and his ample capital stock are all Georgia products.

Radium Sox are knit to fit. They're properly proportioned and there are no seams to irritate. The good features are put in, the bad ones left out.

ELOPING SWAINS FACE CHARGE OF KIDNAPING

Father of Arrested Athens Girls Is Determined to Prosecute Missing Sweetheart.

Declaring that he would prosecute the men to the limit, Cleo M. Smith, of Athens, Monday asked Chief Beavers to arrest John West and William Taylor on a charge of kidnaping.

The girls were arrested Sunday at the home of their father, Mr. Melvin James, of No. 18 Rhinehart street, in Athens.

Whistle Galls for Tryat. Low, mysterious whistling announced to the girls that their sweethearts had arrived.

With packed suitcases in hand, the two young girls were helped out of their bedroom window and away from the house to the depot they went, catching a late train for Atlanta.

Fond parents missed the sisters at breakfast Sunday, and, suspecting a marriage plot, telegrams to Atlanta put the local police on the lookout.

The young man had tried to get a marriage license and failed and then left the girls with their sister.

Anxious to Return Home. Clara was very anxious to go home. In fact, she was so anxious to get back to Athens that she forgot, almost her love for the man who wanted to make her his wife.

The younger sister was of the same opinion as Clara and wanted to get back to Athens.

Clara was held in the matron's ward and Minnie at the juvenile detention house.

Half-Ton More of Delicacy To Be Prepared for Distribution Among Friends.

Weight of wedding cake, 130 pounds. Extra cake for distribution, 1,000 pounds. Total weight, 1,130 pounds.

This is the wedding cake being baked in New York for Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the President.

In addition to the weight of the cake, one-half ton, bringing the total amount baked up to 1,130 pounds, will be prepared for distribution by the bride-elect to her friends through out the country.

Busy and Delightful Week for Miss Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—With her wedding to Francis B. Sayre, of New York, set for a week from next Tuesday, Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the President, to-day began the busiest and most romantic week of her life.

The big event of this week, awaited with intense anxiety, will be the arrival of the wedding gown from New York. The tragedy of a misfit would be appalling.

U.S. NEGLECTING ITS NAVY, SAYS NOTED CRITIC

French Expert Warns Americans to Wake Up and Adopt Adequate Building Plan.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, Nov. 17.—That the United States is not fully alive to her naval obligations is the warning sounded by A. Rousseau, the eminent naval critic, in Le Temps.

Is the Pacific to be considered an American or a Japanese lake? he asks. The little navy movement is in full cry in Congress at the very moment of the opening of the Panama Canal, which adds enormously to American naval responsibilities.

Any one can see there is one little island power in that ocean which realizes the value of a navy.

Rousseau, after pointing out that Germany has displaced the United States as the second naval power after Great Britain, adds that the decadence of the fleet is not due to inherent weaknesses, but the force suffers from political fluctuations, the constantly changing administration precluding the possibility of a realization of the great national ideal—a strong navy.

He predicts that the navy's glory will prove merely transient in default of a well defined program providing for the progressive laying down of new ships.

Aside from these criticisms, Rousseau, in common with many other naval writers here, readily convertible into red blood corpuscles, energy and strength, and the very best thing for this changing age is the medical nutriment in Scott's Emulsion—it possesses the rare blood-making properties of cod liver oil in a predigested form.

The sustaining nutriment in Scott's Emulsion is so helpful to this changing age that it should never be neglected—every druggist has it.

The Changing Age

Girls and boys from 14 to 19 years of age undergo physical changes which tax their strength to the utmost and the strain is always apparent from pale cheeks, colorless lips, and tired bodies—sometimes eruptions of the skin and the utter lack of the ambition and animation with which their younger years were filled.

Budding into womanhood and manhood, with the duties of school or business, demands concentrated nourishment which is readily convertible into red blood corpuscles, energy and strength, and the very best thing for this changing age is the medical nutriment in Scott's Emulsion—it possesses the rare blood-making properties of cod liver oil in a predigested form.

Its nourishing force promotes assimilation, yields direct returns in abundant, red blood, fills hollow cheeks, tones the nerves, makes all good food good, and does it in a natural easy manner.

The sustaining nutriment in Scott's Emulsion is so helpful to this changing age that it should never be neglected—every druggist has it.

1500 TICKETS TO GEORGIA FEAST TO BE SOLD

Committee Raises Number of Plates When Demand for Seats Rapidly Takes First 1,000.

At a meeting of the general committee in the Chamber of Commerce at noon Monday it was decided to increase the 1,000-plate dinner to 1,500 plates if it became necessary.

A wrong impression got about Monday morning that all of the first 1,000 tickets had been sold. This is not correct, but probably was due to the fact that the tickets are selling fast and certainly will be sold by the time of the dinner.

If the thousand tickets are all sold by Monday night the committee will issue more on Tuesday morning in order that all who wish to participate may do so, to the limit of 1,500.

A whirlwind campaign to sell within three hours 300 tickets to dinner was launched by members of the Ad Mer's Club Monday at 10:30 a. m. and was completed by 1:30 p. m.

Shortly after that hour reports of gratifying success began to come in by telephone to W. H. White, Jr., chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, and it was thought that the majority of the tickets had been disposed of by the energetic ad men.

The ad men threw their skilled efforts into the campaign as the result of a meeting in the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce. Every man present was given ten tickets to dispose of and was informed that he need no longer consider himself in good standing as an ad man if he failed to sell his allotment.

E. H. Goodhart, president of the Ad Mer's Club, was in charge of the meeting and called upon committee members and ad men for brief addresses. The tickets to the banquet were displayed and were seen to resemble nothing so much as a round trip ticket to the Far West.

Coupons for Souvenirs. In addition to the ticket entitling the holder to banquet to his fill of Georgia's temptingly prepared food products, here was coupon upon coupon attached, calling for various souvenirs of Georgia-made goods.

At the last minute several manufacturers and dealers have come forward to offer souvenirs. As the tickets already are printed, these related souvenirs will not appear on the coupons, but will be placed right at the diners' plates. The tickets to the dinner are $2, and more than this amount is to be given away in souvenirs alone.

Heads of committees reported that practically everything was in readiness for the 1,500 diners who will feast in the Auditorium Tuesday night. It will be the biggest and most elaborate banquet ever held in the South.

The tables will be set on the main floor of the Auditorium, and the elaborate menu will consist entirely of foods and accessories grown or manufactured in Georgia. From the tomato soup and the whipped cream to the cigars and coffee it will be "Georgia-grown."

While the dinners throughout the State are nearly all called for 6 o'clock, it has been found necessary to set 7 p. m. as the hour for the Atlanta dinner. The doors of the reception hall, however, will be open at 6:30, and the dinner will begin at 7 without a minute's delay.

Among the speakers will be Governor John M. Slaton, Mayor Woodward, Fuller E. Callaway, Congressman William Schley Howard, William L. Moore and Albert Howell, Jr. Mr. Moore, as president of the Chamber of Commerce will introduce Mr. Howell, who will act as toastmaster.

Elaborate Decorations. The decorations for the dinner will be the most elaborate Atlanta ever has seen. So far as the Auditorium itself is concerned, all the magnificent draperies of the auto show will be left in place. The table decorations, in charge of Committee Chairman L. D. Hicks, will be remarkable. At each plate will be a red rosebud, donated by Mrs. George Dolvin, while yellow chrysanthemums and red poppies, loaned for the occasion by the same lady, will be scattered in profusion on all the tables. Autumn leaves will complete the decorations.

A special prize has been offered by W. H. White, Jr., for the man who appears at the dinner most completely garbed in clothing made in Georgia, and numbers of gentlemen have signified their intention of competing.

SIDELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

By JAMES B. NEVIN

Seaborn Wright, of Floyd County, the "father of prohibition in Georgia," and so forth and so on, is to be heard the lion in his den to-night, or the Demon Rum in his favorite lair, or whatever it is—anyway, he is scheduled for a "trash moving" overflow of oratory in Savannah this evening, and the ultimate object of his visit to that burg is the closing of all the "booze" shops!

It was rumored rather industriously at one time that Mr. Wright was to be one of the prime factors in launching the movement to put the esteemed "Old" on tight in Atlanta, but for some reason or other he didn't lend his presence to the recent opening-meeting in the Gate City.

Whether the noted Rome orator was not willing then to let go any of his surplus energy on Atlanta, or anywhere else, with a Savannah engagement ahead, is not known—all that is known, or stated, at least, is that he was at first booked to open up on Atlanta, and that he didn't!

Mr. Wright started his tour of shutting 'em up in Rome—which, of course, was proceeding immediately along the line of least resistance—but few people had any idea he would reach for Savannah until the very last!

The question now agitating the minds of many of the Roman admirers is whether it is his purpose to work from the top down, or from the bottom up.

Incidentally, he dropped in on Macon one day not long ago and shut up that metropolis—which was rather in the nature of making sure it goes without saying that the eyes of an interested Commonwealth will be glued upon Savannah for a week or so following Mr. Wright's visit there.

If he shuts up Savannah, a lot of harps thereafter likely will decorate the weeping willow tree!

Savannah is, perhaps, at once both the most engaging and the most doubtful proposition Mr. Wright yet has tackled! Will he get away with it? Time alone will tell.

In the list of those "not voting," as disclosed by the year-and-nay roll calls in that delightful, venerable and venerated publication, The Congressional Record, appears from day to day about the entire Georgia delegation.

Indeed, were it not for the fact that "Uncle Jim" Mann, of Illinois, insists upon an year-and-nay call of some sort every day, thus getting certain pettifour things in The Record, one would not be able to tell, even through a sort of negative process of reasoning, whether the Georgia Congressional delegation is on its job in Washington nowadays.

