ATLANTA'S BASEBALL INTERESTS IN MOBILE

Final Game of Season Here Won and Tie for Leadership Is Maintained—All Depends on Today's Clash in the Gulf City.

Victory for Pelicans Means Pennant for Smith's Team, Which Has Made Remarkable Record in Closing Days of Close Race.

Atlanta's baseball season of 1913 passed into history yesterday afternoon with a victory, 5 to 0, over Chattanooga, the pennant race still in a tie, and the stage setting one of a wild and whirling activity and excitement never before approached at Ponce DeLeon Park.

Down in Mobile to-day the 1913 Southern League pennant will be won or lost. If Mobile beats New Orleans, the Alabama team will win the flag. If New Orleans wins the game, the prized trophy will fly from Ponce DeLeon Park next year.

Should, perchance, rain prevent the playing of the game, or should the game end in a tie, Atlanta and Mobile will still be tied for the championship. In that case, the league will order one game or a series of games to be played to decide the issue.

Therefore, all Atlanta will be watching the outcome at Mobile to-day, for history will be in the making.

Yesterday's game was won handily by the Crackers, Carl Thompson's masterful hurling being supported by a savage attack that put the Town Boys out in front in the first inning. Chattanooga fought hard all the way, but never threatened.

10,000 Fans See Contest.

Ten thousand fans banded the playing field, and they were on the thin edge of hysterics.

The excited tempo of the crowd was tested in the usual Elberfeld row, which ended with some rough and needless handling of the peppy manager by two big policemen, after he had been ordered off the field by the umpire for arguing about a decision.

Two policemen seized Elberfeld, and one of them slugged him, and only prompt action by President Callaway of the Atlanta club diverted a large amount of pending difficulty, as a thousand fans from the overflow crowd were surging around the row in a jiffy.

President Callaway held back the angry mob and soothed the troubled Elberfeld and got him away from the police, and off the field just in time to prevent the game being called forfeited to Atlanta by the umpire.

Then the crowd exploded again as the last play of the game sent the season into history.

Cushion Battle Begins.

There was a tremendous roar and a volley of cushions went sailing skyward. Some of them landed on the heads of the fans in the field, and were returned with force and accuracy.

And then the battle was on. A thousand of cushions darkened the evening light, while the air was full of sound and fury, and a general attack began on the stands from which the defenders showered still more cushions, like vast confetti, upon the besiegers.

It was all in a great sport, of course—but it was a bit rough on the women and children. Hundreds were penned in the upper part of the stands and behind posts, trying to protect their hats, which went to smash by the score under the hail of leather squares.

Shouts and shrieks featured the combat, but finally, after three officers, each with a pair of protesting captives, had made their way from the field, the exuberance simmered down.

The season of 1913 was over—in Atlanta.

Mobile Sees Real Finish.

Down in Mobile, however, Charley Frank and his doughy men do battle with the Gulls in the game that is to decide the pennant race of 1913.

Frank is fighting for Atlanta to-day. The Crackers, winning 39 of their last 41 games, have wrought a record that will blaze in history along its splendid path to a tie for the pennant, up to the last game of the year.

It's up to New Orleans. They fought craftily and grimly yesterday, and Atlanta, hundreds of miles from that fateful conflict, was at one moment within one little bit, one little error, of the pennant. But Mobile won and thereby kept their fighting chance.

But if the Crackers win the pennant by the thin margin of half a game, or if they lose it by the same narrow border, one thing remains untarnished and undimmed.

Poison Bracelet Her Talisman in Wreck

Fair Cousin of 'Uncle Joe' Cannon Never Boards Train Without Charm.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—"This wreck of the New Haven makes me believe more and more in my charmed bracelet. I never go by train, auto or boat without wearing my cyanide of potassium bracelet."

Mrs. Claire McMillan, former wife of Governor Odde, of Nevada, and cousin of Uncle Joe Cannon, made these remarks. She is still young and very beautiful.

A gold bracelet filled with cyanide of potassium! Who ever heard of a bracelet so tragic in its meaning?

Mrs. McMillan has worn it since a train wreck in 1904.

"The accident was so terrible," she says, "and I was so unprepared for a tragedy that then and there on the Western desert, where I lay all day in the hot sun, almost dying for a drop of water, I made up my mind that if I ever escaped alive I would wear about me a dose of potassium cyanide that would end my misery."

"I still wear my bracelet, and although I have escaped injury I have been in racing automobiles going at 80 miles an hour and in other dangerous situations. That gave me confidence—for, after all, one must die, but why suffer?"

Switzerland Again Wins World Shoot

France Second and United States Third—Canada, Forced to Use Borrowed Weapons, Last.

CAMP PERRY, OHIO, Sept. 6.—The championship of the world with the free rifle, which goes to the winner of the International Union's 300-meter five-men match, was won today by Switzerland, for the fifteenth time since 1897. The score of the winning team was 4,957. The winners get $1,000 in gold.

France was second with 4,771, and got $900. The United States landed third in the field of seven, with 4,577, and received $800. The Swedes, who were fourth with 4,571, got $700. The Argentine Republic was fifth with 4,080, and received $600, and Peru sixth, with 3,853, and received $500. The Canadian team shot the match with borrowed rifles, being prohibited from using their own weapons. They scored 3,745, and won $300.

Joy Riders Held After Street Fight

Negro Strikes White Man Who Had Enjoyed Supper and Refreshments in Cafe.

Henry Frazier and Dennis Frazier, of No. 29 Circle street, and Nina Jackson, of Forsyth, after taking a joy ride in a cab Saturday night, were arrested following an encounter with a negro, who knocked Henry Frazier in the head.

The party, according to the story, took a cab near the Viaduct, after participating in a hearty supper, with drinks. Beyond the Viaduct Henry Frazier and the woman were accosted by a negro, who hit Frazier in the face with his fist. The negro escaped. Despite their story, the three were held on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Maud Allan Denies Indian Ban on Dance

Manager Says She Will Continue Her Performances Despite Agitation Created.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE AMERICAN. LONDON, Sept. 6.—Maud Allan, who is away resting from a slight breakdown, in answer to a telegram, replied:

"I have absolutely no knowledge of any official ban on my dancing in India."

Her manager, James MacLeod, said to-day that she intends to proceed with the program and is undisturbed by the agitation created here.

NIGHT SESSION BRINGS TARIFF VOTE MONDAY

Committee of the Whole Concludes Its Work on the Measure at 10:45 p. m.

NO MORE AMENDMENTS

Poin Dexter's Plea for Commission Lost—Republicans Join to Rush Bill Through.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—At 10:45 to-night the tariff bill was concluded in committee of the whole and reported to the Senate. No amendments not approved by the Finance Committee will be made. The last vote taken to-night was on Mr. Poin Dexter's amendment for a tariff commission, which, like that of Senator Cummins, was rejected by a vote of 33 to 21.

When the bill was reported out of committee by the Vice President, Chairman Simmons asked for a reprint and announced that when the Senate met Monday morning at 10 o'clock he would ask it to remain in continuous session until the tariff bill finally was passed.

Senator Gallinger, Republican leader, replied that he, too, hoped the bill would be disposed of on that day. This announcement was received with handclapping by the Democrats, who were joined by the Democratic members of the House who were present to watch the last stages of the fight. The Senate then adjourned.

At 9 o'clock the dutiable and free list had been finally acted upon in the committee of the whole. From that time on the discussion was based upon various administrative features. All efforts to amend were futile, and when the Senate finally did adjourn over Sunday, Chairman Simmons and his lieutenants were upheld on every point.

Wheat Amendment Lost.

Senator Poin Dexter's amendment to place a countervailing duty on logs and shingles was rejected, and when Senator McCumber moved to increase the countervailing duties of wheat from 10 to 20 cents a bushel he was defeated by a vote of 41 to 27. The two Louisiana Senators voted with the Republicans, while Senators Cummins, Kenyon, Fall and Poin Dexter voted with the Democrats.

The Finance Committee agreed to the motion to strike out the countervailing duty on mechanically-ground wood pulp wood, as provided by the House on the ground that under the Canadian law this proposed duty would be useless.

The paragraph placing leather on the free list was strengthened, and what was held by some to be a joker eliminated. This "joker" was found in the punctuation which would have had the effect of shifting certain classes of leather from the free to the dutiable list.

Tariff Board Plan Rejected.

The duty on matches in bulk was increased from one-fourth of a cent to three-eighths of a cent a thousand. The amendment of Senator Works for a Tariff Commission of nine men at $10,000 a year each was rejected by a vote of 37 to 32.

A long debate followed Senator Lodge's amendment to retain the House provision on works of art. In this debate Senators Lodge and Root paid a glowing tribute to the late J. Pierpont Morgan in connection with his art collection, which eventually is to become public property. On the theory that all art works in private collections sooner or later become the property of the people or are transferred to public galleries, Mr. Lodge

Advertises to Sell Himself as Slave

'Wanted, a Master,' is Novel Plea of Man Who Can Not Find Work in Rome, Ga.

ROME, GA., Sept. 6.—A peculiar want ad appeared in to-day's issue of a paper here. It read:

WANTED—A master. Able-bodied man, good references, willing to work, will sell himself into slavery for his keep. I have got to eat. State best price. W. H. The man who put in the ad was neatly dressed and appeared to be about 28 years old. His appearance was that of a foreigner. Twice previously the same man had advertised for work without compensation other than food and clothes.

Progressives Called Weaklings by Bryan

Mooser is Republican Who is Ashamed of It, Declares Secretary, on Maine Stump.

PORTLAND, MAINE, Sept. 6.—A Progressive is a Republican who is ashamed of it—and hasn't the courage to be a Democrat.

This is the definition given at Wintertop by Secretary William J. Bryan in a speech which he made in behalf of William R. Pettigall, Democratic candidate for Congress. The Secretary bombarded the Third District with speeches.

Parcel Post Cuts The Cost of Living

Fruit Drops From 12 1-2 to 5 Cents a Pound When Shipment Is Made Through Mails.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—How the parcel post did something toward reducing the cost of living in Gallup, N. M., was related to-day in a report to Postmaster General Burleson.

The report said the price of fruit on the Gallup market dropped from 12 1-2 cents a pound to 5 cents when a parcel post shipment came in from Colorado.

Harry Orchard to Apply for Pardon

Church Backs the Slayer of Governor Steunenberg in Fight for Freedom.

BOISE, IDAHO, Sept. 6.—Harry Orchard, self-confessed assassin of former Governor Frank Steunenberg and at one time sentenced to be hanged, has published the required notice in a Caldwell paper that he will apply to the Board of Pardons at the October meeting for a full and absolute pardon.

The Metropolitan Church at Waukesha, Wis., is at the head of the movement for the pardon.

Dewey Declares Navy Ready for War

Admiral Says He Knows Nothing of Army, but Sea Force is All Right.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., Sept. 6.—When asked to-day if he regarded the United States prepared for any unexpected trouble with a foreign nation Admiral George Dewey said: "So far as the army is concerned I am not prepared to give an opinion, but I do not hesitate to say that the navy has never been so well prepared for war as at the present time."

Miss Eleanor Wilson Denies She's Engaged

Name of Youngest Daughter of President Linked With That of New York Man.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Miss Eleanor Wilson, youngest daughter of the President, is not engaged to marry Mervin Nelson, of New York. Rumor linked their names when they were seen motoring with friends here recently.

Mr. Nelson's sister said to-day that the rumor was so unreasonable as to be absurd.

Miss Jessie Wilson To Wed on Nov. 25

Ceremony to Take Place at the White House—Details Are Not Made Public.

WINDSOR, VT., Sept. 6.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson to-day announced the date of the marriage of her daughter, Jessie, to Francis B. Sayre as November 25, and that the ceremony would take place in the White House.

Other details in connection with the wedding were not given out.

HOLD-UPS FIRE ON AUTO; THUGS GET MAN'S $200

Chauffeur and Girl in Motor Car Are Assailed by Three Negro Highwaymen.

GROGER LOSES DAY'S CASH

Victim Pursued With Milk Bottle as Weapon, Falls and Is Cut by Broken Glass.

Two sensational holdups, one in which three negroes fired a fusillade of shots at occupants of an automobile and the other in which a West End grocer was knocked down and robbed of $200, occurred Saturday night.

The automobile occupied by C. C. Allen, a chauffeur living at No. 378 East Hunter street, and a young woman telephone operator at the Terminal Station, was proceeding along Garnett street when, at No. 15, the negroes stepped into the middle of the street in front of the machine, and brandishing revolvers, ordered Allen to halt.

Calling to his companion to get to the bottom of the car, Allen put on speed and shot into the midst of his assailants. The negroes broke away before the automobile and began firing on it as it passed them. More than a dozen shots were fired, two of them hitting the rear tires of the machine. Allen brought his machine to a stop a block away, and ran back to fight the negroes.

One of Trio Caught.

Orn Waddell, 22 Garnett street, who had been attracted by the shots, joined Allen and followed the negroes to the Southern Railway yards, a short distance away. Here yard detectives of the Southern Railway also took up the chase, and a few minutes later one of the negroes was captured under a freight car. He gave his name to the police as Joe Hunter, 33 years old, of Macon.

R. L. Orchard, a West End grocer, was held up and robbed of $200 by two highwaymen in front of his home, 235 Lee street, Saturday night. Though they handled him roughly, the thugs did not hurt him, but a minute later, when he pursued them, he fell, broke a milk bottle he was carrying and cut himself painfully about the eyes.

Orchard closed his store at Gordon and Lee street at about 11 o'clock and placed all the cash from the day's sales in a canvas sack. This he pocketed, and started home.

Tackled a la Football.

From the shadows in front of his home, two young men jumped at him. According to his story, one seized him around the neck, cutting off his breath, and the other, diving at his knees after the most approved manner of football tacklers, knocked his feet from under him and hurled him to the ground.

Then the man who had secured the half-Nelson on the grocer, changed that hold for one even more effective. He sat on Orchard's head, while his companion went through the grocer's pockets, finding the sack of money. Then they ran into the darkness of an alley.

Orchard gave chase, armed with an empty milk bottle. Several feet back in the alley he stumbled over a low wire fence, lost his hold on the bottle, and fell forward. His face struck the bottle and broke it, and the shattered glass cut him severely.

