STATEWIDE CRUSADE PLAN OF CHURCH Dress Extremes and Immoral Plays Put Under Ban by Atlanta Diocese.

ROME, Nov. 20.—"Certain modern customs and amusements" were strongly deplored and condemned in resolutions unanimously adopted by the conference of the Atlanta Diocese of the Episcopal Church which closes its three days' session to-night.

Although the customs and amusements were not specified, conversations with prominent clergymen made it evident that they were the tango, the slit skirt, the diaphanous gown, Brelux's play "Damaged Goods," and other dramas of that sort. Individually, a good many of the delegates strongly expressed their intention of waging unceasing war in their territory against these evils, besides aiding in the general battle of the church.

The resolutions are more radical than those of other churches in that they provide that the president appoint a committee of three to cooperate with other denominations in Georgia, if they are willing to name similar committees, in establishing a permanent non-sectarian commission to make the battle against modern fashions, modern dances and the ultra-modern theater a State-wide issue.

To Start With Atlanta. The headquarters of the proposed commission will be in Atlanta and will be supported by the various churches. A systematic campaign will be conducted by these men in each city, beginning in Atlanta and in the respective smaller cities of the State. The resolutions are as follows: "The church has spoken in the 'Pastoral Letter' of 1913 with no uncertain sound of the risk of soul involved in certain modern customs and amusements, and we, the loyal members of the Diocese of Atlanta, accept this wise counsel and propose to make more widely and thoroughly known that the church views with alarm the widespread laxity of social uses and calls upon the clergy and laity alike to use all influences by example and precept to correct these grave and corrupting evils.

"That we believe the fault lies mainly with the parents in the lack of control of their children in sex questions and we earnestly and affectionately appeal to them to exercise their parental authority and to see that their children are properly instructed in the principles of morality and the duties of citizenship."

Often Ill Health

Can be traced directly to wrong food and drink. This cause, more than any other, creates personal discomfort—often disease. Your doctor can confirm that coffee contains a drug, caffeine, which is the common cause of headache, biliousness, indigestion, nervousness, heart trouble, and a long train of aches and ills which bring misery to many who might otherwise be well and happy. Anyone who values health enough to make an easy test can be free from coffee ills by changing to

ATLANTA LEADS METHODISTS IN GROWTH

North Georgia Conference Begins Forty-seventh Annual Session at Elberton.

ELBERTON, Nov. 20.—The report of the Rev. Dr. W. P. Lovejoy, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, made to the North Georgia Methodist Conference, at the opening session this morning, showed that the Atlanta Methodists have been exceedingly active this year. No district in the conference made a report better than that of Atlanta. Dr. Lovejoy stated that substantial progress had been made in every department of church life and that $75,000 had been expended in the district on church building; more than $10,000 is now in hand to build a church in Havana, while two others are in process of erection.

All Salaries Paid. Dr. Lovejoy also stated that all pastors' salaries have been paid in full, all benevolent collections well in hand and more than $40,000 was paid by the district for missions, of which amount the Methodist women of Atlanta contributed a large part. Atlanta Sunday schools have an enrollment of pupils amounting to 40 per cent of church membership. Some of the schools have doubled in membership during the year. Epworth Leagues in Atlanta lead in that work in Georgia and raised $1,000 for the Havana church.

Urges More Christianity. Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, president of the conference, delivered an address to the preachers urging that Christian work be done through spiritual agencies and not through governmental policies, schools of philosophy and such. He pleaded for a more cultured and more consecrated ministry. Dr. W. B. Dillard, of Rome, was elected secretary of the conference. Heartily welcome greetings were extended the visitors by the Rev. R. C. Clecker, pastor of the Elberton church; Mayor J. M. Wester and Judge George Grogan in behalf of Elberton County citizens. Bishop Denny made an appropriate reply.

Women's Rights an Issue. Since the question of giving laity rights to women is of some interest to this conference, there is no little speculation as to the meaning of Bishop Collins Denny's remark when he stated this morning that he believed in giving to women every opportunity consistent with service for that such opportunities are given them. No one knows as yet whether Bishop Denny favors giving full laity rights to women, and it is discussed among conference members as to whether or not he will urge this body to memorialize the General Conference, which meets next April in Oklahoma City, to grant the petition of the women for rights. Marietta is putting up a stiff fight against Rome to secure the 1914 conference. A joint invitation from the Marietta First Methodist Church, City Council and Board of Trade is supplemented by printed matter and painted signs.

The Nemo Is the Only Non-Stretchable Corset

If you have never worn a Nemo you are thoroughly acquainted with the inconvenience of a Corset that stretches and ultimately loses its shape. What causes the ordinary Corset to stretch? The cut edges of the material, for they are not properly finished to prevent giving after they are sewed together. The Nemo Corset does not stretch, because every edge of material is stretched by pressure and then corrugated before it is stitched.