However, there is nothing much to do in the House nowadays—and the Georgia delegation is doing that very well. Most of the members are at home mixing with the folks.

The good women of Quitman, despairing of relief upon original motion of the men of the town, have grimly determined to get the gay and festive cows off the streets of that Brooks County metropolis or know the reason why!

Getting the cows off the streets of Quitman is by no means as simple a matter as some people may imagine, however. Since few can remember when the cows have roamed the streets of Quitman ad lib—they have acquired a sort of title by prescription, as it were, to many cuts across lots, and so forth, around and about that vicinity, and it is going to be a difficult undertaking to get them loose therefrom.

The women have started two petitions to the City Council, both of which are designed to produce results. One petition is for the voters to sign, and the other is for the women. Both are filling up rapidly—the latter petition already carries the name of practically every woman in town, and the voters' list is nearing a majority of the enfranchised citizens.

The object of the women of Quitman eventually is a city beautiful, of course. They have a comprehensive plan of street improvement marked out. It includes, among other things, tree planting, paving, parking and gardening. The cows, naturally, a room on the streets as they constantly are, interfere decidedly with this work. Wherefore, the women of Quitman are after "Sis Cow" good and proper!

What the suffragette cows of Quitman think of this proceeding is probably doesn't matter extensively, anyway!

Representative J. Frank Rhodes, of Clarke County, is an Atlanta visitor. Mr. Rhodes is a member of the all-important Rules Committee of the House, and as such exercises a decided influence on legislation. He is one of Athens' most progressive citizens and business men, and comes to the General Assembly at some real sacrifice. However, his friends already are urging him to stand for reelection, and it is not unlikely that he will do so. And if he does run again, there is little, if any, doubt that he will be sent back to Atlanta by a handsome vote.

MELL WILKINSON NEW PRESIDENT OF CHAMBER

Mell R. Wilkinson, first vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, and for several years a director, was nominated for the presidency of that organization for the ensuing term at a meeting of the nominating committee Monday morning.

Six vice presidents and sixteen directors were also nominated. The nominations are tantamount to election.

Nominees for the five vice presidencies, the treasurer and sixteen directors, were also named by the committee. While a rule of the election holds that any of the 2,000 members of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce may run for office in the organization, the recommendations of the nominating committee are by precedent adhered to. This means the practical election of the men named by the committee.

The general election will be held November 25 in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Besides Mr. Wilkinson, the following were named: First vice president, V. H. Kriegshaber; second, Brooks Morgan; third, W. L. Peel; fourth, Albert Howell, Jr.; fifth, H. G. Hastings; treasurer, Thomas D. Meador.

Directors—Hold-Over: Directors: Lynn Fort, T. K. Glenn, John Morris, Sr., Jacob W. Patterson, nominated for two years; John W. Grant, J. Lee Barnes, Ivan E. Allen, G. W. Hanson, B. M. Grant, John S. Owens, W. J. Davis, Francis E. Kamper, nominated for one year; W. H. White, Jr., Charles A. Wickersham, S. A. Kysor, Thomas Ekstrom.

The football game on Saturday brought to Atlanta many members of the present and former Legislatures. In every Legislature there is a big sprinkling of University of Georgia graduates. And these members never miss an opportunity to demonstrate their love for the university. They stand by their alma mater in all matters of legislation, and in every way possible they evidence their interest in the welfare of the old institution.

Attending the football game Saturday were not less than 100, and probably more, members of Legislatures past and present, some of whom came more than 100 miles to be on hand and "root" for the boys.

The University of Georgia "lobby," in evidence at all meetings of the Legislature, has been called, and perhaps as truthfully, "the most powerful of all lobbies" assembled in Atlanta from time to time.

The university "lobby," however, is in no sense of the word a pernicious or evil "lobby," and if he nobody ever seriously claims that it is.

Russia Will Reopen 'Ritual' Slaying Case

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. KIEFF, RUSSIA, Nov. 17.—The Government intends to reopen the inquiry in the "ritual murder" case to establish the identity of the real murderers of the Christian boy, Andrew Furinsky, of whose death Mendel Bellis was acquitted two weeks ago.

It is reported that since the acquittal of Bellis fresh evidence has been discovered, and that Bellis will be completely vindicated.

CITY BREVITIES.

The value of character was the point Dr. H. H. Proctor drove home Sunday in a sermon which stirred the congregation of the First Congregational Church, colored. His subject was the character of Moses.

A hot majority fight is now on in Hapeville and four men have been mentioned already as possibilities. The election is to be held December 1. The men mentioned are N. C. Adams, W. P. Dunn, J. T. Humphries and L. E. Mann, all of whom are said to have a big following.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock a series of revival services was begun at the Central Baptist Church by the pastor, the Rev. Caleb A. Ridley, and the Rev. Mr. Neighbor, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church of Athens. The latter will arrive in Atlanta during the morning and will deliver his first sermon Monday night.

Atlanta Presbyterians are jubilant to-day over the fact that the total subscriptions for the endowment of Oglethorpe University have passed the $200,000 mark.

The "Sin of Lying" was the subject of a well delivered sermon by the Rev. A. R. Holderby Sunday at the Moore Memorial Church. "Lying," said Dr. Holderby, "is common in all walks of life and the Ananias Club is full to overflowing with its membership ever increasing."

Arrangements for the big entertainment in which college men, college girls and prominent business men and officials of Atlanta will take part are well under way. The proceeds of the big affair will go to the Home for the Blind.

Fred W. Vanderpool has found the business of writing insurance slow as compared to newspaper work and has forsown his place as agent for the North American Accident Insurance Company to return to his old work, having charge of the southern agency of The Insurance Field.

OBITUARY.

Funeral services for J. N. McIntyre, 57 years old, No. 161 West Tenth street, were held Monday morning at the home, interment was in the Sardis Churchyard. Mr. McIntyre is survived by a wife and five children.

W. O. Jordan, Jr., 15-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Jordan, died Sunday at the home, No. 125 McMillan street. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon from Pooler's chapel, and burial will be at Atlanta Park.

Mrs. Carolina Abernathy, 79 years of age, No. 69 Boulevard place, was buried Monday, following services at the Sandy Springs Church. Interment was in the churchyard. Mrs. Abernathy is survived by a son and three daughters.

JAMES K. CRAIG DIES. LAWRENCEVILLE, Nov. 17.—James K. Craig, aged 70, died at his home in West Lawrenceville last night at 9 o'clock. He is survived by his wife and the following sons and daughters: Edward, James, Ernest, Candler, Clinton and Misses Daisy, Ethel and Helen Craig and Mrs. Newton McGee.

Valdosta Looks for Crusade on Saloons

VALDOSTA, Nov. 17.—Seaborn Wright, of Rome, is scheduled for an address at the Baptist Tabernacle in this city next Wednesday evening. Wright's visit, together with other straws in the wind, indicate that a war on the near-beer saloons in Valdosta is probable. It is believed that the plan adopted in Macon will be tried here. There are fifteen beer saloons in the city.

Washington's Manor Home for Memorial

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONDON, Nov. 17.—The ancestral home of the Washington family, Struggle Manor, Northamptonshire, has been purchased by the committee formed to celebrate one hundred years of Anglo-Saxon peace as a permanent memorial. Laurence Washington acquired the Manor in 1543 and created the house.

NEGRO AUTOIST STRIKES CHILD; SPEEDS ON

Police Scour Atlanta for Chauffeur Whose Car Hurdled Little Girl Fifteen Feet.

Police are searching Atlanta Monday for the negro chauffeur who Sunday afternoon ran down and seriously injured Mariette Bostwick, 4 years old, the daughter of R. E. Bostwick No. 239 Capitol avenue, and then sped away without being identified.

According to witnesses, the negro, whose car was going at a rapid rate, did not stop after hitting the little girl. It was claimed he merely looked around to see his victim lying in the gutter, and then increased the speed of his machine.

Child Might Die.

The little girl is suffering from a broken nose, which physicians declare will mar her appearance for life, and scalp wounds. Owing to her tender age, fear is expressed for her life.

Mariette, accompanied by her brother, Rufus, 7 years old, and her cousin, Mary Dixon, 5 years old, were crossing Capitol avenue in front of the Bostwick home on their way to a soda fountain when the accident happened. Mariette was a few feet in the lead of her companions.

The automobile is said to have swooped down on the little girl without warning of any kind. She was knocked fifteen feet to the curb.

LAWYER ABSENT, CONLEY'S CASE IS DELAYED

Negro's Counsel Tuesday Will Demand Immediate Hearing. Attitude Surprises Dorsey.

The absence from the city of W. M. Smith, attorney for Jim Conley, prevented the calling of Conley's case Monday on the charge of being an accessory after the fact in the murder of Mary Phagan.

Smith declared before he left for Macon, where he will appear as counsel in a white slave case, that he would fight every further effort to delay the trial of Conley. He said that at once upon his return to Atlanta he would file a demand upon the court for a speedy hearing for his client and would back up this demand with every resource at his command.

"I have no objection to the holding of Conley as a witness in the event that Frank is granted a new trial," said Smith.

Says State Can't Hold Negro.

"They can hold him any reasonable length of time, so far as I am concerned, but I will not stand for his trial being postponed from time to time. Conley is entitled to a speedy hearing, now that the trial of Frank is over, and he is going to get it unless I am greatly mistaken.

"He is not going to plead guilty to any charge. He is not going to make any confession. All this rot about his having something more to tell is the silliest sort of a rumor. He stands on the story that he told at the trial and he is ready to tell it again.