From his home Orchard notified the police, and Patrolmen Gorman and Evans responded to the call. Their search was without result. Orchard describes his assailants as young men, rather well dressed, and unmasked.

Deaf and Dumb Get Place in Schools

Class of Mutes To Be Given Instruction at Ashby Building by Special Teacher.

For the first time, the Atlanta public school system this year will include a grade for the deaf and dumb children of the city. The new department will be installed Monday at the Ashby Street School building, with Miss Alice Gibney, of Flint, Mich., in charge.

The position of teacher in this department was offered by wire Saturday to Miss Gibney, who promptly sent her acceptance.

Officials of the school system say the new department will be perfected along the lines of the best deaf and dumb schools in the country. At first there will be about ten pupils.

Names U. S. Girl World Venus Grand Duke Picks Modern Helen Czar's Cousin Is Enthusiastic

Miss Marie Tailer (on the left), whom the Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, cousin of the Czar, called "the handsomest girl I have met in America."

Miss Marie Tailer, of New York, Charms Royal Russian Guest With Her Beauty.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The Grand Dukes of the royal House of Romanoff, the reigning family of Russia, have always been noted, above all other things, for their ability to pick beauty.

Therefore, the edict of the Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, who sailed to-day after a brief visit among the smart set of Newport, carries much weight. During his stay the Grand Duke was feted by the most select society of the East. He expressed his preference for the beauty of Miss Marie Tailer, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Tailer, of New York.

"She is divine," declared his highness, after he had been presented to her. "She is a modern Venus—the most beautiful girl I have ever seen. Your American girls can not be surpassed anywhere in the universe."

Lest his royal relative think he was only paying idle compliments, as befits a royal guest in a foreign country, the Grand Duke took back with him a great collection of photographs of American beauties to prove his words. The Duke was an eager collector of photos and also accumulated a number of snapshots of Newport society girls in bathing costumes. Among these are several of Miss Tailer.

The Duke, before sailing to-day, expressed himself as greatly pleased with his visit and declared his intention of returning.

Russian Prince Off 'Mid Salvo of Sneezes

Engelicheff Declares New York Has Prettiest Girls and Most Abominable Climate on Earth.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Prince Nicholas Engelicheff, for fourteen years Russian Consul at Chicago, sailed for Bremen on the George Washington to-day with the Princess and their small son, Prince Vladimir, the Prince and Princess, who is a native Chicagoan, both had severe colds.

"You have the most abominable climate and the prettiest girls in the world," said the Prince. He sneezed. "I believe Mr. Wilson will prove one of the greatest of all Presidents." Sneezed. "You are on the eve of a great era of prosperity." Sneezed. "Once the tariff bill is settled, things are going to boom." Sneezed. "But, oh, what a climate!" Sneezed, sneeze, sneeze.

CITY ENTERS ON RECORD FIGHT OVER ADOPTION OF CHARTER ACT

George H. Hillyer Answers Charge of Mayor Woodward That Bosses Have Framed New Government for Atlanta and Intend to Rule.

Record Battle Over Abolishment of Police and Fire Boards Is Expected—Old Factions Lined Up for Fight Like That of Year Ago.

Atlanta this week enters upon a political campaign which bids fair to surpass all others of recent history in bitterness and political significance. The new charter for Atlanta will be the main issue and it is predicted that before it is adopted there will be a tremendous struggle among the factions.

Leaders of the forces that are fighting for the adoption of the new charter Saturday afternoon made forceful replies to Mayor James G. Woodward's attack on that document.

In interviews for The Sunday American they revealed for the first time the arguments that are to be used in support of the charter, at the same time endeavoring to repudiate the bitter charges of Mayor Woodward.

Mayor Woodward and Aldine Chambers, ex-councilman leader, stand as the heads of the opposing forces in the coming campaign just as they battled as the leaders in the majority campaign one year ago. The issue is not so clear as it was then, but the inside politics is the same.

Woodward's Support Mysterious.

Mayor Woodward, boldly aggressive himself, has little organization in his support. Its strength, therefore, is hard to estimate. The charter advocates have almost the whole Council for generals with the various boards and city department organizations drilled for battle array.

Atlanta has seen enough of these fights before to know that this one will be both exciting and bitter.

George H. Hillyer, ex-Superior Court judge and member of the State Railroad Commission, who has been chosen chairman of the charter campaign committee, outlined the issues as follows:

"First of all, the new charter codifies and simplifies the organic law of our city. That reason alone should be sufficient to cause its adoption. So much of the present charter is obsolete and superfluous.

"It is not aimed at ousting Police Chief J. L. Beavers or Fire Chief W. B. Cummings. I personally want to see them both re-elected."

Abolishes Two Boards.

"The charter does abolish both the Police Commission and the Board of Fire Masters. It creates a Board of Public Safety to administer the affairs of both departments. It is up to the people to elect Councilmen who will elect board members who, in turn, will put the right sort of men in charge of the police and fire departments.

"Other boards are abolished and combined so as to make more effective official bodies.

"But the system of electing representatives from every section and class of the city remains unchanged. That fundamental principle of our government is left undisturbed to give even the humblest of citizens a voice in the administration of Atlanta's affairs.

"The reduction of the Recorder's fine limit of $500 to $200 is separate from the main issue. You may vote for the charter and then leave the Recorder's power as it is or vote for the charter and the reduction.

"The initiative, referendum and recall is to be voted on in the same way. If you want that in addition to the other reforms, vote for it. If not, vote against it."

Alderman James R. Nutting said the most pertinent facts in the charter election are these:

Each Ward Has a Say.

"The departments that have been under fire are the construction and fire departments. Neither of them is administered by boards, as the public understands these bodies. The fire Department has a committee of Council over it called a board. The construction department is handled by straight committees. Boards, on each one of which each ward will have a representative, will be created by the new charter. That will create greater interest in the affairs of the departments and insure far better results.

"In the present charter we have a $3 sanitary tax on every house in the city. A little dwelling in the Fifth Ward pays the same sanitary tax as the Kimball House. The new charter abolishes that tax absolutely."

Mayor Woodward's charges that the object of the new charter is to trench bossism in the city is laughed at by the charter supporters. They say the bosses are the Councilmen, and that the people elect them.

An odd incident of the fight is the fact that in the spring, before the meeting of the General Assembly, Mayor Woodward was urging charter reforms and the members of Council were insisting that the present charter was too good to be changed. Now Council is urging that the changes are imperative and Mayor Woodward is insisting that the present one is better.

This seeming contradiction is explained by the fact that the new charter now before the people was drafted by Council to offset an agitation for more radical changes. And the most significant fact in the fight is that officials advocating the charter are confident that if this one is adopted it would be many a day before Atlanta will pay attention to another propaganda for radical changes in the form of the city's government. The charter election, which comes on September 24, is made more interesting by the fact that one week later, September 30, the election of five Aldermen and ten Councilmen is held. If the charter is adopted, the new Council will name the entire boards.

J. A. Curtis Enters Race Against Thomson in 4th.

Considerable interest was injected into the race for the office of Alderman from the Fourth Ward by the announcement Saturday of the candidacy of J. A. Curtis, Jr. Curtis will oppose for election as Alderman A. D. Thomson, present Councilman, who already has announced.

Mr. Curtis is a retired business man and has been a resident of the Fourth Ward for many years. The two candidates aspire to succeed Alderman James B. Everett, whose term has expired, and who can not be again a candidate.

Entertainment of Reunion Sponsors

Mrs. W. B. Young Appointed Chairman of Jacksonville Committee.

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 6.—Mrs. W. B. Young, wife of former Judge Young, of the Circuit Court, has been named by Herbert B. Race, president of the Board of Trade, as chairman of the committee of women which will look after the entertainment of the sponsors and maids who attend the reunion of the Confederate veterans here next April. Mrs. Young will name the remaining members of this committee.

It is anticipated that there will be several hundred sponsors and maids at the reunion, and the committee will have charge of their entertainment. A luncheon at the Country Club and a dance at the Yacht Club are features already decided upon, and there will be many others.

Night Fire Razes 2 Houses on East Fair

Entire Neighborhood Aroused as Flames Destroyed the Homes of Negro Families.

Fire starting in the back room of a shanty at No. 311 East Fair street destroyed two negro homes and did damage estimated at $600 Saturday night. The blaze aroused the entire neighborhood and attracted a large crowd. Both houses were occupied by negro families.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

Walton E. Webb, aged forty-eight years, No. 23 Gresham street, died Saturday night at 6 o'clock at the family residence. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Hollywood. The deceased is survived by his wife, mother, Mrs. M. H. Webb, four brothers, E. W. John R. Arthur C. Frederick W., and two sisters, Mrs. R. Heath and Mrs. M. Clements, of Hawthorne, Ga.

Funeral services for Mrs. A. E. Beck, aged 74 years, who died Saturday morning, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, No. 54 Stewart avenue. Interment will be at Hollywood, the Rev. John Purser officiating. Mrs. Beck is survived by one son, N. M. Beck.

The body of John Kendrick, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kendrick, who died Saturday morning, will be taken to Holland Springs, Ga., Sunday for funeral and interment.

Myra Mayo, the one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mayo, of East Point, died Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the family residence. Interment at Riverdale.

Atlanta Girl Makes Stage Debut

Miss Denig on Western Tour Name Becomes Katherine Kirby

Popular Washington Seminary Graduate Joins Production of "Awakening of Helena Richie."

Enter Miss Katherine Kirby into the theatrical world, with high ambitions and brilliant promise of achieving fame.

Atlanta knows Miss Kirby as its own, although not by that name. Atlanta knows her as Kate Kirby Denig, a pretty and popular student in Washington Seminary several years ago and the niece of Miss Emily Jewell, of No. 674 Washington street.

Last week "The Awakening of Helena Richie" company began its northwestern tour in Minnesota. The program bore against the name of Sarah, one of the leading characters in the play, the name of Katherine Kirby. The actress was the Atlanta girl, making her stage debut.

Once upon a time, another young Atlanta woman—also a Washington Seminary girl—went forth to try her fortune on the stage world. She was Miss Gladys Hanson Snook at home, on the stage Miss Gladys Hanson. It is significant that Miss Denig should find her stage name in the same fashion.

Boy Asks Police to Search for Parents

Lad Says He Came to Town to Meet Mother and Family Moved Away.

Jesse Ferguson, 10 years old, of No. 155 West Pine street, appealed to the police Saturday night to help locate his parents.

The boy told the police he worked at the East Atlanta Pressing Club, that he had an engagement to meet his mother at Peachtree and Decatur streets late in the afternoon, that she failed to meet him there at the appointed hour, and that when he returned home the family had moved away.

By lopping off her family name this newest Atlanta actress is playing in the company in which Miss Laura Frankenklin, the well-known Western actress, is the star. Miss Frankenklin's popularity throughout the section which the company has entered assures success for the show.

Miss Denig is a graduate of Washington Seminary. While at that institution she was prominent in school theatricals. After her graduation, she went to Chicago, where she studied under Donald Robertson, who, as manager of the Players' Company of Chicago and a member of the New Theater Company of New York, is prominent in the more artistic theatrical circles.

Miss Denig learned well her lessons of the stage under the famous teacher in Chicago. She left him to become a dramatic reader, gaining plaudits everywhere and gaining also sufficient prominence to give her a vogue as a dramatic coach or teacher herself.

Suffragists Barred By Want Ad Suitors

Maryland Youth, Refused a Dozen Times, Isn't So Particular About Other Details.

FREDERICK, Me., Sept. 6.—Refused twelve times, hopelessly single at the "ripe" old age of 22, Fauntleroy Unger, of this city, formerly of Waynesboro, Pa., stalwart and athletic, has resorted to want ads to procure a life-long helpmate.

His only requirements are that she be a competent housekeeper, reasonably good looking and capable of loving and making him happy. She must be about his own age, fond of home and without political ambitions. No suffragist need apply," Mr. Unger declared.

CAPITOL YARD IS ANNEXED TO 'SPOONERVILLE'

Beavers Measures Love by Degrees, but Statehouse Guardian Welcomes Woovers.

Chief Beavers offers no solution to the problem. We will tell you that he has no objection to lovers loving. Far from him is it to object to the operation of a natural impulse. But this matter of spooning in public places on the Capitol grounds for instance—

The Chief frowned meditatively. It all depends, he said. There are degrees and kinds of love, and it seems that the public lovers will be arrested only for demonstration of certain degrees and certain kinds.

"I object to spooning," repeated Chief Beavers. "It all depends on what you mean by 'spooning.'"

He agreed to accept Noah Webster's authority on the subject, and skimmed the pages of his dictionary. This is what he saw:

Spoon, v. i. (colloq.) 1. To be sentimentally in love. 2. To indulge in demonstrations of affection, as lovers.

"You see," was his verdict, "it all depends on degree as whether it is proper."

It All Depends, He Says. And then he went on to tell of the occurrence of the other night, when a couple was arrested on the Capitol grounds by two policemen who found them in embrace. The policemen, he said, were particularly vigilant because of the complaint by the Capitol watchman that lovers were exceeding the reasonable degree of decorum in the demonstration of their love.

"So there," he said in comment, "it all depends."

However, most of the Capitol attaches are of a mind to let spooning proceed in its free and untrammelled way around the grounds of the Statehouse, regardless of such nice degrees of difference that inspire police officers to invasion and arrest. Most of them laughed at the course of the policemen who arrested a couple the other night, except a few who were frankly indignant because of the affair.

P. B. Latimer, keeper of the Capitol grounds and building, was one of those whose comment was a mingled laugh and protest. The upshot of it was his virtual invitation to lovers to make free with the spacious lawns and the shady nooks and shadows of the Capitol grounds.

Mr. Latimer talked considerably about the incident, and as he talked his eye grew dreamy with a sentimental reminiscence. "I was young once myself," he mused. "My, but I'm glad they didn't arrest people for kissing in those days. The aggregate of my offense might have given me a life sentence."

Parks Open to Spooners.

It always has been known to lovers in Atlanta that the city's parks were their own domain. J. O. Cochran, president of the Park Board, has assured them of that fact time and again. But the indorsement that Keeper Latimer vouchsafed for all lovers brings about a considerable addition to the area of Spooners' Land. Now the Capitol grounds are theirs, with the injunction to beware of the police.