For Other Reasons, the Nemo Is a Most Unique Corset

For instance, the "Bridge" that eliminates all possible pressure on the diaphragm, the bands of the Lastikops webbing that reduces the hips and abdomen by automatic massage.

Corset Instruction

Few women know how to adjust and wear a corset properly. Still fewer know when and why a corset is doing them physical harm. That explains a majority of corset-troubles. The wise woman of to-day studies the corset problem, because it means so much to her health and good looks.

MRS. RICHARDSON, Lecturer and Instructor, From the Nemo Hygienic-Fashion Institute

—is giving just such instructions here this week, explaining the special features of the newest Nemo and Smart Set Corsets. Come and learn practical corset-facts that will do you lots of good.

BARLOW CHILDS AWARDED TO MOTHER

Superior Court Upholds Action of Lumpkin Ordinary—Millionaire to Drop Fight.

Mrs. Edith Barlow has been awarded the custody of her 11-year-old daughter, Madeline, by Judge Zera Littlejohn, of the Superior Court, at Americus, upholding the action of the Ordinary of Stewart County in taking the child from the father.

Shortly afterward he went to Cuba, taking Madeline with him. Later he returned. Last summer he returned to Stewart County with the child. Mrs. Edith Barlow immediately went to Lumpkin and obtained the child, who refused to leave her. When the father attempted to take the child, Mrs. Barlow filed habeas corpus proceedings before the Ordinary of Stewart County, who awarded the child to her, holding that Barlow had violated the order of the court in taking the child to Cuba, where the mother could not see it.

The case was remarkable in that it was pending in three different courts in five different cases at the same time. Contempt proceedings were brought in Atlanta, but they were dropped later. There was another hearing in Lumpkin, followed by a reopening of the case in Americus.

BAGWELL COLLEGE SUBJECT OF EDITORIAL

It is a pleasing experience always with the editor of The Golden Age to find his old Mercer University college mates "making good" out on the broad campus of the big world. J. O. Bagwell, president of Bagwell Business College, has just returned from an extended tour through the great Northwest, where he has made a visit to the largest and leading business colleges of the country, studying new methods and gaining a store of ideas which he is working out in his own famous school. As a result of Mr. Bagwell's investigation the fall term has opened with a new impetus and never in the history of the institution has there been such eagerness among the students and such rapid enrollment, as a greater number have been impressed with the thoroughness and efficiency of the school that offers a good position in the shortest time. Employers are waking up to the progress of the school to the extent that it has been impossible to fill the demand for stenographers, bookkeepers and office workers, that has been made upon the employment department of the school.

President of Bagwell Business College.

Mrs. J. O. Bagwell, who was for two years secretary of the Atlanta Young Woman's Christian Association, spends a part of the day with the young women of the school, looking after their moral and spiritual welfare and encouraging them to the best in their work for themselves and others. Miss Georgia Downing, who was office secretary of the Y. W. C. A. with Mrs. Bagwell, is now a student in the school and is helping in the work for young women that Mrs. Bagwell is doing. There are a great number of Y. W. C. A. girls in the school as a result of this work, and they have organized themselves into a "Campfire" Order, which is a club of national reputation, reaching out in its helpfulness to other young women and helping them to become more efficient, and more capable of facing the problems of the business world they are about to enter. It is a proud claim of these educational leaders that they follow a student from (HOME) to a first-class position, and the worthy ambition to be more useful in the world.

HUNTERS SWARM TO FIELDS; BIRD SEASON OPEN

Sale of County Licenses Totals 1,840, but State Permits Are Not Selling Heavily.

There was a gathering of the clans at dawn Thursday.

With the first sign of Old Sol beaming over Georgia they could be seen almost any place where houses were few and fields and autumn leaves numerous. With guns and dogs they awaited the coming of the light.

The bird season is on. From now until the last day of February the season for dove, bob white and most every other game bird is open.

According to the reports concerning this fall's crop of birds, game is more plentiful than ever and will withstand the slaughter which starts to-day.

The sale of licenses has not been so great. Three kinds are offered by the Game Warden—the county license costing $1, the State license costing $2 and the non-resident license costing $15. The sale of county licenses have led all others with a total of 1,840.

The wardens throughout the State have been given rigid instructions to see that the law is obeyed. No man will be allowed to hunt on property excepting his own without a license and with a license he must get permission to hunt on land other than his own from the owner. No hunter will be allowed to bag more than 25 birds in one day, except doves. Forty of these may be killed in a day.