"I am willing to agree with the Solicitor on a statement of facts as they stand, but I am prepared to fight to come out in Conley's testimony on the last day of the trial to convict the negro as an accessory after the fact. The State can't touch the negro. The law can not be interpreted to make him guilty either of a misdemeanor or a felony as an accessory."

Dorsey is Surprised.

The attitude of Attorney Smith is believed to have astonished Solicitor Dorsey as greatly as it did the court and the general public.

Solicitor Dorsey said Monday that he was not at all worried by the fight that is being made against Conley's conviction. He expressed his belief that both indictments against the negro would stand up and that he would be convicted as an accessory after the fact without any difficulty.

Dec. 15 Formally Set For Frank Argument.

The attorneys for Leo Frank were served with notice Monday that Frank's appeal from Judge L. S. Roan's decision on the petition for a new trial had been received and filed in the office of Z. D. Harrison, Clerk of the Supreme Court, and would be in order for hearing on Monday, December 15.

Both sides will be prepared to argue as soon as the case is called. An effort was made by the defense to postpone the hearing, but the Supreme Court indicated it would submit to no delay, and it was expected the case would be set for hearing the middle of December.

Chicagoans Colonize In Camden County

WAYCROSS, Nov. 17.—Chicago capitalists who recently purchased a large tract of land in Camden County, between Kingsland and St. Marys, have started work on a big truck farming colonization scheme. SEEK HOMES FOR 1,000 CORN CLUB BOYS

Members of Committee Anxious to Provide for Youthful Visitors to Show.

Atlanta homes are needed for three days for 1,000 Georgia Corn Club boys. These boys will be here December 3 to 5, and they come as a reward of merit for the splendid work they have done this year.

Governor Slaton in commending the work of the corn clubs stated to-day that if it were possible for him to be here he would not only entertain a number of the boys, but would give them a special reception at the Executive Mansion.

In advance of solicitation for homes for the boys, voluntary offers have already come to take about fifty of them.

Last year there were 700 boys and more than enough homes were offered; this year the number will approximate 1,000 and more homes will be needed.

All those who are willing to take one, two or more of the boys in their homes should furnish their names and addresses to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, telephone Main 796.

Governor Slaton in speaking of the corn clubs said:

"I have not made a speech in Georgia this year in which I have not commended upon the work of the corn clubs, and their value in promoting agricultural and other education and in increasing the productivity of the soil.

"I have pointed out how within two years the work of the Georgia Corn Clubs has brought an increase of one peck of corn for every man, woman and child in the State.

"Most heartily do I commend the Corn Club boys to the people of Atlanta as young gentlemen who will be in the future the mainstay of the State.

"I shall make every effort to be here during the corn show, and if I can do so will not only entertain a number of them in the Executive Mansion, but will also tender them a reception."

VAPOR TREATMENTS FOR COLD TROUBLES

Are now used in all hospitals. The vapors carry the medication to the lungs and air passages without disturbing the stomach. When Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve is applied over the throat and chest, these vapors—of Menthol, Thymol, Eucalyptol, Camphor, and Pine Tar—are released by the heat of the body. Usually the worst colds go in one night—croup in fifteen minutes. Vick's is fine for head colds, asthma, and catarrh, and is absolutely harmless. Three sizes—from 25c up.

ATLANTA SLEUTHS TRAIL BOLD THIEF

Detectives have been sent out from Atlanta to catch the man who tricked the Southern Express Company agent at St. Petersburg, Fla., and escaped with $11,000 in travelers' checks and money orders.

During a busy period Saturday a well-dressed man walked into the office and introduced himself as A. C. Simpson, of Chattanooga, a traveling auditor of the Southern Express Company. The agent gave him the freedom of the office and for several hours he was busy with checks and money orders. At lunch time he locked the roller-top desk at which he had been working, and the agent assumed that the checks and money orders were held there in safety. When the alleged Mr. Simpson did not return after being gone more than an hour the agent got worried and pried open the desk with an ax. All he found was canceled travelers' checks and money order stubs. More than $11,000 in negotiable checks and money orders was missing.

Mr. Dealer:-- Don't You Sell the "CADET" HEATER?

IF YOU do not, you certainly ought to lose no time in getting in line with the dealers who are selling it---and making money on their sales.

If you are not selling the "CADET" you are losing one of the best opportunities of the hardware and stove business. Your customers have long wanted just such a heater as we have manufactured, and once they see it, and understand its superior qualities, they will certainly buy it.

The "CADET" has won for itself a place in the hearts of the people who are using it, and there are thousands of homes all over the South that would appreciate to its full worth just such a heater as we have here.

Seven coils of galvanized pipe wind around the fire box, as you can see from the illustration in the lower right hand corner of this advertisement, and it is this close contact with the fire that produces instant results.

With the "CADET" installed any home can have hot water on ten minutes' notice, and the beauty of it is that you can have as much hot water as you want at your disposal. There's no hot water heater on the market today that anywhere near equals the "CADET."

This little heater retails for $15, installed, and you are losing a valuable opportunity if you are not selling it.

If you are not selling the "CADET," then write us for our proposition to dealers. It will interest you, because it will open the door to profits that cannot help but interest you.

WOMEN'S NEWS — THE SOCIAL WORLD

Charming Luncheon Party Given for Pretty Bride-Elect

Miss Eula Jackson, whose marriage to Edward Aleop will take place in December, was honor guest at the luncheon given Monday by Mrs. Charles A. Sisson. The Sisson residence on Eleventh street was decorated with quantities of chrysanthemums and autumn flowers.

The guests, who included only the girls who will be Miss Jackson's bridesmaids, were seated for luncheon at a table elaborately decorated in pink. A large basket of Killarney roses, the handle tied with pink ribbons, formed the centerpiece.

At each plate was a little pink basket of bonbons, with pink roses thrust through pink satin ribbons on the handle. The name of the guest was inscribed in gold on the ribbon, and for Miss Jackson there was a little basket adorned with valley lilies.

On the buffet rested a large mound of pink roses, and smaller vases of these flowers were on the mantel and serving table. An elaborate luncheon was served, and the affair was one of the happiest events of the week.

Mrs. Sisson was gowned in black charmeuse, with corsage of shadow lace. Miss Jackson wore an imported fall model.

For Miss Watts.
Mrs. W. H. Rhett and Mrs. E. L. Bishop will entertain at bridge Friday morning in compliment to Miss Louise Watts, a bride-elect.

For Mrs. Cheshire.
Mrs. Thaddeus Cheshire will be honor guest at several parties this week. She was Miss Willie Russell Law before her wedding in October. On Tuesday Mrs. DeLos Hill will entertain at bridge luncheon for Mrs. Cheshire and Wednesday Mrs. O. C. Fuller gives her an afternoon bridge. Others will entertain later.

Masquerade Party.
A masquerade party was given by the Jolly Fifteen at the home of Miss Pauline Morris.

Autumn leaves and flowers adorned the rooms and a color scheme of lavender and pink was carried out in every detail. Punch was served in the reception room. The bowl was set on a mound of autumn leaves surrounded by fruits.

The prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Miss Anne Kessner and Samuel Baiser. The consolation prize was won by Nathaniel Pollock.

The following guests were entertained: Misses Annie Cohen, Nancy Constasy, Bella Chin, Bertha Sherman, Rebecca Gold, Etta Ableman, Nell Pollock, Lillian and Ida Marenburg, Anne Kessner, Pauline and Sara Morris, Messrs. Samuel Baiser, Nathaniel Pollock, Robert Kessner, Lionel Kaplan, Abe Goldstein, Simon Morris, Manuel Lichtenstien and Ralph Morris.

Henderson-McDonald.
The wedding of Miss Flossie Leah Henderson to Samuel J. McDonald took place at Wesley Memorial Church at 4 o'clock Tuesday night. Rev. W. R. Hendricks officiating.

Miss Eula Henderson and Mrs. Anna Belle McDonald were the bride's attendants.

The bride wore a tailored gown of blue peau de peche, and a velvet hat trimmed with blue plumes.

Miss Eula Henderson, sister of the bride, wore a gown of dark blue draped with a velvet hat trimmed with Paradise feathers. Mrs. Anna Belle McDonald wore a suit of gray and a hat of black velvet trimmed with silverettes.

S. D. Boland was best man, and John McDonald groomsmen.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald left immediately for a wedding trip to New Orleans. After a stay of several weeks they will return to make their home in Atlanta.

The New Fashions in Muslin Underwear

Novelties That Paris Worked-Out For Her "Dansant"

It is customary to call Paris very frivolous. It may or it may not be true. Regardless, she is very serious about frivolousness. She turns to dancing with all her heart and then gravely proceeds to work out fashions for it. And the world takes up dancing—and the fashions. To-morrow we shall show Atlanta novelties in muslin underwear that Paris evolved for her "dansant," and other novelties that follow the scheme of things right now.

Among them are—

- Camisoles of plain chiffon in pinks, light blues and lavender, with an underlining of Dresden chiffon, trimmed with hand-made roses. Camisoles of net, point d'esprit and shadow laces with wide satin bands and bows underneath. $1.50 to $5.00.
- Tango Garters that are dainty bits of net, edged with laces on accordion plaited silks and hang gracefully about the ankles. $2.98 to $5.00.
- Tissue Petticoats and Crepe de Chine Petticoats light as a butterfly's wing, deep flounces of shadow laces, split at the side.
- Silk Jersey Petticoats, the flimsiest jersey we have known—laces and ribbons in the flat flounce.