President Cochran of the Park Board reiterated for the benefit of lovers his invitation to the parks. "Bliss 'em, let 'em spoon," said he, with no question of degree in his heart.

The upshot of it all is a victory for the lovers. Heretofore tolerated on the Statehouse grounds by Statehouse employees, now they are welcomed to those same grounds. Miss Welsman and Mr. Meyers, by being arrested, served Cupid a good turn, adding to his dominion in Atlanta, press-agenting his work, and gaining an open sympathy for him.

All the world loves a lover, anyhow, except the policemen, who have an eye out for degrees of affectionate demonstration.

MEXICAN PEACE TO BE DECIDED IN WASHINGTON

Mission of Zamacona Is to Arrange for Armistice Looking to Settlement of Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—This city is to be the scene of negotiations looking to the end of the bloody factional war in Mexico that has exacted thousands of lives, brought the United States and her southern neighbor to the verge of war and caused damage amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars. It was learned definitely today that the mission of Manuel Zamacona to this country is to bring about an armistice between the contending factions.

This definite information was given out today by an official who declared that Senor Zamacona is not only an envoy of General Huerta, but is also an agent of the Wilson administration.

"I mean," said this official, "that as both President Wilson and General Huerta know there can be no election without an armistice. President Wilson is as much interested in the success of Zamacona as are those in Mexico who wish to make an end to this war. There is no doubt that Zamacona will be received with open arms for the purpose of this mission. The way will be wide open to him to look after the finances of the foreign railroads in Mexico and incidentally, but only incidentally, after funds to put any new Mexican government on its feet."

Zamacona a Maderist.

"It is learned that Zamacona was chosen because he is, and always has been, at heart, a Maderist. He represents really the forces which are opposed to Huerta methods, but not necessarily to Huerta himself. Huerta has retained Zamacona because of the great personal power that attaches to his name in Mexico, and he has been selected principally because he is no stranger to Washington and to the republic corps here. There is no one who can approach the rebel leaders with less danger of a rebuff than Zamacona. The place to bring about an armistice is Washington. The headquarters of the opposition to Huerta are in this city, and it is said that here sines of war are provided for this opposition. "The diplomacy of the constitutionalists is conducted at Washington, so that from all points of view and for the practical results the triangular negotiations of President Wilson, General Huerta and General Carranza would be best held here."

The State Department is particularly anxious for an armistice, because of the news received today as to the situation of affairs from the civil war. It gave out bulletins in which the State of Tabasco is represented to be practically in the hands of the revolutionists. The federalists are again on the defensive near Tampico, and the town of Guajuac in Northern Durango was sacked and burned by the rebels under General Urbine on August 15.

The department knows that Sonora, Chihuahua and Tabasco, three important States, are in the hands of the Mexican parties opposed to Huerta, and these parties are well represented at Washington.

Main Issue Forgotten.

The department officials admit that if an armistice can be brought about all the other questions, such as the non-candidacy of Huerta, etc., are simply academic and have nothing to do with the main issue, which has been increasing in violence ever since the fall of Diaz.

The absolute necessity of an armistice is driven home by realization of the vast territory over which the rebels are running riot. The officials see there can be no peace and no effectiveness in presidential messages unless Carranza consents to a truce and will abide by the election results.

The department was advised today from Monterey that up to August 25 foreigners were not mistreated at Torreón. The bulletin on this subject said: "Among the Americans arriving at Monterey and recently departed for the United States are S. R. B. Kepner, of Los Angeles; P. B. Lord, of Dorchester, Mass.; Arthur P. Sharp, of South Boston; Messrs. Carmen and Russell, of the American Securities Company; Howard Potter has left for New York. Americans remaining at Torreón and supposed well are J. R. Raby and wife, Mrs. L. P. Tanner, Miss S. H. Cheek, Harry L. Mulliken and others, all safe and well."

Florida to Drive Out Blind Tigers

Temperance Forces Are Active in Fight on Violators of Prohibition Law.

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 6.—With Jacksonville and other larger cities of the State as storm centers, Florida is again in the throes of an anti-saloon fight and the temperance forces are determined to wipe out the "blind tigers" in prohibition counties, in accordance with a stringent law passed at the last session of the Legislature.

C. C. Crook, secretary of the Anti-Saloon League, heads the temperance forces of the State and they predict that Marion County, the seat of which is Ocala, will vote "dry" on September 17. The County Commissioners of Dade County, of which Miami is the county seat, are also planning for a "wet and dry" election.

Hoodoo Trails Ship On Entire Voyage

Schooner Ralph W. Eaton Towed Into Port Tampa After Many Accidents.

TAMPA, Sept. 6.—It was an adventurous trip the schooner Ralph W. Eaton has just made from British and Spanish Honduras, whence she loaded a cargo of plantains and coconuts for this city.

The Eaton left British Honduras on June 19, but when a few miles at sea was found to be leaking so badly that she had to return for repairs.

Putting out to sea again, the supercargo, or "charter party," as the West Indian trading boats call him, became despondent and tried to commit suicide, but was foiled.

Then the Eaton began to leak again, and but for the assistance of the Carrie W. Babson, another schooner of the same line, which stood by and towed her into port, the boat would perhaps have gone down. So badly she waterlogged when she reached this port that there is no chance whatever of her going back before the beginning of the West Indian hurricane season in October.

Five of her sailors, subjects of Great Britain, were stranded here and had to appeal to the immigration authorities to send them back to Honduras.

Mr. Ferguson was delighted to cross the Texas line Saturday, according to the dispatch, he felt regret, too, for it marked an end of royal Louisiana receptions which have not been surpassed along the entire route. The citizens of every town through which the car passed in Louisiana turned out in full force and tendered to the pathfinders the heartiest of greetings and receptions.

Mr. Ferguson declared Saturday night the tour has been a complete success so far. The condition of the machine itself, he said, speaks eloquently of the remarkably good condition of the roads which have been traversed and which will constitute the great trans-continental highway.

Pathfinder Crosses Border Into Texas

Sunday American Tour Success in Every Way—Machine's Condition Proves Roads Good.

Declaring that within a few years the South will lead the Union in the matter of excellent highways, E. L. Ferguson, pathfinder for the coast-to-coast trail, proposed by The Sunday American, Saturday afternoon rolled into Orange, Tex., amid hearty shouts of greeting. The tourists will remain in Orange Sunday and resume the trip toward Houston, the end of the third lap, Monday.

While Mr. Ferguson was delighted to cross the Texas line Saturday, according to the dispatch, he felt regret, too, for it marked an end of royal Louisiana receptions which have not been surpassed along the entire route. GIFTS TO SCHOOL-BOOK FUND INVESTED IN HUMANITY, NOT CHARITY

Classes Begin Monday, and Unless You Heed Associated Charities Appeal for Poor Youngsters 250 Children Will Be Barred.

Nothing to Lose and Much to Gain in Giving to Educate Those Who Otherwise Are Likely to Become Charges of the City of Atlanta.

Over your Sunday morning breakfast table, and in the lazy, luxurious moments that come after breakfast, listen to the last appeal of the 250 poor Atlanta children who are asking you through The Georgian and Sunday American and through the Associated Charities to give them the chance for an education.

This is the final appeal. School opens Monday, and unless the children are helped with a little money and clothes, the cast-off clothing that is lying useless in your closets, they probably will be kept out of school this year altogether. Even going to public school requires a little money. There are books, you know, and a new pair of stockings, maybe.

There is no money at home for these 250, and unless you help them they probably will be kept out this year. They probably will be kept out next year, a lot of them, because they will be bigger, and can work then in the mills and factories or on the street. Then it will be too late. Then their chances for an education will have gone glimmering, and a few more hampered, woefully handicapped citizens will be on the way to becoming the city's burdens.

Remember all this during your moments of contentment and leisure this morning. The 250 children most likely are not so contented to-day as you are. Most of them, eager to go to school, probably are very much dismayed over the fact that school opens to-morrow and there seems little chance for them to go.

But of course they don't know that you are going to help them get their chance.

Rome Business Men Provide for Poor Children.

ROME, Sept. 6.—The free school books, but also the request that is being made of Atlanta, is small.

26,000 Ready for School; Record Attendance Seen

It's down to work, kiddies; no more morning play.

Monday morning the bells in Atlanta's 47 public schools will toll vacation's death and Bobbie, Helen and Jimmie must get out the old book satchels.

Twenty-six thousand children will get up a little bit earlier than they have for three months past; faces will be shining from a double rubbing, and there will be great scurrying as the minutes fly.

The first day of the school term is always a puzzle to the kids. They can't tell whether they are happy or sad. It's hard for the good old vacation days to be gone, but still it's mighty nice to get back with the old bunch at recess.

Southern Railroad's Paymaster Robbed

Reward of $600 Is Offered for Trio Holding Up Employee at Parr Shoals, S. C.

A telegram from J. T. McClelland, chief of detectives of the Southern Railway at Parr Shoals, S. C., telling of the robbery of the Southern paymaster there Saturday night, and offering a reward of $600 for the apprehension of the robbers, was received at police headquarters.

One of the robbers was described as being short and stout, weighing about 190 pounds, while two others were said to be tall and thin.

Bumper Orange Crop Predicted by Grower

Wauchula Grower Finds Grove Giving Promise of 45 Per Cent Increased Yield.

WAUCHULA, Sept. 6.—W. W. Bateman, manager of the local citrus exchange, says there will be a bumper orange crop this year. On one set of groves with which he is personally familiar he estimates this year's crop at 29,000 boxes, against 20,000 last year.

The orange crop of the State last year was about 8,250,000 boxes, but no statewide estimate has been made for this season.

and church time, with the newspapers all about you? It is pleasant to read and to smoke and to be lazily contented.

But even that simple luxury of reading will be denied many of the 250 unless you give them this year their chance to go to school.

Face Spoiled Lives. Your Sunday mornings would be spoiled altogether but for your reading. So would your life be spoiled but for your ability to read and to understand. It is just such a straitened, spoiled career that confronts many of the poor children whose appeal is made to you to-day.

In Atlanta to-day there are 250 children who can not go to school because they lack money to buy school books. There are 129 who can not go to school to-morrow because they have no clothes to wear. They can not face their companions without shame. Some of them, even, can not leave their homes for want of clothing.

Remember all this during your moments of contentment and leisure this morning. The 250 children most likely are not so contented to-day as you are. Most of them, eager to go to school, probably are very much dismayed over the fact that school opens to-morrow and there seems little chance for them to go.

But of course they don't know that you are going to help them get their chance.

Considerably more than that is necessary for the books of the older children, but also the request that is being made of Atlanta, is small.

It is very pleasant there in your Sunday morning home, isn't it, in the luxurious period between breakfast 000 mark will be touched by the end of this week.

There is the problem of taking care of the ever-increasing attendance upon Atlanta's public schools. Each year the Board of Education and City Council has been put to it to provide adequate facilities.

But a way is always provided for taking care of every child and this year they have taken time by the forelock. The city has given indications of being overcrowded have been provided for by the renting of adjacent buildings and equipping them as schoolrooms. These buildings will be used until the school structures can be enlarged or new buildings erected.

Probably the busiest office in Atlanta for the past ten days has been that of Superintendent of Schools William M. Slaton in the Boys' High School building. Each day there have been several hundred callers and Mr. Slaton's corps of assistants have been taxed to their utmost to accommodate every one.

Posed as Preacher, Is Held as Burglar

Charged With Blowing Postoffice Safe at Green Cove Springs.

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 6.—A. D. Cannimeyer, who posed as a preacher, is in the county jail as a United States prisoner, suspected of being connected with the blowing of a postoffice safe in Green Cove Springs a few months ago and the theft of $1,000 in postage stamps.

Cannimeyer has been identified as James Driscoll, who, with his partner, Robert Duncan, is alleged to have blown and robbed the Cohen Brothers' safe here of $11,000 during the early part of 1903. He since has served a term in the Alabama penitentiary. Deputy Sheriff James Crawford, who was detailed on the Cohen Brothers robbery, has never given up hope of capturing Cannimeyer, alias Driscoll, and knew the man immediately after his incarceration on the other charge.

Salesman Accused of Giving Bad Check

Paper Drawn on Thomasville, Ga., Bank Worthless When Presented, Say Detectives.

James Barwick, a traveling salesman living at the Terminal Hotel, was arrested Saturday night on a warrant charging forgery. Barwick, according to the detectives, passed a worthless check on a bank of Thomasville, Ga.

The check, they say, was given to L. Suddith and called for $10.

Tiny Feet Trip Along Peachtree Child's 12 1/2 B's Fit Miss Spalding Lovers Here Kneel at Trim Shrines

Miss Elizabeth Spalding and her dainty foot, which is declared to be typical of Atlanta pedal exercitians.

Boston Can Produce No Entry in Cities Quaint Race Where Atlanta Leads.

Atlanta lovers, growing rhapsodic in the expression of their suit, still kneel at the feet of their ladies, in the good old orthodox way of lovers. It is to be hoped, if they do, small wonder for the French-heeled feet of the Atlanta maidens are truly feet to worship, being nearly small and adorable.

Atlanta girls, favored of fortune in every respect of beauty and smartness, are beyond criticism in that final feature of feminine pulchritude, the feet. Witness any parade along Peachtree of an afternoon, with Miss Elizabeth Spalding, for instance, in one whose feet attract the eye. They are shod in pumps of a size six and a quarter inches from toe to heel, and you can easily believe it. They are of the size technically known as a child's 12 1/2 B, and that fact, too, you accept as true at the very sight of them.

Altogether, they are small and neat, typical feet of the Atlanta girl. Miss Spalding is not the exception; rather, an example.

This little exposition on the feet of Atlanta girls comes as Atlanta's entrance into a sort of civic competition. Everywhere in the United States, it seems, a sudden interest has sprung up in the size of the girls' feet. Chicago comes forth, offering Miss Anita Blair, the daughter of a plutocrat, to refute the old charge that the feet of feminine Chicago are beyond the pale of gracefulness and beauty. Then comes New York, with a child's 12 1/2 B foot to match Miss Blair's. Boston could not do so well, and a search through the ranks of Back Bay society failed to reveal feet about whose size Boston papers could boast.