POLITICS PURE IN U. S. NOW, SAYS DANIELS

Elections Not Sold. Selfish Campaign Gifts Under Ban, and Statesmanship High.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Nov. 20.—That statesmanship in the United States is steadily climbing toward a higher plane was the declaration made here to-day in an address by Joseph Daniels, Secretary of the Navy. Speaking on the purification of politics, Mr. Daniels said:

"No more are elections sold in America. Contributions for campaign purposes from selfish interests are under ban.

"And this better political condition is not confined to any one party. There was a day when it was not regarded disreputable for a member of Congress to be seen intoxicated and when he had no shame when charged with winning money at the gaming table. These and like evils have not altogether disappeared, but intoxication is most rare among men in public life, and gambling is under ban. We are making mighty progress in education and uplift to mankind.

"We have now come to see that he who serves his party best serves his country best."

Alter Capital Social Scheme to Avert War On Women of Cabinet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—A compromise between the women of the Cabinet and the Congressional women bids fair to-day to avert the threatened social war, much to the ill-concealed joy of the respective husbands of the two factions.

It is now proposed that the Cabinet women be permitted peacefully to restrict their official calling to the Vice President's wife, wives of the Supreme Court Justices, ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries, make dinner calls, assist at teas and receptions and favor the women of the Congressional circle by asking them to assist at their Wednesday receptions in precise routine and give a series of dinner parties, at which Representatives and their wives will always be in the guest lists.

"A simplified society as well as more genuine hospitality," is the slogan of the new democracy.

'Hesitation Toe' Is New Dance Malady

ST. LOUIS, MO., Nov. 20.—The "hesitation toe," blamed on the "hesitation" in that entrancing new waltz, is causing society girls to become flat-footed, according to Dr. Alexander E. Block.

"In the last week I have had a dozen patients come to me suffering with pains in the large toe and the ball of the foot, caused by this dance," he declared.

New Year's Day Miss Clark will be surrounded by a bevy of debutantes, including Miss Dorothy Harvey, daughter of Colonel George Harvey, and Miss Madeline Edison, daughter of Thomas A. Edison.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Vesley's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

AFTER giving up his berth to her in the sleeper, Tom helps the Gold Witch pass her time waiting for another train. He confides to her that he is on his way home, but will stay at the club until the end of the week, because his father's ward, whom he remembers as a fat, squawking brat, has come to stay.

A T the end of the week Tom shows up at home. He finds to his consternation that the peach on the train is his father's ward. But, alas, she was also once the "squawking brat." His father is disappointed to find that the young folks don't seem to take to each other.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

QUIT PLAYING POOL. DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a young chap and know a girl about my age, and I have gone with her to different places of amusement. Now we are mad on account of her seeing me play pool in a poolroom. What would you advise me to do? Get glad or wait till she gets glad? L. M. P.

YOU ANSWER YOUR OWN QUESTION.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a girl of 18 and am considered good looking. I have been constantly going out with a young man of 19 and I know that he loves me. When I am near him I don't think much of him, but when I am not near him I think I love him. Will you kindly tell me what to do about it? TROUBLED.

HER SISTER IS RIGHT. DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am engaged to a young lady and intend to be married in a few months. We have been keeping company for the last eighteen months, but she has never met my people, and she has no great desire to meet them. Her sister thinks she should meet them, and I don't see why, as we love each other dearly.

CONSTANT READER. Your relatives should call on her. They owe her that courtesy. I am glad you love each other, but even perfect love will not absolve you of all obligations. It is your place to insist that your mother and sisters call on her.

A Long Rest

An old club doctor, whose memory was beginning to fail him, was called in to see a young man who was on the sick list. On arriving at the house he found his patient in bed, with nothing the matter with him but a slight cold. After prescribing the usual remedies, he said, "Now my dear sir, you must stay in bed till I come and pay you another visit. He went away and forgot all about his patient, and the time flew by. One day the M. D. came across the young man's mother in the street. The sight of her brought his patient to his mind, and with a start he said, "By the by, how is your son getting on?" To his amazement she replied: "He is still in bed, and they bring his club money every week. He had been there three weeks."

BATTLE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH

Ridgely Lady Tells of Her Fierce Struggle and How She Finally Won.

Ridgely, Tenn.—"If it had not been for Cardui, the woman's tonic," says Mrs. Jennie Estes, of this town, "I honestly believe I would have been in my grave to-day. Therefore, I want to say something good for Cardui, but I can't begin to say enough. "I was sick abed with womanly troubles from February until October, and was in very bad condition. I was treated three or four times a week, but it did me no good. "I battled between life and death, and my husband thought surely I would die. "One day I thought I would give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial. I had no confidence in it at all, but I bought a bottle. In a few days I was up and doing my housework. Now I have gained 15 pounds and feel as well as I ever felt in my life. "I advise all sick and suffering women to try Cardui. It cured me when all other medicines failed. "If you are weak, tired, worn-out or suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women, such as headaches, backache, pains in arm, side or limbs, or any other symptoms of womanly trouble, you are urged to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. We think it will help you."