- Combination Suits fashioned for wear with camisoles and evening dresses, the corset covers of which are often of net or lace points, fashioned V shaped to the waist.
- Drawers, exquisitely dainty and lacy. Flat styles, knickerbockers and bloomers of nainsook and crepe de chine.
- New Gowns. One of the novelties is a habutai silk gown with a lace yoke, lace panel down the front and a lace ruffle; another the use of point Venise medallions in yokes; another is the way yokes are made of embroidered aéro cloth, next of kin to the finest mousseline. And there are other novelties that will catch the fancy of the lover of the dainty—these in both crepe de chine and nainsook.

In all a display of muslin underwearsuch as you have never been invited to see in Atlanta. Every garment is selected with that excellent taste that abhors the gaudy and turns instinctively to quiet daintiness. See it!

Still New Suits Are Arriving

And Styles Seem to Grow Prettier as the Season Advances

Fresh out of their boxes to-day and ready for you bright and early in the morning are new suits!

New not only in that they are just arrived, but new in fashioning and trimming, in the little details that women notice.

But our ability to keep the new and fresh and smart things coming in like this tells better than any words of ours could, the satisfaction that choosing your suit here brings.

It is because women like the styles they find here that we are enabled to do this.

Prices?
To-day's news concerns suits at many prices---at $18.75, at $25, at $29.75, at $37.50, at $40.

One would think we had specialized, brought the full weight of our buying organization to crowd value into suits at every one of these prices---and one would not be far wrong.

The suits show their greater worth. Styles? Myriad and charming, trimmed suits (fur on many), plain suits that in some way or another are novel, are not plain in the sense that we are accustomed to. Surprises in store for the woman in search of a suit!

There are little Dutch boy and girl dolls in the Toy Store (in the Bazaar) that have been pictured and written about in magazines of a dozen countries.

HARVARD MUST RECKON WITH YALE'S ELEVEN

Rejuvenated Eli Team May Spring Big Surprise on Crimson Squad Next Saturday.

By Frank G. Menke.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Most of the headlines inform the populace that "Nothing but Yale now stands in Harvard's way to the 1913 football championship of the East." Which, in a sense, is quite true. But it seems to us that the "nothing but" part of that headline is a bit superfluous and totally misleading.

Before the twilight shadows settle over the Harvard stadium next Saturday it may be found that the headlines should have been "Yale stood in Harvard's way." For that rejuvenated Yale team is a force that Harvard must reckon with and one which promises to give the unbeaten Crimson aggregation the greatest tussle of the year.

Yale to-day is 75 per cent stronger than it was a week ago. It went into the Princeton battle with an almost entirely new team, as far as playing together was concerned. And it played a game that was little short of marvelous. This final week of coaching and playing together ought to whip the Bulldogs into unbeatable form, even at the hands of the wonderful Crimson team. Which is a broad statement, but its broadness will be found justified if the Yale gang plays against Harvard Saturday with the vim, dash and skill that it displayed against the Tigers.

THE Yale-Princeton battle Saturday seemed to mark the return of the old kicking game. It is certain that it will be resorted to a great extent when Harvard and Yale meet at the end of the week. In the kicking department the teams stack up just about even. Knowles is a wonderful punter, a man who can get a wonderful distance on his boots and yet send them high enough to enable his ends to get down and wait for the man who catches the ball. Guernsey, the substitute back, who made Yale's only score Saturday, is a 45-yard booter, but he doesn't seem to be able to get them high enough to suit his ends.

BRICKLEY is a power that Yale must contend with. Yale turned back Street, the smashing Princeton fullback, but Brickley is Street's superior, and the real test of the Yale line will come when Brickley shoves his frame against it. Brickley, it may be recalled, is a drop-kicker of some merit. If Harvard can get the ball inside the 40-yard line, Mr. Brickley will be called upon to score three points for his team.

From this distance it seems that if Yale can halt Brickley it may halt the entire aggregation.

THE grand old dope, however, intrigues that Harvard will beat Yale twenty to nothing. You see Yale beat Brown only 17 to 0, while Harvard trounced them 37 to 0, a difference of 20 points in Harvard's favor. After consulting the dope a lot of young men up at the Cambridge institution of learning to-day began gathering lumber to be used in the erection of a championship flag pole. But it seems that the Harvard boys are a bit too hasty.

Boxing Notes

Tommy Murphy, who is next to meet Willie Ritchie in his boxing over thirteen years and is considered better to-day than six years ago. The shifty little Harlem fighter, however, is hardly able to stand up against the lightweight champion for twenty rounds.

Jeese Willard will lose a match with Carl Morris at New York on December 12, unless the can square himself with the State Boxing Commission. Billy Gibson, promoter, has been notified that Willard is under suspension for breaking a contract to box "One Round" Davis in Buffalo last January.

Jim Flynn wants another crack at Carl Morris. Flynn is back in New York trying to get Billy Gibson to stage the bout.

"The Best of the Lot," said Danny Morgan of Willie Ritchie, after seeing the champion in his match with Leach Cross last week. Morgan has been forgotten about his own protegee, Jack Britton.

Abe Attell, former featherweight champion, has decided to start for the coast some time this week to start training for his match with Johnny Kilbane at San Francisco, Cal., on Washington's Birthday. Although Abe is a veteran at the game, there are still many who think he has a championship left left in him.

'EKKIE' REVIVES SECTIONAL DOPE ON FOOTBALL

WALTER ECKERSALL, one of the noblest gladiators of them all, is reviving the old sectional stuff on football. He is quoted as recently making some comparisons between the East and the West.

"The East produces better individual play and the West better teamwork," says Mr. Eckersall.

In the great day when he was quarterback of the Chicago University eleven this slim and nimble-footed young man made a record of individual usefulness to a football team that will probably stand as long as football is played. In one year he practically beat every team in the Western conference single-handed. This isn't overstating it. That is just about what he did.

Directed Team While Resting. While resting it was his business to direct the attack of the Chicago team. This was a natural selection, as it was up to Eckersall to pick out the spot that he would like to kick the next goal from. It simplified matters to have him direct the play in that direction.

It is evident that Eckersall ought to know what he is talking about when he says that individual play is the bigger feature in Eastern football. Yet, in spite of the fame of Eckersall, Heston, O'Dea and many another great star of the big Western universities, none was ever so noted as "the Michigan machine."

McCormick Can Hit---That's All Lookout Chief Is an Experiment

By W. S. Farnsworth.

BY securing Harry McCormick to lead the Lookouts next season, President Andrews has added a heap of batting power to his aggregation.

As a ball player "Moose" is a great batter. And that lets him out. He can't get under a ball, and if one comes right into his hands it's a 10 to 1 shot that he will not hold it.

Once he gets on the paths he can't run any faster than Tom Needham or Joe Dunn, and neither one of these "youngsters" could beat a snail in a journey around the cushions.

And he can't throw any farther than an ordinary high school player. And when he does throw the ball in it's dollars to doughnuts that he chucks it to the wrong base.

BUT HE CAN EVERLASTINGLY SWAT THE BALL! I DOUBT if he ever struck out without having at least had two strikes charged against him over the foul route. He has a Beckley eye, once he gets up to the plate, and he can sure lay the old ash against the horsehide with deadly accuracy and power.

His blows are not lucky ones, either. He very seldom raises the ball over ten or fifteen feet, but either sends it spinning on the ground for a safe swat, or on a line just over the infielder's heads.

With his one qualification, he can get away with the managerial job? Personally he is a grand fellow and we will pull hard for him, but—

SHINNY. Oh, well do I remember when the Winter winds were singing In the days of youth and freedom long ago.

We donned our worn and ancient skates and soon were lightly scurrying On the bosom of the river to and fro.

We hit the old tomato can a scipe that sent it spinning, And although it smote our shinbone once or twice, We didn't care for busted skins because our gang was winning.

They play in pads and shinguards now and call the pastime hockey And chase a chunk of rubber o'er the ice, But better far the old tin can with which we used to jockey And belabor with the section of a tree.

Tech Seniors Fail To See Their Team Defeat Georgia

Members of the senior class at Tech will graduate in June without having seen the Tech football team defeat Georgia in four years. This fact was bemoaned generally around the fraternity houses and commons Sunday and Monday.

During the first two years of a man's college career he doesn't figure out the athletic situation that was, but in upper class days he begins to yearn for victory over a close rival. Thus the class of 1911 went through Princeton University without seeing a victory in football over Yale.

It will be an honor to run against Governor "Tener," carefully remarks Tom Lynch. And if he does run against the same Governor Tener, honor is about all he will get.

Yale has decided to abandon the English stroke. It is said to be a perfectly good stroke except for the fact that it loses boat races.

It may be that Heine Zim considered the "Players' Fraternity" a little too low-browed for a graduate of Harvard.

It must seem strange to those globe-trotting hipsters to stow away nightly banquets when their usual winter fodder is gleaned from "banned" countries.

EX-BALL PLAYER DIES. PEORIA, ILL., Nov. 17.—Mount McFarland, former White Sox baseball player and a figure of note for many years in the baseball world, died of pneumonia here yesterday.

SPORTING COMMENT

By Ed W. Smith.

THEY have discovered in New York that Willie Ritchie is a regular champion and that whatever they have been saying about the manly-pamby methods of training adopted by the lightweight boss will have to be withdrawn, now that Willie has stood toe to toe with their mighty Leach Cross and outslugged the hardy New York dentist. Ritchie didn't even get a shade the better of the argument in the reports of the contest and though he appears to have bested the sprightly young tooth puller pretty much all of the way, the New Yorkers admit that if it hadn't been for the knockdowns—that Ritchie handed out to his man in all the third round of their struggle that Leaches would have been entitled to a draw at least.