But Atlanta is more fortunate. Take a turn down Peachtree street, and see for yourself. There's Miss Spalding, for instance—

13 Macon Saloons Raided by Sheriff

Law Enforcement League Continues Campaign to Close Liquor Selling Places.

MACON, Sept. 6.—Thirteen saloons were raided to-day and last night by the Sheriff in pursuance of petitions for injunctions against the places. The petitions were filed by the Law Enforcement League in continuance of its campaign to close up all of the saloons where liquor is sold. Before applying for the injunctions the Law Enforcement League affected the purchase of whiskey at each of the saloons, using detectives brought to Macon for the purpose. At eight of the places the Sheriff found whiskey in large quantities on the premises.

BENCH WARRANTS ISSUED FOR NASHVILLE SALOONISTS

NASHVILLE, Sept. 6.—Criminal Judge Neil today issued bench warrants against saloonists of Nashville for violation of the prohibition law and every saloon is expected to be closed after to-night for the first time since the prohibition law was passed, nearly five years ago.

RAINS END FEAR OF HOT SPRINGS FIRE REVIVING

Conflagration Halted With Destruction of Fifty-five Blocks, Leaving 2,500 Homeless.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., Sept. 6.—Rain in copious quantities to-day proved a wonderful aid to the weary fighters among the smoldering ruins of the $6,000,000 conflagration which swept this city last night, devastating 55 blocks. The downpour allayed fears of a further spread of the flames, even should a wind arise.

More than 2,500 persons are homeless as a result of the fire, and are camping temporarily in the vicinity of the Oaklawn Race Track and State Fair Grounds. At a mass meeting to-day, a committee was appointed to care for the homeless, and the work of furnishing food and clothing to them was started at once.

Stragglers Line Roadway.

Grand avenue leading from the burned area to the fair grounds, to-day presented a picturesque sight.

They cheered him again and again, and finally the crowd became so enthusiastic that the prisoner appeared at his window and delivered a brief speech of thanks.

Thaw Voices Thanks.

"I am glad that you are glad that British fair play has finally won my fight," he said. "Jerome is at last unveiled to the people of Canada in his true light. He now knows that he has been beaten, and he may as well go home."

"We'll put Jerome in jail unless he runs away," howled the crowd. "If you give the word, we'll tear away your bars and put Jerome in your place."

"A diable avec Jerome!" shouted one burly French Canadian. "A diable avec Jerome, le loup (to the devil with Jerome, the wolf)!"

"Mes remerciements au gens du Canada (my very best thanks to the people of Canada)," replied Thaw. "The demonstration lasted more than an hour and the crowd stayed until the lights in Thaw's quarters went out. Then the band marched merrily away, with the crowd following, still cheering. While the crowd was around the detention station a squad of Dominion police was sent from Montreal for the purpose of keeping a close watch to nip in the bud any attempt to liberate the prisoner.

Jerome Spends Quiet Day.

Jerome, who has been outwitted for the present in his effort to secure Thaw's immediate return to Matteawan, enjoyed a dilatory domicile to-day. He secured through counsel an adjournment until Thursday of his hearing on the charge of being a common gambler in that he participated with a number of friends in a game of poker in an automobile Thursday afternoon.

Until 4 o'clock this afternoon Jerome remained at the hotel. Carthage, a line house at Norton's Mills, Vt. The bar of the hotel is in Canada and the tobacco stand in Vermont. Thaw's prosecutor spent most of his time in Vermont.

Emergency Current Given.

The light and power company late to-day provided emergency facilities for the newspapers and other industries. The city will be in darkness about a month.

About 5,000 feet of hose belonging to the fire department was burned. Many of the fire department horses were left unfit for further duty.

White's Slayer in Prison Hears Band Concert in His Honor and Makes Speech.

COATICOOK, QUEBEC, Sept. 6.—While the town band played "God Save the King" a great throng of people surged about Harry K. Thaw's quarters in the Immigration detention station here to-night and in two languages shouted their admiration for the millionaire slayer of Stanford White.

Plans for a celebration of Thaw's eleventh hour escape from the clutches of William Travers Jerome had been under way all day, and when darkness fell there was already a small group in front of Thaw's cell. The group, which included a few of the French Canadian Canadians surrounding on the clear night air, the pent-up enthusiasm of Thaw's well-wishers broke loose.

They cheered him again and again, and finally the crowd became so enthusiastic that the prisoner appeared at his window and delivered a brief speech of thanks.

Life Sentence for McNaughton Likely

Prison Commission Expected to Recommend Commutation for the Doomed Slayer.

That Dr. W. J. McNaughton, the Emanuel County physician under sentence of death for the killing of Fred Planders, will receive a commutation to life imprisonment on recommendation of the State Prison Board is the opinion of those in close touch with the situation at the State Capitol. Arguments for and against the pardon were closed late Friday afternoon, and the case is now in the hands of the Prison Board.

Chairman Davidson, of the Prison Board, declared Saturday that the case was by far the most technical one that has been considered for some time. Mr. Davidson left Atlanta Saturday for his old home. He will return either Monday or Tuesday, when a final decision probably will be reached and transmitted to Governor Slaton.

DANCE MASTERS PLAN TO BANISH TURKEY TROTS

"Hesitation Drag," in Which the Partners Talk Constantly, Believed Natural Successor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The American Society of Professors of Dancing, which has just ended its four days' convention at the Majestic Hotel, today issued an edict in which the following things are set forth: THEY DISAPPROVE—

Gripping of the knees. All shoulder motions. Swaying from the hips. Jumping and hopping. Close contact of bodies. THEY APPROVE—

More use of the feet. Bodies more erect. Heads and shoulders well up. Dancing instead of hopping. Moderation in dips.

The society saddens society with the declaration that the terrible turkey trot and the tango are to be thrown into the discard, in their places are to come the "Shadow," the "Manchester," the "Sideshow Glide," the "Hesitation Drag" and the "Sensation Scrawl."

The new dances are said to permit easy motion, with varied steps and to combine grace with comfort. The "Hesitation Drag," which has won a certain vogue, the partners face each other and their conversation may never be interrupted. The man leads with a long glide with the left foot, poles on the right foot for two beats, and then sways his partner on a quarter turn.

REPUBLICANS HELD TO ANSWER FOR PANICS BY HOKE SMITH IN SENATE

Georgia Senator Declares the Doleful Speeches of His G. O. P. Colleagues Are Without Foundation--Sees a Reign of Plenty Throughout Nation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Senator Hoke Smith spoke in the Senate today in answer to the charge by the Republicans that the Wilson tariff bill of twenty years ago contributed to the panic of 1893.

Senator Smith showed that the panic of that year was due to several causes, one of which was the unsettled conditions growing out of the Saring failure. The high tariff law of that time had prevented imports, thus reducing the receipts of the Government, while excessive appropriations exhausted the Treasury resources. At the same time the silver purchase law had resulted in the exportation of great quantities of gold and the plates had already been prepared for an issue of Government bonds when Mr. Cleveland was inaugurated on March 4, 1893.

The worst of the panic of that year was over by September, and the Wilson tariff bill was not passed until the latter part of 1894.

Senator Smith said: "Many times during this debate Senators upon the Republican side of the Chamber have made the claim that the passage of this tariff bill will probably bring the country to financial distress. They have appealed to the history of tariff legislation to sustain the claim. They have sought to show that the reduction of tariff taxes will flood this country with foreign products, and they have cited the panic during the last administration of President Cleveland to support their suggestions of hard times as the result of tariff reduction.

References Are Inaccurate. "As this bill is to pass substantially in its present shape, it is well for the public to understand that the historical references made by Senators on the Republican side are inaccurate, and their fears utterly without foundation.

"Before dealing with the panic from which this country suffered during the last administration of President Cleveland, let me call attention to the fact that the tariff legislation of 1846 can justly be compared to the present bill. The reduction of the tariff taxes in 1846 was followed by unprecedented prosperity. So that we have a record of substantial tariff reduction accompanied with improvement and progress upon all lines of activities.

"One of the severest panics from which this country ever suffered was in 1873. At that time we had a high protective tariff with no suggestion of its reduction, so that we have had a severe panic under a protective tariff. In all the woe-filled speeches made during this debate special stress has been placed upon the panic during the last administration of President Cleveland, and with general terms, but without logic or reason, the effort has been made to connect the tariff legislation passed during his administration with the panic and to charge tariff tax reduction as the cause of the panic.

Panic Preceded Cleveland. "Mr. Cleveland was inaugurated the second time on March 4, 1893. The panic was already in progress before his inauguration and before his election. The extreme period of the panic was during the year 1893, and the Wilson bill reducing tariff taxes was not passed until during the last half of the year 1894. No great increase of importation followed the tariff reductions of 1894. Our tariff importations were less in 1895 than they were in 1893, and less in 1896 than they were in 1902. The total importations for those four years were as follows:

1893	$844,454,000
1895	731,162,000
1896	813,601,000
1896	759,694,000

"The panic of 1893, which began as I have already stated, prior to that time took place under a high protective tariff. If it is urged that in 1893 it was known that the Democrats contemplated reducing the tariff, and that this brought on the panic, we may well reply that a majority of the Senate was opposed in 1893 to tariff legislation in full compliance with Democratic principles, and this fact was generally known.

"To-day, a majority of both Houses of Congress are known to be thoroughly in accord with the Democratic principle of tariff reduction. They are on the point of passing legislation, yet the business record of our country for the past twelve months has been one of prosperity and progress.

"I long for the prosperity of the entire country, for a prosperity which will bring wealth not alone to a few, but furnish a broad opportunity to the great masses of the people. The doleful misrepresentation of the panic of 1893 should cease. It has no bearing upon the present. To-day the Treasury of the United States contains one billion, two hundred and fifty millions of dollars in gold.

"It is amply supplied with funds to meet the wants of the government. The Treasury is so strong that it is able to furnish a hundred millions of dollars to move the crops in the West and the South. Conditions are reassuring in all parts of the country. Splendid crops are being gathered, the exportation of which in part will bring additional wealth to our people and add to our gold supply. Doleful counterpane should give way to smiles. The time has passed when the people of this country will submit to the inexcusably high protective tariff which even President McKinley condemned.

"It is true that some of our manufacturing industries will feel the spur of competition where heretofore they have been without it, but there is no reason why they should fail to continue in lines of prosperity with broader trade. Given no longer the privilege of arbitrarily taking the dollars of their neighbors, they will reach still further into the markets of the world for the sale of their commodities.

"We may turn to the future with confidence. The wrangling over the bill is practically ended, and the business of the country will resume normal conditions with the passage of the bill."

J. Tom Hefflin Couches Lance Against New Foe Byronic Congressman Called Ignorant by Woman

J. THOMAS HEFLIN.

WHAT HEFLIN THINKS OF SUFFRAGE:

This woman suffrage movement is the greatest peril now threatening the English-speaking people.

The family is the social unit, the harmonious whole, with one head, not two heads.

Sex antagonism will spring up in the wake of woman suffrage, and the sentiment between the sexes will be destroyed. In the mad clamor for the ballot, women are hazarding much, and entering on a perilous journey.

Upon the home-loving, man-trusting, consecrated Christian women of the United States rests the safety of our institutions and the perpetuity of the republic.

WHAT HEFLIN THINKS OF DRESS:

The evil genius of lustful fashion through immodest dress is playing havoc with a certain class of women, and setting a bad example for others.

The woman who teaches her daughter modesty and good sense has done more for her day and her generation than she ever could by active participation in politics.

WHAT SUFFRAGISTS THINK OF HEFLIN:

Ignorance in some people may be excused, but not in a member of Congress, and I think every Congressman and Senator ought to be made to take a course in constitutional history before being permitted to speak in public.—MRS. JESSIE HARDY STUBBS, prominent suffrage leader.

Alabama Orator Stops Eulogies On King Cotton to Deliver Philippic Against Suffrage and Slit Skirts.

Congressman J. Thomas Hefflin, of the Fifth District of Alabama, is the silver-tongued, lustrous-spoken, spell-binder of Democracy. He is the Byronic, Bryan orator whose voice has been raised in the hall of Congress on every subject from the extermination of the boll weevil to the annihilation of the trust octopus. He has gained national fame and the undying love of his Black Belt constituents by shooting at a Washington negro who had "sassed" him. It is plain that "Cotton Tom" has done much.

But the gentleman from Alabama is nothing if not energetic, and so pined he thrust a raven lock, and with a glint of determination in his eye, he sallied forth on a deed of new enterprise. Woman, frail woman, her fads, her follies, her faults and her frailties, she is the windmill against which he would sliver his lance. He would make his war against the slit skirt, the diaphanous dress, the equal ballot, and other lunacies of the new woman.

And he has. They heard from him first in Washington, when he said the dress of the day was inspired by the evil genius of lustful fashion. The big guns of his eloquence, that once were trained on the bulls and the bears of stock gambling, were directed then with no less sincerity against lighter things.

Then he went to Lynchburg, Va., where he spoke before a Y. M. C. A. gathering. And he said: "This woman suffrage movement is the greatest peril now threatening the English speaking people."

It seems that the doughty gentleman from Alabama has indeed found a new world to conquer. The tongue that once proclaimed the glory of King Cotton is consecrated to the crusade against woman, sliver woman. The accents that once awoke the forth in vindictive quest of the mode and the suffragette.

And how, they say, when he gets back home in the Fifth, can he shut at barbecues and schoolhouse raisins, as was his wont:

"Ah, my people! I have worked long and faithfully in your interests."

But he has found a new world to conquer, and fearlessly has set out to conquer it. However, he is not going unchallenged. Already an answer has come, an answer so heated and indignant that it seems a sad day indeed for the gentleman from Alabama when he framed his new campaign, and pulled down thereby the capable invective of American suffragettes on his head.

The answer comes from Mrs. Jessie Hardy Stubbs, of the Congressional committee of the National Suffrage Association. It is just such a clinching answer that a confident suffragette would be expected to make, a smiling, supercilious, "pity-the-merman" kind of answer.

"Brother Hefflin doesn't mean any harm," says Mrs. Stubbs. "He's just ignorant."