Journey to-day is impossible. A reassuring message from you will save him from impatience and help his recovery. He has been delirious until last night. Now all he needs is rest and freedom from worry."

His man waited at Scarsdale post-office until a reply came next day. Then he rode with it to the village where Philip was yet sleeping peacefully. Indeed, the clatter of hoofs without aroused him, and he opened his eyes to find the doctor sitting as though he had never quitted his side. "EVELYN'S message must have caused much speculation as to its true significance in the minds of those telegraphic officials through whose hands it passed. It read: "Am absolutely bewildered. Can not help feeling sure that news received to-day really comes from you. In that case, who is it who has been wiring repeatedly, in your name, from Station Hotel, York? Am going immediately to Abingdon. Please send more information. Suspense unbearable. EVELYN."

THE FAMILY CUPBOARD

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT Scarcely had he finished, than, just as if Fate were obligingly waiting for her cue, there was a knock on the door and Emily Nelson, followed by her faithful Mary, entered the room. "Pleased 'good mornings," and then the mother anxiously asked: "My son, Potter?" "I understand that Mr. Kenneth has gone to your hotel, Mrs. Nelson."

A Dramatic Story of High Society Life in New York

Adapted from the Big Broadway Success by Owen Davis. "Before you went away you said that you were to start in at once?" The boy spoke with a sort of slow impatience. Would she forgive his father? How much could a woman forgive? Later the great question of all his life would be: HOW MUCH CAN A MAN FORGIVE? And on the answer would depend sanity and more.

One Mother's Answer. That beautiful exotic creature—the bird-of-paradise society woman—accepts homage, tribute, worship from the man to whom she owes all—and pays no more than a gossamer smile. And one day the grim Auditor, Human Nature, comes along and says, "Dear me—these books don't balance at all. Why, everything is on one side—the debit side. I'll have to see what it all comes to for the creditor." Whereupon the Bird of Paradise pays in terms of love for her tribute of glory and gems—or swatches some clever purveyor buying away from her what she thought hers "by right of eminent domain."

From Girlhood to Womanhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. THE change may be critical and cause untold suffering in after life. The modern young woman is often a "bundle of nerves," "high strung"—fainting spells—emotional—frequently blue and dissatisfied with life. Such girls should be helped over this distressing stage in life—by a woman's tonic and nerve—that has proven successful for over 40 years.

Payment in Kind

He was a poor man, but had been obliged, at last, to call in the doctor to attend his little girl. Her illness had turned out to be a serious one, and the doctor had to pay many visits and leave a good deal of medicine for his patient. Now, however, she was well again, and her father stood in the doctor's room waiting for the bill to be made out. "When at last the account was presented to him he was almost paralyzed to see the huge amount he owed. "The small amount is for the medicine, and the large one is for my calls at your house," said the doctor. "Here," he said, "is the money for the medicine. My wife will herself return your calls!"

INNIS BROWN PICKS AUBURN; MARGIN CLOSE

Famous Official Figures Teams Nearly Even—Says One Freak Play May Win Title.

By Innis Brown. (Famous Football Official.)

FOR the first time in almost a score of years the football championship of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association is going to be fought out on Atlanta soil.

Not even excepting the great Tech-Georgia battle, this is to be the real football card of the local season.

Think ye not that the situation is escaping the attention of local bugs.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that Auburn has the edge.

ALL appear to feel that the game is going to be fought out along the lines of straight old-fashioned football.

Now is Powell as good as he was figured earlier in the season.

When it comes to the backfield, Georgia has the edge.

In addition to McWhorter, the Georgians have Faddock.

IT seems to be seen just what the two teams will try in the way of ground passes.

HARVARD WINS TITLE IF TEAM DEFEATS YALE

At Least Experts Will Declare Them Champs—Situation Is as Clear as Mud.

By Damon Runyon.

Yale tied with Princeton, after losing to Colgate, and moreover outplayed the Jersey Juggernauts most of the way.

Washington and Jefferson held Yale to a scoreless tie, and Washington and Jefferson defeated the University of Pittsburgh.

Therefore, the football situation with reference to the championship is just as clear as mud.

Up to this writing the title belongs to Harvard, which has not played Carlisle, Dartmouth, Colgate nor will in no case play any of the said colleges.

Impossible to Play All. Understand, we do not intimate that Harvard should expose itself to any of the above-named institutions.