RITCHIE showed them that he is the right sort of a fighter and the kind that they ought to admire. He didn't stand off and attempt to box with Cross as a man depending strictly upon his cleverness would have done. The champion went right in and sluggered fiercely with the star New Yorker and thereby took the most desperate kind of a chance for Cross possesses a knockout punch, there isn't the slightest doubt of that, and had Ritchie been a trifle less wary with all of his apparent indiscretions, he might have kissed good-bye to his life right then and there. But it is as if he used caution and plenty of it with all of his slugging and at the end he came out with flying colors.

THERE'S but one way to look at Ritchie and that is that he is a real champion and liable to retain his title for six or eight years at least. Just now there isn't a lightweight in sight that has more than a good outside chance of beating him, especially in a long engagement. Yet the farther Ritchie goes the better he fights, and in a twenty-round battle he is all but unbeatable. Some of them may beat him in a ten-round encounter, but the Marathon route is a different matter altogether.

Local Boxers Sign For Bouts in Athens Thanksgiving Day

ATHENS, GA., Nov. 17.—Frank Postero, local promoter, has completed all arrangements for his all-star boxing card to be staged here on Thanksgiving Day. "Kid" Young, the Atlanta newsboy fighter, has been matched to box Meyer Pries in one of the ten-round bouts; Frank Baker has agreed to battle Mike Saul for ten rounds, while "Spud" Britt and "Kid" Goldman, of Chattanooga, will also clash in a ten-round set-to.

Young and Baker fought here before, both putting up good fights. Young stopped Charlie Lee in eight rounds at the last show, while Baker bested Jack Payne. Thirty rounds of fighting will be offered for the fans.

Mercer No Match For Clemson Eleven

MASON, Nov. 17.—Clemson romped away from Mercer in the first period of to-day's annual game between the two schools and the Baptists never had a chance, the final score being 52 to 0.

Clemson ruled a heavy favorite because of its fine showing against the University of Georgia. Clemson started off with a rush and completely overwhelmed Mercer in the first quarter, the score at the end of that period being 21 to 0.

In the second quarter, Clemson piled up 13 more points, the score then being Clemson 34, Mercer 0.

In the third period Clemson scored 12, while Mercer was unable to do anything.

In the fourth period the Clemson boys eased up and contented themselves with one touchdown.

REAL TEST FOR JOHNSTON WITH CUBS NEXT YEAR

Chicago Magnate Anxious to See Former Southern League Star Make Good.

By Bill Bailey.

CHICAGO, ILL., Nov. 17.—Youngsters coming into the major leagues from the minors certainly should envy Jimmy Johnston, the recruit secured by the Cubs from the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League, before playing with San Francisco Jimmy was a Southern League star.

Because of his speed and base running ability? That's partly the reason for the envy. But it isn't the big reason. Then what is? Simply this—Jimmy Johnston will have a trial, a real trial, and if there is anything in him he will have the opportunity of showing it.

You know what happens to many a minor leaguer. He boards the train that carries the majors to the training camp. They get out on the field and something happens to the youngster. If he is a pitcher maybe he has a sore arm. If he is a slugger he hasn't had time to gain his batting eye before they tell him to be on his way, that the boss has just concluded a very advantageous deal that will send him to some minor. Away he goes. He is sore all the way through for the reason that he hasn't been given a chance.

Not so Johnston. Sox Once Had Chance. It's like this with the little fellow who stole 123 bases this season. There is considerable feeling between the Cub and the Sox officials as a result of his acquisition by the West Side team. President Comiskey and Manager Callahan will look bad if Johnston comes through with a rush and develops into a major league star, for they had the opportunity of grabbing him and didn't exercise the option.

You can see how it is. Supposing that Johnston reports and looks good enough to keep and then plays sensational ball in the National League. What the fans will say about Manager Callahan will cause him no joy and you can wager on that. They'll become very sarcastic and demand to know why he didn't keep an outfielder when he had one.

Which would make a tremendous hit with President Murphy. Because while he and the South Side manager always find room to pass when they happen occupy the same side of the pavement that is about all they do—just pass. It isn't on record that they halt and indulge in any love feast even in the verbal kind.

Cal Can't See Johnston. And you can wager that Callahan will indulge in many gutfaus should Jimmy Johnston fail to make good on the West Side. It is the opinion of the South Side boss that this very thing will come to pass. This for the reason that Callahan gave Johnston an excellent trial on the coast last spring and the result didn't look anything like a world beater.

It certainly was a whale on the bases even then. He also had one of the prettiest fadeaway slides that a man ever looked at. The trouble was that it was never on exhibition save when the fellows were working at the sliding pit. The slides there don't show in the averages and fail to score any runs. Johnston has managed himself considerably by his inability to get on base.

Callahan permitted him to become a member of the San Francisco club because of his light hitting. Nor did he look a sensational fielder. He wasn't particularly fast and his arm wasn't of the type that causes the fans to grandstand to crane their necks at his throws.

Shows Vast Improvement. Out on the coast they say that he is a better hitter, a better fielder than he was and that he is one of the most promising ball players ever turned out in the far West.

It's this difference in opinion and the feeling which has entered into it which will result in Johnston being given a mighty good chance. If he comes through as the Cubs believe he will, the laugh certainly will be on Cal. If he falls down and returns to the minors Cal is certain to be the gainer. Because about all that a minor leaguer can demand is a real trial. The prevailing conditions insure him that.

RIVERSIDE AND G. M. C. SHOULD BATTLE AGAIN

Teams Played to Tie and It's Up to Them to Settle the Prep School Title.

RIVERSIDE and Georgia Military College battled to a 20 to 20 tie Saturday morning at Grant Field, and Riverside wants to meet their opponents again, the winner of said game having a strangle hold on the prep title.

Said Sandy Beavers over the telephone this morning: "I wish to challenge G. M. C. for another game. I believe that Riverside has the better team, although I must admit that our rivals have a corking aggregation. I will let my team play on any neutral grounds in the South, and G. M. C. can name their own officials, too."

Well, this looks as though G. M. C. was due to move next.

G. M. C. may claim that by holding Riverside to a tie that the title belongs to the Milledgeville eleven, because Riverside was defeated by the Tech second team, but that is a poor excuse if used.

The Milledgeville team is a "bear" this fall and it is up to them to meet Riverside again.

Carl Morris Accuses Willard and Smith Of Dodging Him

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—While taking light exercise at the New Polo Athletic Association in Harlem, Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant who, in the opinion of many ring followers, is the best white heavyweight in the world, paid his respects to Jess Willard and Gunboat Smith, with whom he has been trying to arrange bouts.

"If Willard signs articles to box me in the Garden on December 2, I will be very much surprised," said Morris to-day. "I don't believe he wants any of my game, for he has known me for years when we were both in Oklahoma. If he gets into the ring with me, just say that there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind that I will knock him out before the end of the tenth round. Willard can not stand punishment."

"As for Gunboat Smith, I think the sporting public realizes now that he is afraid to meet me again. I did not fool him in the fifth round of our recent bout. He simply quit rather than be put away."

McDonough Retained As Cordele Manager

CORDELE, GA., Nov. 17.—After a conference of the directors of the Cordele club of the Georgia State League, it has been practically agreed that E. L. Reagan, of McDonough, who managed the team last season, will be retained in that position for the approaching season.

It was practically understood at the recent meeting of the league directors in Cordele that the season would open on April 15, closing August 15, before the beginning of the cotton season. The South Atlantic League will open about the same time and exhibition games will be secured with the teams of the league by the clubs of the Georgia State.

Heisman Explains Twist Tackle Pointers for Preps by Coach

By J. W. Heisman.

IT is a deal easier, in teaching the principles of football, to expound them to a set of players than it is to get them to do, or try to do, the thing the way it is told. This is especially true with reference to tackling, and to twist tackling in particular.

This is a most spectacular tackle, and it looks dangerous, which is probably the reason it is difficult to get players to undertake it in a match game. But if they would only try it they would soon find that they are no more liable to get hurt using this tackle than any other. It is performed as follows:

If you are located a little to the side of an oncoming runner, say to his right, you aim for the spot where you would shove right in front of him if you were to run across his path; and you run for that spot full tilt. Just before you get there you leave your feet, and, with your body stretched out parallel to the ground (your right side turned across), you shoot yourself squarely across his path, with your body momentarily suspended in air and at right angles to his. Your chest should be turned squarely into his thighs, and as your head shoots beyond him you thrust out your arms and catch them around his thighs.

Jackets End Season With Clemson Team Thanksgiving Day

The Clemson Tigers will be the Jackets' opponents on Thanksgiving Day in their annual battle, the last game of the season for both teams.

JUDGE BRANHAM SCORES SLIT SKIRT FOES

Georgia Lawyer Publishes Card Denouncing Presbyterian Synod and Christian Convention.

ROME, Nov. 17.—Judge Joel Branham, dean of North Georgia corporation lawyers and one of the best known men in the State, in a card to the local paper denounces the Presbyterian Synod and the Christian convention for banning the slit skirt and the preachers who are continually howling modern fashions. He says, in part:

"Why don't the preachers let the women and their dresses alone? A girl is cowed and humiliated when dressed out of fashion. I am going to get up a squad of slab-sided, faded women, wearing pokebonnets and cork-screwed curls, and plain black dresses drooping straight down over bosomless chests to spindle legs and ankles and flat-soled shoes for the benefit of these soap-eyed preachers, who offend unoffending congregations with lugubrious discourses. "What about the attire of these critical clergymen? They stretch themselves out in barber chairs, have their faces lathered and their heads shaved off, contrary to Scripture, and wear stiff-starched boomer shirtsfronts and out-tucking at the women's Blindfold them. How did they find out the women wear slit skirts? Did they look?"