Suggests Examination. Take that, you foolhardy knight errant, who would go out to fight the noble causes of suffrage and slit skirts.

Mrs. Stubbs suggests that Mr. Hefflin, together with other Congressmen, be forced to take a course in constitutional history. Certain incidents to which he referred in his speech, she said, were dead and done away with years ago.

"Somebody ought to inform Mr. Hefflin that the world has moved on," she says. "I don't believe he willfully intends to misrepresent things."

And so the Ciceronian gentleman from Alabama is not going unchallenged. And not all suffragettes are running to cover.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 6.—Stanislaus Pepinski is being sought by the police of Paterson, N. J., on a charge of swindling Mrs. Charles Wolf, of No. 232 Vernon avenue, that city. She declared that, under his hypnotic influence, she gave him $1,200 in cash, jewelry valued at several hundred dollars, her $500 piano, and was on the verge of poisoning her husband to get his $2,000 life insurance for the bogus nobleman.

Pepinski claimed to be a Polish count, and, according to Mrs. Wolf, baited his trap for her with a promise to make her a countess when her husband was out of the way. She has confessed that, with the assistance of Helen Jochimewicz, a beautiful young woman companion of Pepinski, his alleged nurse, she actually placed poison in her husband's coffee and his life was saved only because he failed to drink it.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

The Senate:
Continued consideration of the tariff bill, the completed measure being reported late to-night. Smith of Georgia introduced an agricultural extension bill. Banking Committee heard additional bankers on currency bill. West Virginia coal operators continued their testimony before strike investigating committee. Adjourned at 10:50 p. m. until Monday.

The House:
Took up urgent deficiency bill and adopted amendment appropriating $25,000 for special investigation by Interstate Commerce Commission of railroad safety devices. Officials of National Association of Manufacturers attacked labor union before Lobby Committee. Adjourned until Monday.

JURY OF GIRLS FAVORS ADONIS; WINNERTREATS

Handsome George Martin Gets Verdict Against John Vargo, Old, Ugly and Married.

JOLIET, ILL., Sept. 6.—When the first woman jury in Joliet was impaneled here in the court of Justice James McCulloch, the fair jurors returned a judgment of $20 in favor of George Martin against John Vargo. Martin is young, handsome and a bachelor; Vargo is old, not so handsome and is married. All the feminine jurors were unmarried except one, who held out for Vargo until the rest threatened to tell her husband. During the trial a recess was called to allow the jurors to refresh themselves with ice cream sodas at a nearby drug store. When the verdict had been returned, young Martin invited the entire party to a candy shop, where he presented each juror with a box. The constable who secured the jurors is a young man of wide acquaintance, and he brought only pretty girls to the courtroom. None was over 25.

Economical Piano Buying

Economy in buying a piano consists of getting the best instrument that can be made to sell at the price you want to pay.

It does not necessarily consist in obtaining an instrument at a low price, because some pianos and player-pianos are expensive at any figure.

But there is a limit beyond which you can not go in the purchase of an instrument without paying too much.

You should expect to give what the piano is worth, but you should also expect to get the full equivalent of your money.

That principle is the basis of our selling policy, and we are prepared to show our patrons that every instrument is marked at a fair price.

You can pay as much as $1,250.00 for one of our pianos, or as low as $195.00. In any case you get the full value of your investment. In other words, you buy economically.

Reliability is the key-note to be considered. The W. W. Kimball Company, of Chicago, are the world's largest manufacturers of pianos, player-pianos, residence and church pipe organs, and its product is sold direct, eliminating the middleman's profits, through this Branch Store.

Our one, absolutely one, price insures the buyer of receiving full value for his money. We wish to emphasize the fact that the fixed price at which all of our goods are sold is based on an output of 30,000 instruments yearly.

Our Exchange Department offers many attractive bargains to those wishing either slightly used player-pianos, pianos or organs. Prices, in some cases, even less than actual cost of manufacture.

of art over 50 years old free and provides for a refund of duties on all others imported if, within five years after importation, they are turned over to the general public. This was agreed to by a vote of 32 to 37.

Senator Cummins followed with a long speech favoring his amendment prohibiting common carriers from charging more for the transportation of domestic products than is charged for foreign products consigned through the foreign port to the destination within the United States. This was rejected.

Headway Made at Night.

Considerable headway was made on the bill at to-night's session. The Cummins amendment, taxing the sale on exchange of any commodity where the seller does not own the article sold, was rejected by a vote of 35 to 16. Mr. Cummins' proposition to prohibit the railroads to charge more for the transportation of domestic products than on those imported when considered through was rejected by a vote of 33 to 24.

The income tax section, as modified with regard to the surtax in caucuses, and the Clarke cotton futures amendment were agreed to without a roll call. Senator Hoke Smith spoke at length in general defense of the bill and in answer to public criticism. An amendment was agreed to postponing until September 1, 1914, the time when the provision taxing all cotton futures shall take effect.

DORSEY SURE HE CAN BREAK FRANK CLARK OF JURY BIAS

Prisoner and His Counsel Are Equally Confident They Will Be Able to Get a New Trial on Ground of Outside Influences.

Cheers for the Solicitor After Recesses and Applause in Court Will Be Principal Points Urged by Lawyers for Convicted Man.

Desperate efforts to save Leo Frank from the gallows, to which he was consigned by sentence of Judge Roan, are taking definite shape. The trump card of his lawyers will be affidavits or showings of some sort to the effect that certain members of the jury which convicted Frank were deeply biased against him by more than one incident.

Argument for a new trial will be made before Judge Roan October 4, just six days before the date set for Frank's execution. Then Frank's lawyers, headed by Luther Rosser and Reuben Arnold, will exhaust every resource at their command to obtain a new trial or to stave off the death sentence.

Apparently Leo Frank has an impressive confidence in his advocates. Occasional bulletins from the Tower, where he is held, declare that he follows the usual routine of his rather methodical life as closely since his sentence as before. His attention to matters of health is scrupulous, including daily exercises and cold baths and a careful selection of food. He directs the affairs of his factory by daily consultation with his assistants and associates. He receives his friends with a calmness that would make him out indifferent to the fate that overshadows him.

Business Associates Visit. Almost every day Sig Montag and Herbert Schiff, his associates in the business of the National Pencil Factory, are his visitors. Besides other friends, his wife and his father-in-law come also, bearing his meals and hardly a minute of the day is he alone. But never a time during the day is there any appearance of perturbation on the part of the prisoner.

Neither have his lawyers exhibited any signs of haste. It is generally believed that they are confident they can prove the existence of undue prejudice against their client, and an element of unfairness in the trial. This they will attempt to prove by a chain of incidents, chief among which will be cheering which attended the appearance of Solicitor Dorsey outside the courtroom on more than one occasion, and the applause which burst out even in the courtroom when the trial was at its most tense point.

It may be that the fight of the defense will be made along other lines as well, but none of them has been revealed, nothing except the charge of undue influence on the jury.

With the interest that has grown about the figure of Frank, the negro Jim Conley almost has been forgotten. However, he was recalled last week when it was announced an effort would be made to obtain his indictment by the Grand Jury on the charge of being an accessory after the fact in the murder of Mary Phagan. In the light of Frank's conviction and the negro's own statement on the Phagan mystery, and a likely effect on the Frank case, was driven away.

Await Day of Argument. Altogether, for the first time since the murder of Mary Phagan, the case has assumed something of an uneventful tone. There is still the enthralling interest with which all Atlantans have invested the case, and the lawyers involved are laying their plans without rest. But the interest must wait until the day for the arguments before Judge Roan.

It appeared at one time last week as if a lively interest in the case would break out like fire, when Clara Bell Griffin, an employee of the National Pencil Factory, as was Mary Phagan, was mysteriously missing for the space of a day. Then it was that speculation was rife, and all sorts of possibilities were suggested. But the girl was found at Grady Hospital, and the suggestion of another Mary Phagan mystery, and a likely effect on the Frank case, was driven away.

Stewart Lincoln McConnell Is Here to Preach Pitcher, Detective, Evangelist, He Knows Life

THE big thing is to show the world that its one besetting sin is superficiality; that every man and every woman has Success and Reward as his gods; that they all must rush and come and go in a mad whirl to keep up and get ahead; that their heroes are those whose rank is based on nothing more than a transient appeal to the senses. The besetting sin is that things worth while are forgotten or neglected, that the world is superficial, shallow, eager only to get on, to provide itself with the outward show that it has gotten on—which may be a lie in many instances—and to worship Success, Success, Success.—Lincoln McConnell.

Big, Hard-Fisted Man of the Gospel Never Has Sermonized on Hell, and He Loves the Crowds on Broadway.

A "hefty," hard-fisted gentleman named Lincoln McConnell has come to town to preach the gospel after his own fashion. Atlanta evidently likes that fashion, because it has felt the weight of his preaching once before, and now he is called to the Baptist Tabernacle, that agency of militant Christianity. He will preach his first sermon as pastor of the Tabernacle to-day.

Lincoln McConnell is a big, straight, powerful man, even more aggressive than that militant institution, the Tabernacle. You have but to feel the force of his hand-clasp to know that—a heavy hand it is, too, that once curved a baseball with a power that all East Tennessee dreaded, and that was terrible to the wrong doers of Atlanta during the four years that he was a member of the Atlanta police force, a plain clothes man.

To a Sunday American reporter he admitted yesterday that his religion implied a mission to "clean up."

Not Enough to Preach. "It is not enough to preach that you must be just good," he said, "or to sit idly by, keeping your hands out of affairs, saying all the time that this world is but a station on the road to something better."

"It is not a station, but a very significant place itself. It may be the best place I'll ever get to, or you, I wouldn't ask a better heaven than Atlanta if the devil would just get out, and I would be glad to stay here a thousand years."

"There's the real mission—to get the devil out, not to preach of something better farther on. That's what we are set here for. There may be no better place and it may be that we are supposed to make this world clean enough to fit our idea of heaven. That's why preachers should work actively to 'clean up' their cities."

"God is interested in everything, your digestion, your brain, and politics as well."

And so you sense the McConnell fashion of preaching the gospel. You know even without his telling you that his big work lies in talking to men, in organizing law and order leagues and "clean up" campaigns, in talking logic, and not sentiment.

"I have yet to preach my first sermon on hell," he said, "not preach against the fads and follies of men and women, against their amusements or their fashions."

"These things are little, trivial, and are not wrong in themselves," he said. "It was almost with impatience that he said it."

He stopped at the entrance to the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon to keep an appointment with Dr. McConnell, saw a tall, pleasant-faced, young-looking man, coming down the street. The man had his coat under one arm, his right sleeve rolled back, and his straw hat swinging in his right hand. An upstart American citizen he was, who might have been a baseball player or a lawyer or a traveling man or a college professor.

He stopped at the entrance to the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon to keep an appointment with Dr. McConnell. The reporter followed Dr. McConnell into his study and heard a romantic story.

It was the story of Dr. McConnell. The reporter made sure of that. Once Athlete, and Worthless. Once the evangelist was a college athlete, back in Maryville, Tenn., a worthless sort of person with it, he confessed. Not worthless because he believed firmly in athletes and athletics. But worthless because he was too well satisfied with the "day-to-day" existence of the son of a well-to-do family. He studied law because he felt it natural that he should. Then his father died, and finding law little to his taste, he drifted out into the world to make a living.

He came to Atlanta as instructor in a school which was to teach Atlanta women how to cut patterns and dress designs. Such institutions had a considerable vogue 25 years ago, he explained, but the vogue was not sufficient to support the establishment with which he cast his fortunes. And so, from force of necessity, he worked in Durand's restaurant for several years, as a general utility man whose duties were divided between being a waiter, caterer and general overseer. Then he stood the regular examination for applicants for the police force, becoming a supernumerary and later a full-fledged detective.

"There is no criminal class," he said. "A man becomes a criminal because of conditions of heredity or force of circumstances. We are all potential criminals. I am, I know, with my temper, which is as hot as the devil ever wanted a man's temper to be. I might have been a murderer, you see. So might we all. There is no criminal class, so called. There is so much good in the worst of us," you know.

"And there is not a man alive who can not be saved by the power of God."

All this he learned from his study of men, which began when he was "on the force."

A rather kaleidoscopic career his was until he was converted, about 1882. Dr. McConnell gives himself no credit for inward grace on account of the conversion, but attributes it altogether to his wife.

"A good, brave wife is one of the greatest moral forces," he said, and began to talk adoringly of Mrs. McConnell.

Lincoln M. McConnell.

years. It was as a Methodist preacher that he was in Atlanta and founded the Wesley Memorial Church. That institution stands to-day at Auburn avenue and Ivy street, a monument to his zeal. Building the church, Dr. McConnell started without even a congregation or a place to hold a meeting with the few men and women he collected.

For several years Dr. McConnell has been a traveling evangelist and a lecturer under the auspices of a lyceum bureau, with his headquarters on his farm in South Georgia. Several years ago he became a Baptist. Now he is in Atlanta to preach his sermons of compelling logic, on such subjects as "Who Was Christ—a Man or a God?" and to tell his congregation, as he told the reporter yesterday:

"Christianity is a fact, a scientific, living fact that can be logically proved."

"More men can be reached, in religion as in everything else, through pure logic. Christianity is on a logical and demonstrable basis, and men can be shown just why, and where, and what for."

"You are not going to talk about card playing, or dancing, or theater-going, or silt skirts, or the scarlet woman, then," the reporter asked. Dr. McConnell smiled. There were worlds of scorn and disgust in his smile.

Describes "The Big Thing." "The big thing is none of these."

The big thing is to show the world that its one besetting sin is superficiality, that every man and every woman has Success and Reward as his gods, that they all must rush and come and go in a mad whirl to keep up and get ahead, that their heroes are those whose rank is based on nothing more than a transient appeal to the senses. The besetting sin is that things worth while are forgotten or neglected, that the world is superficial, shallow, eager only to get on, to provide itself with the outward show that it has gotten on—which may be a lie in many instances—and to worship Success, Success, Success.—Lincoln McConnell.

"This world is very much worth while, and life is very much worth while, and striving is very much worth while, so that there should be no place for envy or for the struggle just to show off or to achieve the public eye."

local and demonstrable basis, and men can be shown just why, and where, and what for.

"The big thing is none of these."