Bill Dahlen Was Famous Player Started Career Under Cap Anson

By Sam Crane.

WITH the retirement of Bill Dahlen from the management of the Brooklyn team big league baseball loses one of its most famous veterans.

Dahlen was brought out in 1891 by Captain Anson, who secured him from the Cobleskill (New York) Club, of the New York State League.

Bill did not require another year's seasoning with any minor league club when he joined the White Stockings.

Remember of seeing Dahlen playing second base for the Cobleskill Club in 1890, and he impressed me so much as a "comer" that I tried to induce Jim Mutrie, then manager of the Giants, to grab him.

Anson was tipped off to the prospective value of the up-State youth and never regretted getting his name to a contract, except possibly when Bill, as soon as he outgrew the hayseed stage, developed his kidding propensities.

Anson was not much of a felder in those days—but how could he whale the ball? First basemen in those days were not expected to cover much more ground than they could be buried in.

It was, therefore, Bill's delight, as it was of other Chicago infielders, while at practice, to endeavor to hit Anson on his shins.

Bill didn't show up that afternoon, either—he went to the races instead, accepting a fine rather than face the angry 'Cap'.

Joined Giants in 1905. Dahlen was secured for the Giants by McGraw from Brooklyn in a trade that included Charlie Habb and a big money bonus.

His splendid work that the Giants won the championship that year. He was on the wane after that, however, and was allowed to go to Boston in the famous trade that included Sam McGinn and Frank Gowman.

COACH HEISMAN REVIEWS LAST BIG BATTLES

Believes Vandy Would Have Held Auburn Even if Tom Brown Had Played in Game.

By J. W. Heisman.

In the two big Southern games last Saturday the favorite teams won in both matches. I have already discussed the Georgia vs. Tech game, so have nothing further here to say on that score.

Vanderbilt held Auburn much closer than I or most anybody else thought they would. Auburn let down a bit in her play through overconfidence.

That was where Auburn was fortunate, although sensible as well, for sometimes a college has a large number of stars, but does not know how to alternate them and thus loses the benefit of their combined energies and abilities.

I also stop to remark that in these days of team strategy the first wish of a coach is that his team goes into a game not necessarily its best.

MISSISSIPPI A. and M. performed miracles to hold L. S. U. down to a tie, or else the latter has hit the crutches.

AFTER getting away to a disappointing start, the Clemson team is again vindicating my early judgment. It will be recalled that even after suffering a 20-to-0 slaughter at the hands of Alabama I foretold that they were not down and out, as most everybody supposed.

WHO will be captain of the Crackers next season? Who will cover the first cushion? What players will compose the Cracker infield?

These are the questions local fans are asking these days. Some time to-day Bill Smith, Cracker manager, will land in Atlanta, and he will probably answer some of these questions.

It is a little odd that Sewanee, Alabama and Tennessee should run so true to form in their seeming playing strength against each other.

THE game between Sewanee and Central of Kentucky fell through because of the rain. It is impossible to get through the rain in their game until after the game with Vanderbilt on the 27th.

SPORTING COMMENT

By Ed W. Smith. SPEAKING of famous left hands, we were reminded sharply the other night that we had forgotten to mention one of the greatest that ever flashed in the boxing arena, that possessed by Dal Hawkins, the sensational California lightweight who flourished back in the old days of the late '90s.

LOGAN always claimed afterwards that the Harvey fight was shorter than the Hawkins knockout at Carson City and being in a position to know, both were so fast that the timekeepers hardly could measure them with any degree of accuracy.

DESPITE Hawkins' great speed and skill and undoubted hitting ability with his left hand he fell considerably short of landing near the championship chair.

THE late Malachy Hogan, known to the game at the time, was referee of the preliminary, and George Siler, also of this city and who also since has passed away, acted in the big battle. Malachy instructed the men briefly on how he wanted them to battle and then they stepped back to their corners and the bell sounded.

THESE battles made it look as if he were ripe for the prime old killing with the real champion, and Dal went East to shake down some of the pippins out of the lightweight tree.

AND speaking of quick victories in the roped arena calls to mind the fact that Malachy Ho-

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 20.—Cunningham and his championship contending eleven put in a busy afternoon yesterday trying out new plays and getting the changes in the line-up oiled to easy running order.

With the climax of the Red and Black's season reached last Saturday, and after conceding Auburn the greatest team of her history, the McWhorterites realize that the edge is leveled on the Alabama side.

IT may be true that the Athenians have disappointed the work of Captain Newell, but this had failed to show anything in the Georgia-Auburn game last year and was completely out-classed by the brilliant playing of both McWhorter and Bowden.