The better class of stores will not try to fool you with these imitations. They will be offered to you principally by street fakirs, peddlers and the candy departments of some 5 and 10 cent stores. These rank imitations cost dealers one cent a package or even less and are sold to careless people for almost any price. If you want Wrigley's look before you buy. Get what you pay for. Be sure it's WRIGLEY'S'.

REAL ESTATE AND CONSTRUCTION NEWS Local Realty Boom Is Expected From Asa Candler's Move

Real estate operators were heard Monday in many expressions of satisfaction over the return of Asa G. Candler to the local realty market in the purchase from Fitzhugh Knox of the northeast corner of Ivy and East Baker streets, a full account of which appears elsewhere.

Insurances Feature Discussed. Scores of Atlanta business men have commended the plan of Harris G. White, president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board, for patronizing insurance companies which lend money on local real estate.

New Realty Firm. A. C. Ford, who has been in the real estate business in Atlanta for several years, and W. F. Sparks, formerly connected with a big mercantile establishment at Monroeville, have formed a real estate partnership under the name of Ford & Sparks, with an office at 504 Gould Building, J. H. Lane, who has been in the real estate business several years and is well known as a farm and real estate man, will be associated with them.

Building Permits. $800—T. A. Cappa, 56 Connecticut avenue, two-story frame dwelling, W. C. Dixon. $175—J. W. Pierson, 528 Central avenue, removed dwelling, day work.

Lot Sales Total $11,800. The sale of nineteen lots in the Oakland Heights subdivision, totaling $11,800, will be announced by Hugh J. Lynch, the buyers being W. L. Winn, T. J. Fleming (two), C. L. James, Mrs. M. J. Harris, J. J. Byrne, W. A. Little, Mrs. B. Harrison, E. G. Adams, W. Wilson, L. A. Smith, R. C. Bullock, E. A. Dunning, W. G. Prewitt, C. D. Young, L. E. Law, C. W. Cranford, T. J. Thurman and D. Brigan (two).

Warranty Deeds. $200—Mrs. Mattie E. Paden to Henry Hollingsworth, lot 340 by 56 feet, on Peachtree Creek, 460 feet north of Cheshire Bridge road, November 14. $1,250—W. J. Robbins to J. M. Robbins, lot 45 by 99 feet, south side Highway street, adjoining Robbins property, August 25, 1887.

Factory Sites We are selling factory sites on A., B. & A. railroad inside the city at $10 to $15 a foot for railroad frontage. Forrest & George Adair COLLEGE PARK BARGAINS

STOCK GOSSIP The New York American: "Quotations for most stocks may go appreciably lower before the decisive upward movement develops."

The New York Times: "At the moment there are no indications of further gold imports, although our credits in the European market are increasing." The New York Herald: "The outstanding short interest continues large."

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET. LIVERPOOL, Nov. 17.—Due unchanged to a bid higher, the market opened quiet at a net decline of 2 1/2 to 3 points. At 12:15 p. m. the market was easy 2 to 4 points lower, and the market declined 1/2 point from 12:15 p. m.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—The Memphis Commercial Appeal makes the crop 13,572,000 bales, with the total 13,572,000 less than last year, when their estimate of 13,550,000 bales proved about the best forecast, as added to this amount, 496,000 lintless cotton was 14,291,000 bales, against 14,277,000 actual crop, Hester's figures. Chances are that there will be less lint in this year, as there are numerous reports of spoiled seed being refused by crushers.

Worry and HURRY.

These Are the Watchwords and the Disease of Our Age.
(Copyright, 1918.)

Street cars in Atlanta start every few minutes. Men and women rush wildly to catch each train that leaves the Terminal Station or the Union Passenger Station, and save the part of a minute.

Every man hurries to his home and hurries away every day.

Every employe, every child, hears all day long the word, "Hurry."

There is little peace or rest for any of us except those staring in the cradle, or dozing in old age.

And even the poor little baby in the cradle is hurried from one bottle to another and from one bath to another.

And old age is worried by the hurry that goes on around.

At the top of this page there is a picture of every man in this world who amounts to anything.

If you haven't that little driver seated up behind you as the old-fashioned hansom cab driver sits up behind his horse, you are not among those that count.

Every one of us has inside of his skull a power that drives him. And if the power is too weak to force him to hurry and struggle, wearing himself out if necessary, he is among the failures.

The question that every man should ask himself as he feels the lash fall upon his shoulders is:

"What is driving me? Am I well or badly driven?"

The only good driver is the little driver in this picture, AMBITION. The harder he drives you the better, and the farther he drives you the better. Your legs and your lungs may get tired, your heart may beat and your head become wearied. But you will get in the end, even though it be in the grave, a reward for all the driving that ambition does.

There are other drivers—cupidity, selfishness, vanity.

The main thing is to get the right kind of a driver, and then go as far as and as fast as you can.

This little driver sent Christopher Columbus across the ocean, sent Peary to succeed at the North Pole and Scott to die at the South Pole.

He drives the little unknown clerk, who will be the big man ten years from now, as he drives the already big man, long past middle age, who, without need, is doing ten men's work at the head of some great business enterprise.

This little demon drives the millions of mothers whose ambition for their children makes every sacrifice welcome.

If you are not harnessed up like the man in the picture you are not going anywhere in particular.

No Man So Low He Can Not Be Humanized

According to the new Warden of Joliet Prison, in Illinois, the honor system will one day be in vogue in every penal institution in this country. The Warden is Edmund M. Allen, and his methods are already attracting world-wide attention.

It was he who established free speech among convicts, an innovation which many prominent penologists even now look at askance. But Allen declares it is the silent man who conspires. "Kicking," he says, "is an American trait, and a convict feels like a human being when he has a chance to kick to his heart's content."

Allen put his honor system in force when he turned loose his first road gang nearly three months ago. There is not a gun in the camp, and Governor Dunne is so impressed with the work these men are doing and the way they do it that he has agreed to commute their sentences ten days for each thirty days of work.

Allen not only abolished the silence rule, but he substituted a gray uniform for the hated stripes and introduced baseball into the various departments. Convicts who are not "fans" have the privilege of boxing and wrestling. So Allen is regarded as a friend by the big population of Joliet.

Is the humanizing process worth while? All one has to do is to put oneself in the convict's place. Sing Sing has a prison paper called "The Star of Hope." The method of Warden Allen is better; the kind of hope he deals in is something tangible. This is the way to eliminate crime, for no man is so sodden that he can not be humanized.

A LOST LOVE

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

THE wine is spilled, drunk by the thirsty ground,
And gone forever from the lips that burned;
There is no more that can be newly urned;
No vintage half so rare is ever found.