The big thing is to show the world that its one besetting sin is superficiality, that every man and every woman has Success and Reward as his gods, that they all must rush and come and go in a mad whirl to keep up and get ahead, that their heroes are those whose rank is based on nothing more than a transient appeal to the senses. The besetting sin is that things worth while are forgotten or neglected, that the world is superficial, shallow, eager only to get on, to provide itself with the outward show that it has gotten on—which may be a lie in many instances—and to worship Success, Success, Success.—Lincoln McConnell.

years. It was as a Methodist preacher that he was in Atlanta and founded the Wesley Memorial Church. That institution stands to-day at Auburn avenue and Ivy street, a monument to his zeal. Building the church, Dr. McConnell started without even a congregation or a place to hold a meeting with the few men and women he collected.

For several years Dr. McConnell has been a traveling evangelist and a lecturer under the auspices of a lyceum bureau, with his headquarters on his farm in South Georgia. Several years ago he became a Baptist. Now he is in Atlanta to preach his sermons of compelling logic, on such subjects as "Who Was Christ—a Man or a God?" and to tell his congregation, as he told the reporter yesterday:

"Christianity is a fact, a scientific, living fact that can be logically proved."

"More men can be reached, in religion as in everything else, through pure logic. Christianity is on a logical and demonstrable basis, and men can be shown just why, and where, and what for."

WIDE REFORM IN NEW HAVEN ROAD PLEDGED

President Elliott Declares He Will Improve System and Equip Line With Steel Coaches.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 6.—While the Interstate Commerce Commission investigators of the New York, New Haven and Hartford were hearing a story of lax discipline and disregard for rule orders and signals to-day, President Howard Elliott, of the road, issued a statement in which he promised sweeping reforms in the management and improved equipment, including 500 steel passenger cars. In the opening he said:

"I, of course, deplore more than any words can express the terrible accident of Tuesday last, and I should use all means in my power to create an organization and to provide facilities that will reduce to an minimum the danger of such occurrences."

During the investigation it was brought out that wealthy commuters of the road have an arrangement whereby they are provided with all-steel cars to and from New York. These are equipped for card playing and the serving of drinks, and their users paid $3,000 yearly for them in addition to the regular fare. The general public is not permitted to use these cars.

There are half a dozen in the service, according to A. B. Smith, general passenger agent. A dramatic conclusion was given to the hearing when Engineer A. B. Miller, pilot of the White Mountain Express, which plowed through the cars of the Bar Harbor Express, asked permission to testify again. He then swore that he had been forced to do the work of another man as well as his own for a week previous to the wreck.

In his pledge of reforms, President Elliott said that the most radical would be made on that branch of the system where wrecks have been most frequent.

"As rapidly as a close study of the situation will permit," he added, "arrangements for closer supervision on other parts of the road will be arranged for, if it seems necessary."

Mr. Elliott said to-night that he had no idea who would succeed J. P. Morgan & Co. as financial agents of the road, but that he believed Mr. Morgan would retain his position as director of the system.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Colonel Roosevelt has announced the outline of his coming trip to South America. The Colonel will leave October 4 on the steamship Van Dyke and go direct to Rio Janeiro. From there he will go to Sao Paulo, Buenos Ayres, Cordoba, Bahia, Biana, Valparaiso and back to Santiago.

He expects also to make a tour through the Amazonian forest, accompanied by two naturalists. This part of the journey will be under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History.

Atlantan Is Slated For New Judgeship

Governor Intimates He May Name City Man, Saying He Wants to Please Bar.

That an Atlanta attorney will receive the appointment to the new Superior Court Judgeship created by the last Legislature, was indicated Saturday night by Governor Slaton, who declared he wanted to select a man pleasing to the members of the Atlanta bar. The appointment will be made early next week, following a hearing Monday of representatives of the Atlanta bar.

"I am endeavoring to select a man for the new Judgeship who will harmonize the various interests of the Atlanta bar," declared the Governor, "for there is no better bar in the United States, in my opinion. I have granted a hearing to some of these gentlemen Monday, and expect to reach a decision in the matter early next week."

Among those prominently mentioned for the place are Colonel Edgar E. Pomeroy, of the Fifth Regiment, and Judge L. S. Roan, of the Stone Mountain Circuit Superior Court. The new appointee will be forced to run in the elections next year.

Three automobile thefts within a week is Atlanta's record. The car of C. E. Corwin, with the F. A. Hardy & Co. firm, was the third to be taken. Mr. Corwin left the machine in front of the Grant Building Saturday. When he came out of the building the car was gone.

The car is a 1912 Hudson, with license number 18944. G. A. Howell, one of the other victims of the auto thieves, found his stolen car a few miles from town with a broken axle.

DR. C. A. RIDLEY PREPARES FOR HIS SPECIAL SERVICES

HEARST GREEK THEATER SCENE OF ART TRIUMPH

Miss Margaret Anglin in Sophocles' 'Electra' Wins Glory Before Audience of 10,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The Hearst Greek Theater of the University of California, Berkeley, attained its crowning glory to-night when before an audience of nearly 10,000 people, Margaret Anglin asserted her right to rank among America's greatest tragediennes. The play was the "Electra" of Sophocles, upon the production of which Miss Anglin had devoted months of hard and exhaustive study, rewarded with a triumph only equaled by her performance of "Antigone" on the same stage three years ago.

Patient, painstaking and specialized effort and genius reached back across the centuries and lifted out of another vanished civilization the great work of the greatest Greek tragic poet and placed it before a vast audience in exquisite perfection. It seemed almost like working a miracle, and yet it was done through the ambition and studious labor of Margaret Anglin. In artistry and interest, her performance surpassed all expectations.

Miss Anglin's "Electra" was a triumph. The costuming and scheme of color, designed and supervised by Livingston Platt, were remarkable examples of stage detail. The musical setting, specially composed by William Furst, was interpreted by an orchestra of 50 pieces under his direction. The proceeds approximated $10,000.

UNDERWOOD TO TRY FOR SEAT IN U. S. SENATE

Democratic House Leader Practically Announces for Place From Alabama.

AWAITS TARIFF LEGISLATION

Four Aspirants for His Present Office Have Sprung Up at Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 6.—A letter from Congressman Oscar Underwood practically announces his candidacy for the United States Senate just as soon as the tariff bill has been adopted. He says that he would not be true to the American people if he would not remain in the House until the tariff bill is adopted. Should the bill fall, a vote being expected within three weeks, Congressman Underwood will not leave the House.

Following the announcement that Congressman Underwood will doubtless run for the United States Senate, candidates for his seat as Congressman are grooming. Mentioned already are Nathan L. Miller, C. P. Beddow, Jere C. King, Burden Burr, all attorneys of Birmingham, and J. Fritz Thompson, Centerville, Bibb County, attorney.

Hobson Brands O'Neal Usurper.

ANNISTON, Sept. 6.—Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, candidate for United States Senator, was loudly applauded here today when he accused Governor Emmett O'Neal of usurpation of power and the rights of the people in making an appointment of United States Senator to succeed the late Senator Joseph P. Johnston, stating that he was afraid to call a special session of the Legislature. He referred to the Governor in scathing terms several times, and each reference brought forth applause.

Hobson declined to recede from his stand for a larger navy, which he termed the cheapest insurance in the world. He made his chief plea upon a platform of service, stating that he would give every boy and girl in America an equal opportunity for educational development is his chief ambition.

Turning to the old veterans, Hobson said many of them had done more fighting before breakfast than was done in all the Spanish war, and that he did not pride himself on his naval services. Hobson denounced the "flying squadron" that is proposed to defeat him and the political insurance of the State and nation, whom he decried under the old regime. He spoke in praise of the personal character of Senator Johnston.

Need of Auto Fire Engines Is Urged

Alderman Ragsdale Gives Demonstration to Show That Horse Power Is Obsolete.

I. N. Ragsdale, Tenth Ward Alderman and chairman of the Board of Fire Masters, Saturday afternoon began an unusual campaign to convince the City Council that all the old horse-drawn fire-fighting apparatus should be replaced with modern automobile engines.

Alderman Ragsdale invited all the Council out to a dinner at the Tenth Ward Station Saturday afternoon. After the meal in the station, the Councilmen witnessed an exhibition by the big automobile engine. It was raced down the road a mile and back, the hose connected to a hydrant and water thrown within three minutes. Then in another half minute the engine was pumping two new streams of water. All three were shooting to dizzy heights.

The spectators were highly pleased by the exhibition.

Prenatal Care of Babies Is Held All-Important Restaurant Chain Is Urged as Aid to Mothers.

Mrs. J. S. Barnwell, Superintendent of Home for the Friendless, Tells of Need for Strictest Care of Infants Prior to Their Birth.

PRENATAL INFLUENCE IS SIGN OF PROGRESS

It is a pity to think of girls being stuffed full of trigonometry and Latin in schools, and being left ignorant of the essential things of life. Half the persons in the world are without knowledge or understanding of the laws that govern and control life and death. Such steps as the doctrine of prenatal influence are indications that the world is growing better. The care of children before they are born is even more important than their care afterward, saving them from possible physical, mental and moral taints which it is difficult to eradicate later. We who can observe the homeless and the founding child know how much harm and suffering can be wrought by ignorance and indifference of parents. I am not afraid to venture the prediction that progressiveness in these things—in the establishment of institutions for public education in such matters, in general facilities for education—will become universal.

It is appalling how little is known among women of the vital facts of life and death and birth, she said. "And yet girls in schools are taught for year after year trigonometry, Latin, and such things relatively valueless, in consideration of these greater facts." The superintendent was inspired to the discussion by her study of the recent movement among wealthy women of Boston to establish "prenatal cafes," where expectant mothers are taught the kind of foods they must eat, to prevent malnutrition of the children before birth. "The idea is splendid," said the Atlanta woman. "Why should not mothers care for their children before their birth, with a view to their mental, moral and physical well-being? If it were done everywhere then children would not be brought into the world such as we see every day, anemic, dull, dishonest. After birth it is too late to cure these evils. They have been born with the children.

Involves Future of Race. "The doctrine of prenatal influence is one of the most powerful signs of the world's development and progress, I think. Prenatal care is a matter vital to the whole of humanity, for it involves the vigor of the future race.

"Establishments where mothers can be taught these things, taught how they may conduct themselves to bring into the world strong, healthy, capable children, will be of incalculable value. How much suffering would be saved the world if women only knew how to feed themselves to avoid malnutrition of the child.

"We here who are brought into contact with the homeless, 'doorstep' children, most of whom come into the world unwelcomed, can realize the deficiencies that come with lack of care before birth. We see children with ineradicable moral taints, children who are dull and slow-witted, children who are anemic and who, if they live to maturity, live only to face a life of ill-health and suffering. "After birth it is too late to eradicate these evils. The harm is done then. And how easy it would have been, with proper consideration of such simple things as foods, pleasant thoughts, profitable occupation and study, to bring into the world, instead of the deficient, children strong, bright, moral."

The superintendent pointed examples of deficient children—usually, she showed, they were unweaned children, and indifference as to their welfare had marked the period before their birth. On the other hand, she talked of children of her acquaintance who have grown into brilliance of mind and health of body because of care and training before birth.

Declares It Pity That Trigonometry Is Taught While Women Know Nothing of the Laws That Govern Control of Life and Death.

there was not room for a tenth part of them. Immediately steps were taken to organize an association in New York to take over the work of the prenatal restaurant. College professors, settlement leaguers and many wealthy New York women are charter members of the children.

In the beginning the plans for the restaurant involve a noon meal only at 5 cents a person. There will be broth, meat and vegetables. At least once a week the women will be instructed in what to eat, and lecturers will expound on other factors in the care of the children.

Hopes for Cafe Chain. It is the hope of Miss Parker that her first prenatal restaurant will lead to the establishment of a chain through the country. Three of Miss Parker's most ardent supporters in the Boston enterprise are Mrs. Robert H. Sayre, mother of Frank Sayre, the future husband of Jessie Wilson, the daughter of the President, Professor Thomas D. Wood, of Columbia University, and Mrs. Julia Heath, president of the Housewives' League, of which Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is honorary president.

All this Mrs. Barnwell in Atlanta views with hopeful eyes. "It is a sign that the world is growing better," she said. "I believe that this progressiveness in such matters will become universal, and that Atlanta will not be long in taking steps for public instruction and training in these things. It is a great opportunity for local philanthropists."

Atlanta Club Will Have New Quarters

Social Organization to Occupy Top Floor of Forsyth Building—Improvements Planned.

The Atlanta Club will move into new quarters on the top floor of the Forsyth Building October 1. A large ballroom and a roof garden and stage will be among the improvements to be installed. A system of shower baths will be included and there will be larger reading rooms and billiard rooms.

A campaign for new members will be started as soon as the club is able to accommodate them. The membership now numbers about 550. It is proposed to increase this to 1,000. The club officers are: Dr. George Brown, president; J. M. Dobbs, vice president; H. L. Cardozo, secretary; C. B. Orcherd, superintendent; Eugene Roberts, assistant superintendent; F. M. Mack, steward.

VALDOSTA, Sept. 6.—S. Guyt McLendon, of Atlanta, has been employed by the Chamber of Commerce to audit the freight rates into and out of Valdosta, and will begin the work immediately. The business men of Valdosta have excellent reasons for believing that they are badly discriminated against in both eastern and western rates, and numbers of them have been ready to admit for some time that they don't know what the correct rate on many commodities is or should be.

WAR IS OPENED ON CAB DRIVERS AS VICE AIDES

Recorder Declares 'Go-Betweens' Must Be Given Same Penalty as Real Offenders.

War on the negro cab drivers who act as go-betweens for disreputable women was declared by Recorder Pro Tem Preston Saturday afternoon, following disclosures made in the hearing of Hamp Smith, a negro cab driver, and Bessie Gurley, Theodosia Pittman and G. C. Brandeis, who were given heavy fines on charges of immorality. The Gurley woman was fined $6.75, and the others $15.75 each.

"This court has ordered before," Judge Preston said, "that the negro cab drivers who aid these women must be arrested and prosecuted. They are as guilty as the women, if not more so. I understand there is a regular gang of cab drivers who make it a practice to find immoral resorts and conduct these women and their friends to them. Policemen must arrest the cab drivers as well as the women."