CUNNINGHAM will make no changes in his line-up other than announced the first of the week, which will put Crump at half, Powell at full, Conyers at guard and Logan at end. Innis Brown has been named as referee, Williams of Virginia as umpire, while the headlinesman is yet to be selected.

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

Published by THE GEORGIAN COMPANY At 29 East Alabama St., Atlanta, Ga. Entered as second-class matter at postoffice at Atlanta, under act of March 3, 1879.

The Boss or The Clock?

WHICH DO YOU BEAT TO WORK?

THE PAY OF OUR JUDGES— Must Be Increased to Retain Upon the Bench the Right Sort of Men.

The press of the State of Georgia is echoing from every quarter the demand of the Atlanta Georgian that better salaries be paid the judges of the courts of the Commonwealth.

Whatever may be the status of other departments of the State—and it is admitted that there are underpaid officials in several—it seems agreed on all hands that it is of first importance NOW that the judiciary be taken care of righteously and fairly in the matter of salaries.

Remember these facts: The judges of the Supreme and Appeals Courts, the final tribunals of review, receive only $4,000 per annum each; the judges of the Superior Courts receive $3,000 each.

Think of those niggardly salaries. Think of the personnel of the courts, as they are and as they should be kept, and then ask yourself, as a taxpayer, as a property owner, and as a citizen loving law and order, if it is FAIR AND SQUARE DEALING UPON THE PART OF GEORGIA NOT TO PAY THOSE JUDGES ENOUGH TO LIVE ON.

With respect to the Supreme and Appeals Courts, the Rome Tribune-Herald aptly and justly says:

If Georgia expects to keep the best lawyers in the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals it will have to raise their salaries.

Resignations from the Supreme Court have been frequent during late years, owing to the fact that the judges could not afford to hold the positions.

It is of paramount importance to the Commonwealth that the very best legal timber should compose these courts. Many lawyers of scarcely medium ability are earning more than the judges of the highest courts in the State.

A first-rate lawyer takes a position on the Supreme or Appellate Court. He gives up his practice and devotes his entire time to the business of the State. When he returns to the practice, it is necessary to begin all over again.

These judges should be paid salaries commensurate with the service rendered.

If the State of Georgia expects to retain their services that is about all there is to it.

That, indeed, IS "about all there is to it." And the comment of the Rome paper is but one of many similarly worded and thought out, coming recently from all sections of Georgia.

Georgia should be both ASHAMED AND AFRAID TO UNDERPAY ITS JUDICIARY.

Salaries for Supreme and Superior Court judges, provided to-day upon a basis established twenty-five years ago, are unfair, necessarily.

The courts, after all, constitute the greatest and surest bulwark of the people against oppression and injustice.

The people of Georgia can ill afford to be FOOLISH in respect to these tribunals for the administration of the law.

The present Legislature, when it meets next summer, will do well to take under serious and statesmanlike consideration the question of better salaries for Georgia judges.

The Legislature is the vehicle provided by the people for the equitable adjustment of problems of this kind. And throughout all Georgia there exists an earnest belief that the judiciary is at present SHAMEFULLY AND DEPLORABLY UNDERPAID.

The people undoubtedly will approve that Legislature possessed of sufficient common sense and courage to right the crying wrong now imposed upon the judges of Georgia.

Fling Your Tears and Worries Away From EDWIN MARKHAM.

DR. ORISON SWETT MARDEN, in "The Joys of Living," issued by Crowell, sets forth some ideas that many of us might do well to adopt. Observe how he flouts fear and worry. "There are no worse enemies of happiness than fear and worry. They are always and everywhere a curse. There is nothing which we are called upon to meet in life; there is no misfortune or disaster that can ever come to us which we can not bear better without these joy-killers. "Fear is an old, old enemy, indeed, and worry its hated accomplice. Primitive fear we have always had with us, but worry is the disease of our own age. In our enlightenment we both pity and ridicule the barbarous man who lived in mortal fear of his cruel gods. But have we not also our exacting demons before which our souls cringe and our powers wither and fall? "Many people are always afraid of something. They do not have courage enough really to enjoy life. They are afraid to mingle with those who are mentally their superiors or who have been more favored by fortune. Fearful that their powers of mind or purse may be disclosed, they thus forfeit many advantages and pleasures to be derived from social intercourse. "We were made to dominate or be dominated. It was not in-

If your time for getting to work is 8 o'clock in the morning, you know the boss, who has made his PILE, doesn't get to the office until 8:30 or 9 o'clock. Do you just slide in ahead of him, thinking you are "putting something over" and cheating the Boss out of a half or three-quarters of an hour's time each day? Or do you beat the clock each morning by a few minutes, full of "pep" and ready for any question the boss might ask you about the business, when he does come in?