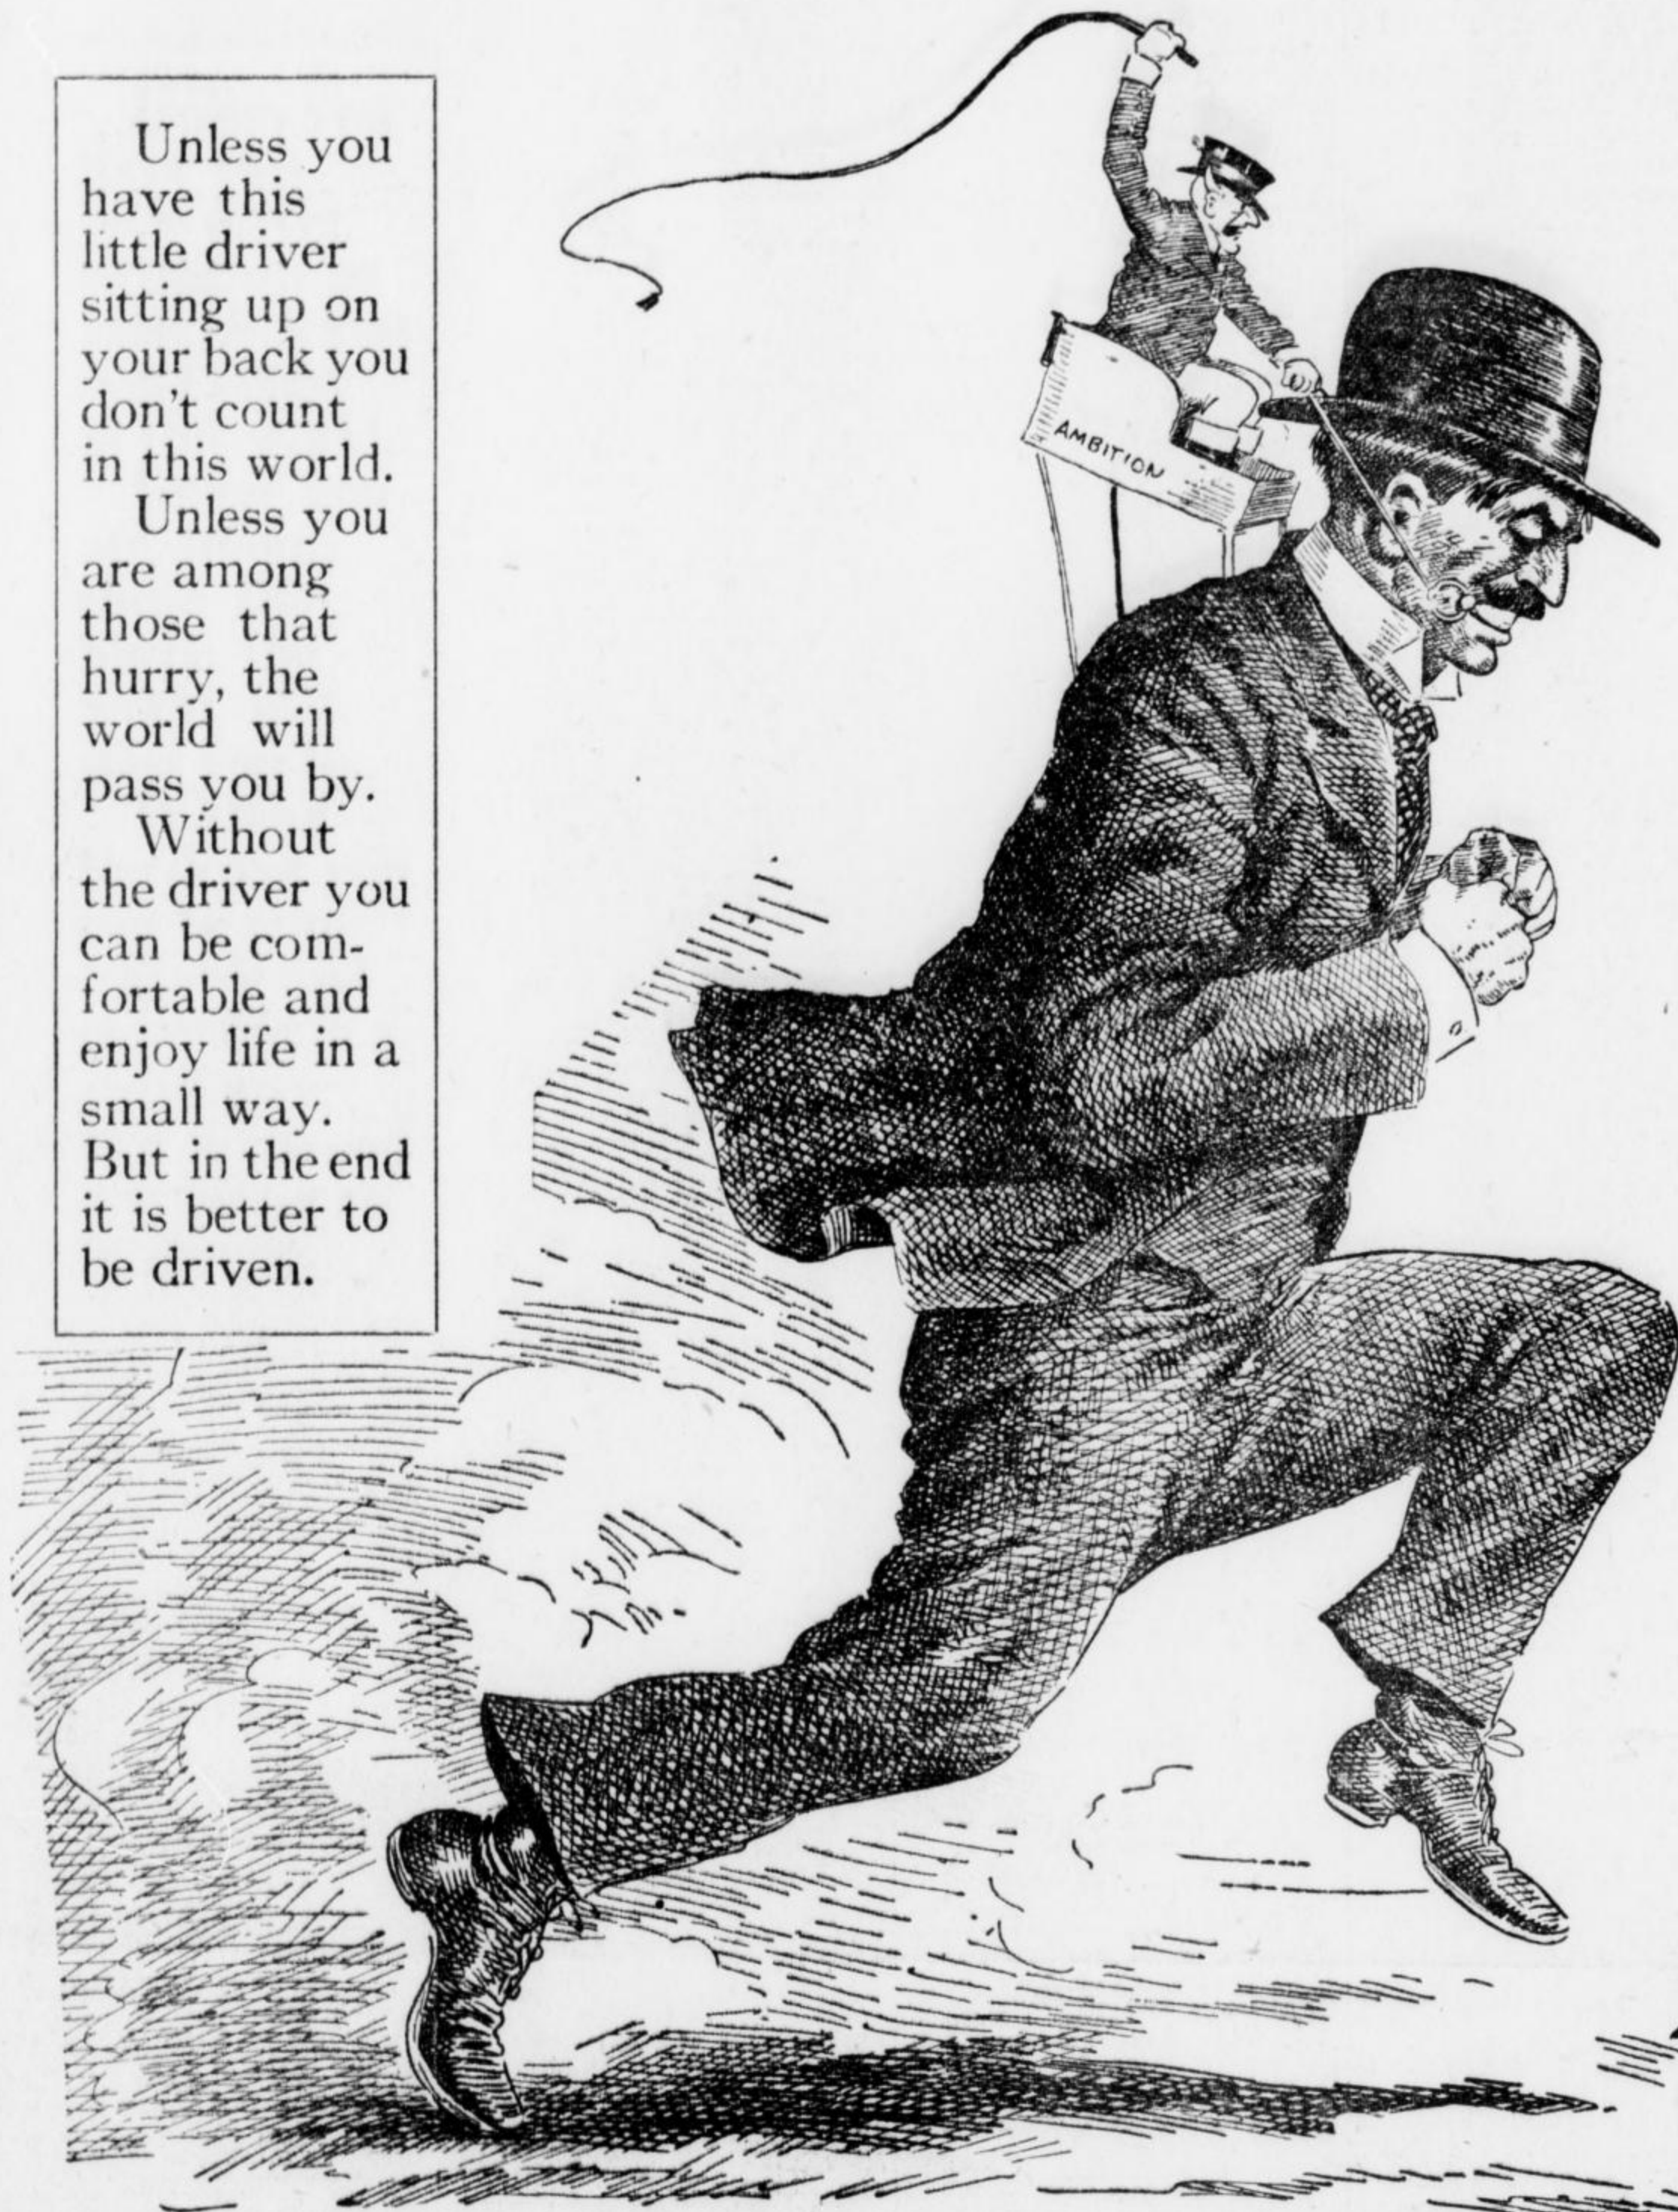

The glass is broken into brittle bits,
Scattered upon the dusty banquet floor;
The empty bottle over near the door
Is cobweb-sealed where the gray spider sits.

The garlands are grotesquely dead and dry
As mummied tresses in an ancient tomb;
Like ghostly sheets they rustle in the gloom
When memory's searching zephyrs hurry by.

For it has been (as it shall ever be)
That glorious loves have perished at high noon;
That bounding pulses deadened with the swoon
Which hovered once above Gethsemane.