Brandeis and the Pittman woman were arrested Friday night by Officer Andrews after they had gone to the Forsyth Hotel at Hunter and Forsyth streets, in Hamp Smith's cab and registered as "J. E. Hagan and wife." Andrews declared that Smith is one of the ringleaders in the gang of cab drivers, and asserted that Smith had told the manager of the Forsyth Hotel that Brandeis and the Pittman woman were man and wife. The Gurley woman was arrested when she returned to the Terminal Station after riding for two hours with a man in a cab.

Atlanta Autoists Make Record Time

K. T. McKinstry and J. H. McTeer Reach Lexington, Ky., on Long Tour Through North.

Two well-known Atlantans, K. T. McKinstry, manager of the Firestone-Columbus Southern Company, and J. H. McTeer, put the Gate City in the limelight again Saturday when they rolled into Lexington, Ky., in their Buick car, after a record-breaking trip of 541 miles from Atlanta. The tourists left Atlanta Thursday morning and arrived at Lexington at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The trip was made by way of Chattanooga and Nashville. McKinstry and McTeer will go direct to Columbus, Ohio, and thence to points in West Virginia, returning by rail. The trip is being made for pleasure and not to test the durability of the automobile.

Bolt Kills Barber And Man He Shaves

Proprietor and Customer of Shop at Bridgeboro, Ga., Victim of Lightning.

SYLVESTER, Sept. 6.—Two men were killed by lightning this afternoon at Bridgeboro, a small town 14 miles south of Sylvester, on the Gulf Line Railroad. Chesley Willis, son of G. T. Willis, a prominent merchant of the town, was reclining in a barber hair being shaved by John Barksdale when a bolt of lightning struck the shop, instantly killing both.

WOMAN DREADS 13TH AS DATE OF TRIAL FOR LIFE

Widow, Accused of Admiral Eaton's Death Is Superstitious of Day of Hearing.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, who is in Plymouth jail, awaiting her trial on October 13 for the murder by poison of her husband, the late Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, U. S. N., of Assinippi, is superstitious about the "hoodoo" date named for her trial to begin. She said in her jail cell: "Why couldn't they have made it October 14 just as well? My punishment is hard enough to bear without this added burden."

As a matter of fact, when Chief Justice Alton, of the Superior Court, named October 13 he merely set the opening day of that week, Monday. But Mrs. Eaton sees some ill omen in the way the date falls. When Plymouth County people jam into their county courthouse for the opening day of the trial, they will behold a woman changed from the robust matron who pleaded "not guilty" so heartily at arraignment. Jail life all summer, lack of exercise and institution fare have combined to tell on Mrs. Eaton.

Mrs. Eaton was essentially an outdoor person. On her Assinippi farm she fed the poultry, attended the garden, took long walks and, for a woman of her build, was amazingly active. Sheriff Porter and his wife, the matron, have allowed Mrs. Eaton as much exercise in jail as was consistent with regulations. They have made her menu as palatable to her as possible. They have not fretted her with finely drawn rules. Mrs. Eaton and her counsel appreciate this rightly.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB DISCLAIMS POLITICAL AIMS

President Claude E. Register Writes Letter, Regretting Recent Remarks of Mayor.

Claude E. Register, president of the South Side Improvement Club, has written an interesting letter to Hearst's Sunday American in explanation of the stirring speech of Mayor James G. Woodward in attack on the new charter and the City Council at a recent meeting.

Emphasizing the fact that politics was injected into that meeting without the consent of the members, his letter, which follows, shows that the South Side Improvement Club is an organization for the material improvement and development of that great section of the city within the Second and Third wards.

Here is the letter: "Letter States Club's Views. "Editor Hearst's Sunday American: We wish most respectfully to correct what may be an erroneous impression gained from the articles in the press of the city concerning the South Side Improvement Club.

"This club is solely and absolutely what its name implies—an improvement club, organized and maintained to secure through organization and co-operation some of the many needed improvements for our section. We have been hard at work for many months. Just at present we are centering all of our efforts on the re-grading, widening and repaving of South Fryer street from Georgia avenue to Ridge avenue. We have this work well in hand, and expect to see it accomplished before the end of next year.

"The articles in the press concerning our meeting of Thursday night, while true so far as some of the actual occurrences were concerned, we fear may cause some to class us as a political club. But we are far from it. Mayor's Remarks Gratuitous.

"Our Mayor had been invited to this meeting in order to advise him of our purposes and to enlist his co-operation in the work we have in hand. When, in the course of his talk and after he had pledged us his hearty support in the matter, he strayed from the subject and began his usual characteristic comments on the failure of Council to co-operate with him, and to give his opinion of the proposed new charter, of course, being our guest, we let him talk. The injection of these matters into our club by the Mayor was purely gratuitous on his part.

"The club has not taken and does not expect to take any part as a club in these matters. Each member can and will vote and act as he pleases on these issues. We give them no place in our club discussions. We favor our time, our thoughts and our discussions in trying to devise and secure needed improvements.

"We have no intention of calling a meeting now or at any time for the discussion of these outside issues, nor in the interest of any candidate for office. We are too busy on the improvement of South Fryer street and we are glad to know that we now have the hearty co-operation of the Mayor, leading city officials and the County Board.

"Yours for improvements, "CLAUDE E. REGISTER, "President South Side Improvement Club."

Gideons Hold Rally; Meet Again To-day

Annual Convention Develops Fact That Camps Have Increased Rapidly in Number.

Members of the Georgia branch of Gideons, from seven cities, held their annual convention at the Hotel Ansley Saturday. The session lasted throughout the afternoon and will be followed Sunday with a State Gideon rally in the assembly hall of the hotel. J. K. Orr will preside over the rally.

REV. GEORGE L. HANSCOM RESUMES PULPIT DUTIES

The Rev. George Loring Hanscom, pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Carnegie way and Ellis street, has returned from his vacation and will occupy his pulpit at both morning and evening services. Special music, including a violin solo by Miss Mary Douglas and selections by a picked chorus, has been arranged for the evening service. Notes by Miss Mamie Adel Hays, the noted coloratura soprano of Atlanta, will be rendered at both services.

Georgia Women Win Bird Fight Audubon Society Receives Aid Letter Campaign Is Successful

Mrs. Edward H. Barnes, of Atlanta, who was prominent in campaign to have United States Senate adopt clause protecting birds of the nation.

Miss Nina Hornady and Mrs. Edward H. Barnes Lead Movement for Feathered Game.

Georgia women active in the fight for the conservation of birds won a point when the Senate committee asked that the section of the bill relating to the importation of bird feathers be recommitted to it for more study, with a possible approval of that part which protects the wild birds of this country.

Georgia has been most active in the movement of preserving the birds, the fight being led by Miss Nina Hornady and Mrs. Edward H. Barnes, of this city.

It was through the activity and influence of Mrs. Barnes that the Georgia Legislature passed a resolution requesting the United States Senators at Washington to vote for the bird clause. Mrs. Barnes has given much of her time and talent toward this movement, and has in many ways successfully promoted the work in the South.

Hoke Smith Aids Women. The work of preserving the birds of the wildwood has been a cherished one with William Hornady, head of the Audubon Society at New York. For several years he has given his best energies and his wealth to conserving the feathered tribe, and is now waging one of the most active campaigns ever set afoot in this country.

Recently Senator Hoke Smith, who was regarded as not being friendly to the bird bill, has openly declared himself for it. The recalcitrant James A. Reed, of Missouri, has also signified his approval of the bill as it protects the birds. In every State there are workers for the bill and it is believed that it will be passed by the committee in the Senate without further delay. Senator O'Gorman, of New York, and Senator McLean, of Connecticut, have both favored the bill.

It is not generally known that there is an annual loss of crops and fruits, in the United States, of $1,000,000,000 and that if the birds are preserved and allowed to reproduce, in time this will be rectified, as birds are known to be exterminators of various plant pests.

At this time Queen Mary, Lord Curzon, and many other distinguished women and men in Europe are taking active measures to have Parliament pass a similar bill as the United States has before Congress. In Georgia, the most prominent women in all avenues of activity have co-operated with Miss Hornady and Mrs. Barnes in the promotion of the bill. Mrs. Boiling Jones alone having sent out three hundred personal letters in the interest of the bill.

Many Women Join Work. Others taking part in the work have been Mrs. W. Wilson, president of the Colonial Dames, at Savannah; Mrs. Shepard W. Foster, State agent of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. William McCarthy, president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. John A. Perdue, regent of the Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., the largest chapter in the State; Mrs. A. P. Coles, president of the Woman's Club, and others.

Miss Hornady is president of the United States Daughters of 1812 and Mrs. Barnes is prominently identified with many of the most exclusive woman's organizations in the city, besides having unusual histrionic talents which have attracted the favorable comment of stage managers of note.

Belasco Believed In 'Movie' Field

Dustin Farnum Indicates That He Is Staging Williamson Novels for Films.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Dustin Farnum, who arrived on board the steamer France, said to-day that he had spent three months in Europe with Walter Hale, William H. Elliott and a number of others in the production of moving picture films depicting the novels of A. M. and C. N. Williamson. He was asked whether David Belasco was interested in the films, but refused to answer.

Mr. Elliott is a son-in-law of David Belasco. There have been several rumors to the effect that Belasco was to enter the moving picture field. The last time a report of this kind was printed there was no denial, but all previous reports were vigorously denied.

MERCER SHOWS HOW CROPS ARE SAVED BY BIRDS

Slaughter of Partridges in Southern States Blamed for Steady Inroads of Boll Weevil.

The compilation of a text-book on the necessity for protecting the birds of the United States is a plan advanced Saturday by Jesse Mercer, State Game Warden, who is known as an enthusiastic bird lover.

Mr. Mercer believes that this is the most effective method of instilling in the minds of the American people that an immense loss is sustained by this country in permitting birds to be slaughtered by the thousands annually.

Georgia loses $40,000,000 every year through the devastation of insects, according to figures in the possession of the Game Warden. This would be greatly reduced if the hunters of birds, seeking feathers with which to adorn women's hats, were not permitted to carry on their slaughter year after year.

Partridge Weevil Foe. Mr. Mercer cited an example very close home to the Southern farmer. He laid the devastating march of the boll weevil from Mexico and Texas into practically the whole group of Southern States entirely to the fact that the partridge, one of the worst enemies of the boll weevil, either has been exterminated or is being driven away from the stronghold of the pest by the hunters.

"The sage hen, mountain grouse and prairie chicken," said the Warden, "like no better task than holding in check an army like that of the weevil. In spite of their incalculable value, they were killed by the carload, with the result that the boll weevil, which started in Guatemala, worked its way northward through Mexico into Texas and then over the Southern States, and now is on the borderland of Georgia."

Warden Mercer proposes to take up his plan with the State educational authorities and, if it meets with any measure of success, later with the officials of the National Association of Audubon Societies.

Mercer Praised for Work. Mr. Mercer has just returned from Washington, where he was successful in having the Finance subcommittee of the Senate reconsider its position on the House proviso in the tariff bill. The result of the reconsideration probably will be that when the tariff bill is adopted the importation of the House proviso, which prohibits, except those of the ostrich and domestic fowl, will be prohibited.

T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, wrote Mr. Mercer a highly congratulatory letter, thanking him for his work while at the National Capital.

Baker Held as He Poses as Lanford

Policeman Objects to Anyone Trying to Impersonate Atlanta's Chief of Detectives.

F. C. Smith, a baker of No. 942 Highland avenue, languished in the city jail Saturday night—all because he failed to conform to the opinion of J. G. Bowman that he was Chief Lanford. Smith was arrested at a barbecue grounds and locked up on a charge of impersonating the chief. According to Bowman, Smith was, without a shadow of a doubt, imbued with that exalted idea. As Officer Bowman objects to the impersonation of his chief, he placed Smith under arrest.

White Women Sign Petition for Negro

Governor May Commute Death Sentence of Assailant to Life Imprisonment.

Upon receipt of hundreds of telegrams and letters from citizens of Clinch County, including many white women, urging the commutation of the sentence of Lige Lane, negro, sentenced to be hanged this week for a criminal attack on a white woman, Governor Slaton Saturday night telegraphed J. G. Dickerson, attorney for the condemned man, to come to Atlanta Monday. The negro's sentence will be commuted to life imprisonment, it is believed.

Although the testimony seems to establish the negro's guilt without a doubt, the mere fact that 95 per cent of the white women of the county have signed the petition is a very strong appeal, the Governor declared.

Employees Share In Store's Profits

Co-operation Plan of Atlanta Merchant Proves Decided Success.

Co-operation in business is being adopted by some of Atlanta's leading merchants and has proved a decided success.

A leading clothing and furnishing store in Atlanta adopted the plan and put it in operation on July 1. Without reduction in salary in a single instance, 1 per cent of the sales of each employee was his profit in the business. At the end of the first month the smallest amount of profit received by anyone was $18. Many earned more than $30.

The business for this month was more than 20 per cent greater than the month previous, with no additional inducements.

Mrs. Armor to Wage Carolina 'Dry' War

Georgia Prohibition Leader to Make Fifteen Speeches in the North State.

ASHEVILLE, Sept. 6.—Prohibition North Carolina is to hear a series of fifteen addresses by Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Georgia, on the liquor question. The white ribbon leader opens in Asheville September 15 under the auspices of the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U. State organization.

This State has had no saloons in a number of years, and there is no "wet" movement on hand; therefore, the coming of Mrs. Armor to stump the State is looked upon as somewhat of a mystery.

U. S. Ownership of Telegraph Planned

House Leaders Are Already at Work on Bill—Early Action is Likely.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—A definite report on the preparation of a bill for Government ownership of telegraph lines will shortly be made by the House Committee on Postoffice and Postroads. Action in this direction is being pressed by the House leaders who are closest to the Administration, and it was stated by a member of the committee to-day that early action will be taken. Informal consideration of the proposition will be had during this session of Congress, and the committee will get down to hard work on it as soon as the regular session convenes in December.