It's always easier to sleep a few minutes late in the morning after that game of pool or poker the night before, thinking "oh, I can skin into the office before the boss gets there and he won't be wise." But the boss IS wise—or he wouldn't be the BOSS—and when promotion time comes, you will find you have been beating no one but YOURSELF; also that the thing worth beating in the business world is the CLOCK, and not the BOSS. H. C.

The Charities of the Rich By REV. DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST.

DR. FRANCIS PEABODY made an exceedingly compact and telling statement at the service recently held in memory of the late Robert C. Ogden, when he said: "Money prodigally bestowed does not atone for money criminally gotten." There is nothing original in the thought, but few could have expressed it so concisely and pungently. The way a thing is said makes out half of its effect. The truth of Dr. Peabody's aphorism will pass across the minds of people in comfortable circumstances without leaving very deep impression, but it means a great deal to a poor man whose life is a continual struggle with the problem of ways and means, and who believes, rightly or wrongly, that some of the funds that are dealt out in large masses of charity by the extremely wealthy included money that really belonged to himself, and that the great fortunes accumulated in these days and prodigally expended are made up in considerable part of wages due to the laboring man, but unjustly withheld. The way the matter is considered by the poor is expressed in unmistakable terms by the writer of a letter that recently came to hand. "I would not advise any boy how to make millions of dollars, because no man ever made his millions without depriving the poor of what belonged to them; and no matter how much they fool around with their so-called charity, giving a little here and a little there of what they took, which is over-plenty, they never do full justice. "Giving a million dollars or so to some institution or college that a poor boy can't go to because he has to pay to enter, and then lowering the poor man's pay or going up a cent on a gallon of oil or raising the price on some other article in order to make it balance, is a nice thing to do and

THIS is a long-time, regular stock question, a general problem, and I have been asked this probably as many times as: "What causes a forked twig to turn when carried in the hands over hidden water?" "Which moves the faster, the top or the bottom of a cart wheel?" "Will a fish weigh more or less in water on a balance?" "Will the turtle outrun the hare?" "Is Genesis true?" "What is electricity?" "Has there ever been a general flood?" "How big was Noah's ark?" and as many as a hundred more, probably, that come perpetually. But "is man limitless?" is a question of so much general human interest that I will make a very weak and ineffectual attempt to answer it. I have already answered it hundreds of times in 43 years affirmatively, but have not given rigid proof. Here is a question: "Dear Sir: I was in the observatory several weeks ago and heard you state in a lecture that there are 1,500,000,000 humans now living, but only 50 are able to think a thought that had not been thought before. Did you really mean this?" I was speaking of the world's mighty mathematicians, and beyond all doubt there are not more than 50 that are able to add to this colossal mass of concrete human wisdom—mathematics. I do not really know, but it must be true that there are not more than 50 humans now living that have the amazing power to add to the now known integrals. For man is now able to sink sounding vectors into very infinitude. These plummet let fall in space, or rather, ends of very lightning penetrating from their source of origin, the brain of man, the most interminable depths, are as endless as space itself. That is, equations where formidable exponential variables are themselves infinite are already known. These equations are actually infinite. The reader must reply: "Are the master minds able to solve infinite equations themselves infinite? For let two humans be walking along the street. Both look alike in that both have heads, bodies, arms, hands, legs, etc., and both would be counted as human by the census man. But one is many millions of times more exalted than the other. Between them there is a 'great gulf fixed.'" If one would like to secure a glimpse, even a short-time view, "through a glass darkly," of the mind power of one of his higher brethren he can, by studying easy scientific books at first, and then a little more difficult during, say, two or three hours in 24, finally advance to a place where he can sense the incredibly wonderful force concentrated into one of these equations. Mind power is in a higher state of concentration in a modern differential equation than is mechanical force in the highest dynamite and cordite. This is the question: Is a being that hourly handles infinite things infinite?

AN OLD LANE By WILLIAM F. KIRK

WINDING 'neath a crumbling gate, Weedy and all desolate, Where in long forgotten days Lilac bushes waved their sprays And the wild rose, full of dew, Single-petalled fragrance threw; Where in years long passed away Trembling lovers worshipped May, Now it stretches, weird and grim, Over toward a forest dim As a disappointed soul Looks in vain to find its goal; All the fragrance, all the bloom, Dead and turned to haunting gloom. There it was that long ago, Standing in the sunset's glow I beseeched a girl divine To be mine and only mine; There she said, with haughty glance "You big rube, there ain't a chance!"

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Writes on SUCCESS

Its Tools—Purpose, Aspiration and Courage—are Within Ourselves. Shakespeare Wrote His Dramas With but 5,000 Words at His Command.

Written for The Atlanta Georgian By Ella Wheeler Wilcox (Copyright, 1912.)