Hurry Up! the Cry of To-day

Unless you have this little driver sitting up on your back you don't count in this world. Unless you are among those that hurry, the world will pass you by. Without the driver you can be comfortable and enjoy life in a small way. But in the end it is better to be driven.

To Vote Is a Duty, Not a Privilege

By THE REV. C. F. AKED, D.D., LL. D.

NO citizen has a right to stay away from the polls. The sin of doing nothing is the deadliest of the seven deadly sins. We can no more neglect the plain duties of citizenship than we can refuse to pay our debts. Indeed, the discharge of the duties of citizenship is in essence the payment of a debt, a debt more sacred because one which only honor can enforce. Our comfort, our safety, our liberty, the education of our children, the well-being of the home, the priceless boons of religion, have been won for us by the unnumbered toll of the obscure, the silent and the dead. It is dishonest to accept and enjoy blessing for which we have not labored while refusing to contribute a share of unselfish service to the common stock. A man who can say, "I am not interested in politics," and means by this that he is not interested in the good government of his city, ought to be ashamed of himself.

It is pleasant to observe how the salvation of American cities proceeds apace. In 1895 I was a guest in the home of Major Bond, the most famous of American lecture agents. I observed that the drinking water on the table was from Michigan or Maryland or somewhere else, and in my untraveled ignorance I asked: "Have you no waterworks in Jersey City?" His answer staggered me. It came like a blow in the chest. To this hour I recall the impression made upon me by his calm, matter-of-fact reply: "Of course. But you see, every city in America has been run by thieves." This was eighteen years ago. There is not a man or woman in America who will assert to-day that all our cities are "run by thieves."

Challenge of the City," was published in 1907. He quotes what he describes as a warning of James Bryce. He says that a few years ago as a company of Americans were about to sail for the United States Mr. Bryce said to them: "Go back to your splendid world across the sea; but don't you make a failure of it. You can not go on 25 years more in your great cities as you have been doing. Don't you do it. If you do, you will set us Liberals back in Europe 500 years."

This may or may not be a fair report of Mr. Bryce's words. But in his own monumental "American Commonwealth" the problems of city government are discussed at length. The new and revised edition of 1910 repeats the terrible summing up of the original work published 22 years before: "There is no denying that the government of cities is the one conspicuous failure of the United States."

Victories of Violence Are Transient

By ELBERT HUBBARD

HERE is a thought, penned in kindness, for Mi-Lady Militant by one who believes in her Cause, but who deprecates her methods. The victories of violence are transient. Things done in hate have to be done all over. And she who smears hand-rails with tar, puts muriatic acid into mail boxes, places bombs in an art gallery, burns hay barns, smashes windows, defies the police, and is taken to jail, must face the consequences of her misdeeds, just as if she were a male man. Two wrongs do not make a right. Even though the woman wins by violence, her victory is bought at the price of her womanhood. Righteous wrath is often an excuse for a bad temper. Hatred of the wrong soon yields a diminishing return. We become like the thing we hate—aye, more, we are the thing we hate.

Mi-Lady Militant hates the tyranny of the male. Granting that this tyranny exists, it has grown up out of the centuries, and has been fixed in the ages by usage. It was old when Abraham bartered with Laban for Rachel, and was a habit when Ruth gleaned the fields of Boaz. American women have been wise in not resorting to militant methods. Fighting men acquire the fighting face. The termagant grows to look the part. Her dominant attitude becomes one of supercilious contempt, not love. Eventually she is unloving, unlovely and unlovable, and the fighting attitude, continued, will disrupt any home, for when fighting becomes a habit, an excuse for fighting is easily found.

Carlyle hated the wrong; Emerson loved the good. Which man would you prefer for a neighbor need not be asked. The persistence of Mi-Lady Militant and her perfect willingness to sacrifice herself for the good of the Cause is beautiful just in the degree that you admire martyrdom. But please remember that martyr and persecutor shift places with lightning-like rapidity. He who is willing to suffer and die for a cause will make you suffer and die for the same cause if he gets the chance. Law protects the life and property of women, but not so much as it should. This applies also, in degree, to men.

But to repudiate the law, because the law does not do all it might, and resort to anarchy in order to win a legal victory, is playing the part of a mental defective or a minor. Harm must follow such tactics, since it supplies in itself an argument why women should not be allowed to help make laws. The ability to abide by the law is the test of fitness for citizenship. Before you are fit to give orders you must show your ability to take them. To shoot up the law is no better than to shoot up the courthouse. If incendiarism is right, where shall it cease? The fact that a woman is a woman does not license the crime of arson, nor make window smashing part of a holy war. Great reforms require great patience on the part of those who would bring reformation about. When you ask for a voice in the making of government, your voice must not be keyed too high, lest, mayhap, you inspire fear as to what may happen when you acquire the power for which you seek.

The Democracy of Diplomacy

Our Boasted Democracy is a Sham, He Says, So Long as Americans Have an Idea That They Can Not Represent This Country at Foreign Courts on a Yearly Salary of $25,000.

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES

THE return of William F. McCombs from Paris with the rejected French Ambassadorship on his hands brings once more to the front the practical exclusion of high-class Americans from important diplomatic posts unless they are rich men. Mr. McCombs is not now in a position to be compelled to decline the French Ambassadorship, but it is an open secret among his friends that his essential reason in the beginning for refusing this dazzling honor was because the salary of $17,500, joined to his own income, was not deemed sufficient for him to fill this place acceptably. In other words, through a long process of elevating rich men to foreign missions, we have come to the sorry pass that no American of whatever social or moral caliber either can or thinks he can represent the interests of his country at the seat of a European Government upon a yearly income of $25,000!

"Dollar" Diplomacy.

Our boasted democracy is a sham so long as this condition of affairs is permitted to exist in our diplomatic history. This is the real creditable "dollar diplomacy" of to-day. It is the diplomacy that is not permitted to exist at all unless it has a surplus of dollars to gild its existence.

I do not intend to reflect upon any American holding a foreign post under our Government to-day. But I distinctly challenge the records that for two decades the multi-dollar has been well nigh the indispensable prerequisite of the foreign Ambassadors and Ministers of our country. I have in mind more than one of these in time past who had no other possible qualification for international diplomacy beyond the capacity to spend an ample income lavishly in the gilded palaces of Europe. Men absolutely without training or natural gifts have been rewarded for personal political service by these most representative positions in all our Government.

The Present Purpose.

I honestly believe that it was the purpose and desire of the present Administration to destroy as far as possible this money basis of our diplomacy and that the insistent effort to persuade Mr. McCombs to succeed Mr. Herrick at Paris was a step in this direction.

Personally, as a friend and admirer of Mr. McCombs, I think it was a great error in judgment not to accept it.

I do not for the life of me see why any American gentleman, if he had the brains and the manners, could not stand acceptably as the successor of grand old Benjamin Franklin, in his butternut coat, in the palace of the Elysee. I do not understand why an American gentleman, a sovereign citizen, should not anywhere fulfill Lord Chesterfield's ideal and "stand unabashed in the presence of a king."

Proper Equipment.

An American man with high character, with self-respecting dignity, with a proper conception of the dignity and power of his incomparable country, with tact and brains, and culture and courtesy, and gracious manner, and the fine art of avoiding friction and of making friends, ought to be well equipped for attending to his country's business and reflecting honor upon his country's manhood and civilization, even if he could not multiply his liveried flunkies through continued entertainments for the applause of gilded butterflies who are not the whole nor even the better part of any government abroad or at home.

The democracy of diplomacy is close to the essence of a real popular government.

Not So at Washington.

We do not require at Washington that any Ambassador or Minister of a foreign government, to be persona grata to our own Government, should be a Croesus or a prodigal. Who in our country of to-day knew James Bryce by his moneybags or his gorgeous entertainments?

And who shall say that any clean, capable, self-respecting, well-bred American citizen should not hold his head high and his country's dignity secure at St. James' or the Elysee?

The democratic era in which we live is above the dollar diplomacy of the sycophant or the moneybag.

"EXPERTS AND THE CURRENCY."

(From The Washington Evening Star.)

The hearings before the Senate committee have been very illuminating, both to the political and to the business world. They have justified themselves a thousand times over. The men who have occupied the witness chair, so to say, have been worth attention, and have had attention. * * * And the members of the Senate committee are still learning. * * * How long the committee will be engaged with the experts is not, and probably could not be, stated. But there should be no hurry. Even experts require time. They can not lick a currency measure into shape while you wait; and what they will now tackle has been rendered more difficult by the bungling manipulations of a score and more confident amateurs, looking and pulling six ways for Sunday.

"FOUR BATTLESHIPS NEEDED."

(From The Washington Post.)

Three battle ships and possibly four will be recommended in the annual report of the Secretary of the Navy, according to all indications. Four will be none too many. The addition would not mean that we were increasing our naval program. It would merely mean that we were repairing the negligence of the past, when Congress, instead of appropriating for two battleships, in accordance with the national necessity, appropriated only for one. The Democratic party provided only one battleship last year, and only one the year before. If faith is to be kept with the people, four must be provided this year to make up for the deficiencies of the past. The blows at our navy, delivered by Congress, have not caused our stock to go up in the opinion of the nations of the world.

Dear Spindle—You're on for a junket to St. Petersburg. Nothing at all to do but meet the swells and hit the noble restaurants. You won't have to stay in St. Petersburg. There'll be no ambassadoring to do; all expenses will be paid; so you can take nice little side trips to meet the Kaiser and to see fast life in Paris. 'Twill be quite a nice change from Peoria. Of course, you'll quit in a year and give one of the other original supporters a chance. Your old pal, Senator J. Ham Sandwich.