MANY people lay their failure to make a name in the world to the lack of proper materials with which to work out their special lines of endeavor. Tools are necessary to the good artisan and artist; BUT GENIUS MAKES ITS OWN TOOLS AS WELL AS ITS OWN OPPORTUNITIES. Shakespeare made his immortal dramas and poems WITH ONLY FIVE THOUSAND WORDS, AT HIS COMMAND. From an exchange we take the statement as follows: "Bullock's Complete English Dictionary, in 1616, the year of Shakespeare's death, contained 6,080 words. Thomas Blount's 'Glossographia' (1656) improved on this and was superseded in its turn by Edward Phillips' 'New World of English Words' (1655), a small folio containing 13,000 words; and by the time it reached its sixth edition (1706) the number had grown to 20,000 odd. "Johnson's Dictionary, published on April 15, 1755, though it improved all predecessors off the face of the earth by the perfection of its system and the soundness and breadth of its reading, contained only 50,000 words, and it remained master of the field, even at this modest total, until Noah Webster's came along in 1828, and Worcester's 'Comprehensive Pronouncing and Explanatory English Dictionary' in 1830, with 160,000 and 105,000 words, respectively." The article goes on to state that "the latter part of the nineteenth century kept the ball rolling. The 'Imperial Dictionary' contained 200,000 words, and Dr. Funk's 'Standard Dictionary' (1894) entered the field with half as many again—318,000 words in all. There have been half a dozen editions of this, and the new one next September reaches high-water mark with a total of 450,000 words, most of which are English beyond question." Yet, despite this fact, no Shakespeare has arisen to contest the honors of the one who had only 5,000 word tools for his use. Shakespeare did not travel, or speak many tongues. Perhaps his power lay in staying with himself, in digging in his own mind and soul for knowledge and wisdom, and in making no effort to find unusual words wherewith to convey his meaning. It would be interesting to know just what he would have done with our vast vocabulary of words if he had been given one of the new dictionaries. But it is more interesting to realize what he did without these words. And it is worth thinking about, whenever we are tempted to complain, that we lack the necessities for making a success in any one direction. The mind that is bent on a purpose and the soul that is aflame with aspiration, and the heart that is strong with courage, MUST attain success. Nothing can prevent it. The man who is possessed of these three things will fashion his tools, and hew his way through rocks, and build bridges over rivers, and cut stairs in frowning mountains, and climb over them to the goal beyond. All elements of success lie in ourselves.

ONE great difference between the navigation of the water and that of the air must never be lost sight of—in the first case the navigator travels on the surface of the element that bears him; in the second, he travels through and in the midst of that element. The aeroplanist is rather a fish than a sailor. But his machine has no buoyant bladder, like a balloon or a fish, and must depend upon its motion to support it. Possibly if Sir William Ramsay's reported discovery of a gas sixteen times lighter than hydrogen proves to be a reality aeroplanes may hereafter be furnished with supporting bladders which will not be too cumbersome for use, like the gas bags of today, but, in the meantime, the machine must be developed along its original lines, which exclude any support except that furnished by the reaction of its planes on the air. Therefore, to turn a somersault with an aeroplane and to make it describe vertical curves and circles in the air is not an idle amusement for those who like to risk their lives in hare-brained adventure, but a very practical method of developing the art of aerial navigation. The "airman" unlike the mariner, is not a navigator in two dimensions only, but in three. He has to deal with cubical space and his evolutions are performed up and down as well as to right and left. He finds no surface in the air to glide upon except as he makes it for himself, and his voyages are made at continually changing levels. The air is all around him and its currents may assail him from any direction; accordingly, he must render himself familiar with all their vagaries and be prepared to take advantage of every peculiarity that they may present. The man who loses his life in advancing our knowledge of the ways of the air is a martyr to as worthy a cause as was ever offered to the spirit of heroism.

Letters From the Readers of The Georgian

PUBLICITY THE CURING LIGHT. Editor The Georgian. If the people who live along the Mississippi River and its important tributaries only realized the possibilities in the simple developments that can be made, there would be one continuous howl that would awaken our inactive Congress to "sit up" and take notice. What is needed most on the river flood question is publicity, but almost all the cities speak of floods in a whisper, or behind closed doors. They won't admit that floods exist. They don't want it mentioned because it may hurt the town. Consequently, they say, "We are trying to forget it." What foolishness! What idiocy! It's like the family that conceals a leper, or a case of a contagious disease. Do we ever cure a plague or disease by not mentioning it, by keeping the facts under cover? No! Do we have laws governing pure foods because we kept the death rate and their causes behind closed doors and spoke of them in whispers? A SUBSCRIBER.