SAN FRANCISCO HAILS CALL AS EVENING PAPER

Transfer From Morning Field Is Accompanied by Many Improvements in Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The San Francisco Call, the oldest of the San Francisco daily papers, transferred its activities from the morning to the evening field Monday. The Call was founded in 1856 as a morning paper and was for many years the leading morning paper of San Francisco. Of late years, however, the competition of The Examiner and Chronicle has been too strong for it, and the Call saw its better opportunity in the less bitterly disputed evening field.

The Call's first appearance in the evening field showed it to be a greatly improved newspaper. It made the following announcement, which seems to be justified: "The San Francisco Call is the oldest newspaper in San Francisco and will be the greatest evening paper."

Every arrangement has been made to give the people of San Francisco the highest grade of newspaper product for the smallest price.

The best news associations have been secured, the best American and European newspaper connections have been made, and special wires have been leased, the best special features and syndicate services have been obtained, the best newspaper managers, editors and writers have been engaged from all parts of the country; the best and biggest newspaper machinery manufactured has been ordered and will be installed in the newest and most commodious quarters in San Francisco.

Everything has been done that we, the publishers, can think of to make The San Francisco Call the best newspaper in America, but we welcome suggestions from our readers.

The San Francisco Call appears to-day, Monday, as San Francisco's leading evening paper. Ask Aid of Readers. Tell us how it can be made better.

Help us to give San Francisco the best paper printed anywhere. We have the determination and the resources to make The San Francisco Call the leading evening newspaper of the nation. If there is anything we haven't thought of, think of it for us and we will do it for you.

F. W. KELLOGG, President and Publisher, JOHN D. SPRECKELS, Vice President and Treasurer.

The managers of The Call claim that the wisdom of the transfer to the evening field is proved by the results of the first day of issue. The circulation of The Call has been doubled and the paper in its new form has met with the most universal commendation.

Tuberculosis Foes Issue New Warning

Declare Disease Most Frequently Is Contracted as Result of Carelessness of Its Victims.

The Georgia State Board of Health issued bulletins Saturday bearing on the prevention of tuberculosis and typhoid fever. The spread of the white plague most effectively can be checked, according to the bulletin on the tuberculosis germ, by the destruction of the spout of tuberculous persons. The disease is communicated most frequently by the germs from this source.

"In 1882," says the bulletin, "Robert Koch clearly demonstrated the germ which now has been proved beyond a shadow of a doubt to be the actual cause of this all too prevalent and fatal malady. They grow only at the temperature of the body. Cold has very little effect upon them, but boiling kills them readily, and the direct rays of the sun kills them from a few minutes to several hours. On the sidewalk, protected from the direct rays of the sun, these germs live for several weeks, and in poorly lighted rooms will probably live and multiply for a year. In cloth they will live for a somewhat indefinite period."

Bats Are Useful, Declare Scientists

U. S. Experts Refer to Nocturnal Animal in Recent Bulletin on Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Bats are useful and should not be destroyed, according to a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture to-day. The department had in mind the nocturnal animal, which preys upon insects. "These animals," says the department, "eat mosquitoes and other pests harmful to orchards and plants. Their presence in a garden is a boon, not a menace."

MOTHER GAVE CROSS, SICK CHILD ONLY "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" If peevish, feverish, tongue coated, give "fruit laxative" at once. No matter what ails your child, a laxative should be the first treatment given. Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign your "little one's" stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act normally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a "California Syrup of Figs," and in just a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile, and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless fruit laxative. Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters! DR. AKED SEES NEW MORAL ERA DAWN FOR U. S.

Diggs - Caminetti Verdict a Triumph Mann Act Stands Baptism of Fire

Noted Minister Declares Public for First Time Has Taken Up Arms Against Condoned Immorality.

By THE REV. CHARLES F. AKED.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—It is impossible to over-estimate the significance of the Diggs-Caminetti trials.

For all practical purposes these two cases may now be studied as one.

The social position of the two men first called attention to the charges brought against them. But this would only have given notoriety, not importance. The ill-judged action of their friends in trying to stave off an appearance before judge and jury added to the notoriety.

The intervention of the Attorney General, the fierce daring of Mr. McNab, the United States district attorney, taking his official life in his hands and challenging the Government of the United States to deal out even-handed justice even to the son of one of its trusted officers; the painful blunder of the President of the United States; his verbal rebuke to McNab and his actual compliance with McNab's demand; the debates in congress that followed—all this gave to what at first looked like a Sacramento elopement, a publicity not limited by the boundaries of this country.

New Principle on Trial

Yet these things are not of the essence of the matter. The importance of the case lies deeper. Perhaps the man or woman who made no secret of the absorbing interest which this case possessed could not have explained in so many words the nature of that interest.

But all the same, each person was conscious of a something vaster than the fate of two vicious young men. It was not they who were on trial. A new law of the land we love was on trial. And behind that, a new great principle of law, a new great principle of order, of life and government had to stand its trial before a jury composed of all the thoughtful, earnest persons amongst a population of ninety millions of free men.

The Mann act, miserably misnamed "the white slave traffic act," has had its baptism of fire. And the public have learned with amazement that its scope goes far out beyond their dreams of what law and the administration of law can do.

Designed to afford the Federal Government power to deal with criminals who fatten upon the flesh and blood of women, it was—and again by deliberate purpose—made to include vicious conduct in which no suggestion of monetary gain or of "white slavery" inhered, but which might tend eventually to swell the ranks of women devoted to a shameful life.

The world—our world, the world of the United States—has for some time been prepared to take arms against the brutalized creature who panders to vice and who by force or fraud holds women in prostitution, making his market out of them.

But the Diggs-Caminetti case told all this great world that law had now armed itself against conduct which long ago both men and women have condoned, and stood ready to brand as a party to this iniquity men who only thought to tread, as men had done before them, the primrose path of dalliance—at the cost of a woman's shame.

News Was Real News

The news was really news. It was new news. It was startling news. And our world has watched and waited and carefully read and as carefully thought, and is still making up its mind as to whether the law, justified by Congress and the Supreme Court of the United States, shall be justified at the bar of public opinion.

Judge Van Fleet, in his charge, so full, so strong, so clear, has repeated and emphasized his own conviction:

"IN MY JUDGMENT THE LAW IS A GOOD ONE AND IN THE INTERESTS OF PUBLIC MORALS AND DECENCY."

And again:

"THE MANN ACT IS AS MUCH FOR THE PROTECTION OF VIRTUOUS WOMEN AS IT IS TO BREAK UP THE EVIL TRAFFIC IN WOMEN."

And that is what the public has learned with such surprise. The public believed that the act was to break up the vile traffic in women.

And friends of Diggs and Caminetti may protest as they will; the judgment has been previously affirmed by the Supreme Court. And the court yet more supreme, the court of public opinion, the court of national conscience, will confirm the judgment of these lower tribunals.

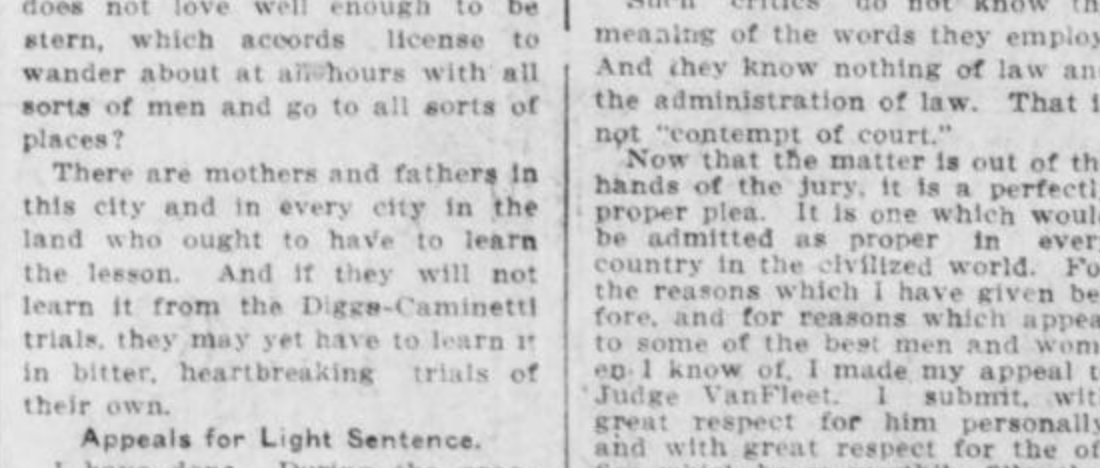

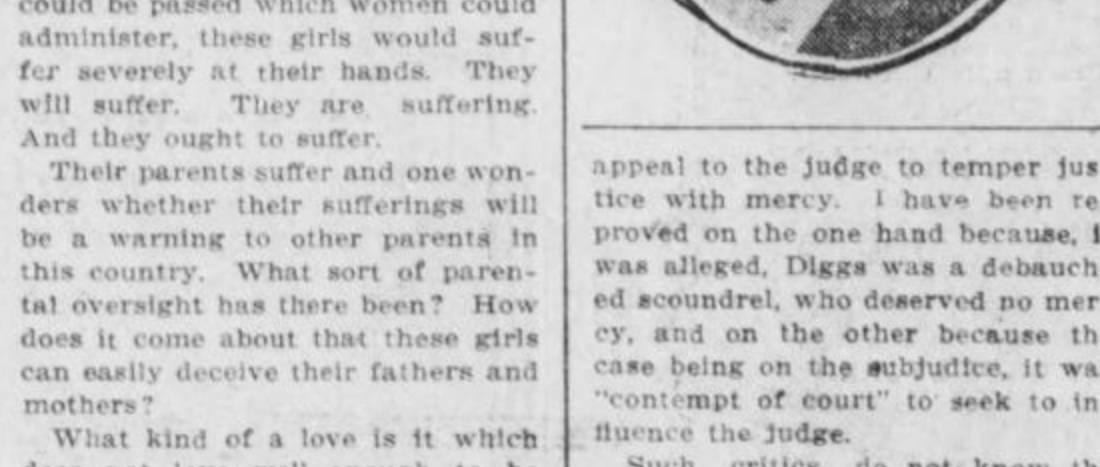

Attack on All Society

Prostitution is not a necessity. It is not, as generations, almost fondly, called it, a "necessary evil." The sacrifice of women to the passions of men, all but hallowed by the beliefs and practices of thousands of years, has to end. A new era has dawned and in this age conduct which once was thought of as personal and individual, is seen to be a crime against society. And society, for its own protection, will treat it as a crime.

It is this conviction, defined or unexpressed, which is demonstrated in a verdict of "guilty" against both Diggs and Caminetti. The feeling deepest in the souls of the earnest men and women throughout the United States who have followed the trials with such eager interest is not one of resentment on behalf of Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris. The wrong, it has been seen—or at least felt—is not the sins against these girls, but the attack upon the whole framework of the social order.

These two girls are entitled to very little sympathy, except as one sympathizes on general grounds with every man or woman who goes wrong, as one is sorry for the two men in the case. They are bad girls; treacherous, wicked. And if a law could be passed which women could administer, these girls would suffer severely at their hands. They will suffer. They are suffering. And they ought to suffer.

Their parents suffer and one wonders whether their sufferings will be a warning to other parents in this country. What sort of parental oversight has there been? How does it come about that these girls can so easily deceive their fathers and mothers?

What kind of a love is it which does not love well enough to be stern, which accords license to wander about at all hours with all sorts of men and go to all sorts of places?

There are mothers and fathers in this city and in every city in the land who ought to have to learn the lesson. And if they will not learn it from the Diggs-Caminetti trials, they may yet have to learn it in bitter, heartbreaking trials of their own.

Appeals for Light Sentence. I have done. During the progress of the trial I carefully refrained from saying a word which might prejudice the defendant. At the end of the Diggs trial I penned an

WHITE SLAVE LAW MADE THE PROTECTOR OF WOMANHOOD

THE Mann act, miserably misnamed "the white slave traffic act," has had its baptism of fire. Designed to afford the Federal Government power to deal with criminals who fatten upon the flesh and blood of women, it was—and again by deliberate purpose—made to include vicious conduct in which no suggestion of monetary gain or of "white slavery" inhered, but which might tend eventually to swell the ranks of women devoted to a shameful life.

The Diggs-Caminetti case told all this great world that law had now armed itself against conduct which long ago both men and women have condoned, and stood ready to brand as a party to this iniquity those who only thought to tread, as men had done before them, the primrose path of dalliance—at the cost of a woman's shame.—REV. CHARLES F. AKED.

Caminetti Begins Fight To Escape Sentence

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Undeterred by the adverse decision of the jury, Drew Caminetti's battle for an acquittal from the charge of white slavery which the Government has placed against him will go on, say his legal advisers.

"We hoped for an acquittal yesterday," said Marshal B. Woodworth, formerly United States District Attorney here, and chief counsel for Caminetti, "but the court's ruling against the admission of much of our evidence had led us to discount an unfavorable verdict, and the fight will go on."

"The first step will be a motion for a new trial when sentence is passed Wednesday. Judge Van Fleet undoubtedly will deny this, and we will appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which probably will reach the case next February."

"The Court of Appeals undoubtedly will reverse the verdict of the trial court."

If the jurors who found Caminetti guilty of an infraction of the Mann white slave traffic act last evening had known a recommendation for leniency was within their rights, that rider to the verdict would have been returned.

Verdict by Compromise. It was only by a compromise that human in her lies to save herself and Caminetti when she made her first public statement on the train. It is true that the jury believed the girl's frank story of her fight for her honor that was successful until she took the Reno trip.

"Cun Grano Salis" is the opinion the jury had of Marsha Warrington's tale. In the jury room some were confident that Miss Warrington persuaded Miss Norris to leave Sacramento.

Both the girls were viewed in the light of what the lawyers call "particeps criminis," which means "partners in crime."

"If the boys had the immoral intent before they left Sacramento the girls must have had it, too. They all took the flyer after they had been hashing it over for a week. They knew exactly what was going to happen," one juror explained it.

Caminetti did not change expression when the verdict was read. His wife bowed her head. When she raised her head, her face was flushed. His little baby, Naomi, 4 years old, romped about the floor, throwing her doll about and prattling happily. Sometimes the little child remembered the crowd, and became embarrassed. But she did not know what it all means to her.

The elder Mrs. Caminetti heard the verdict in the witness room. She did not repeat her demonstration of the previous day. She has herself in good control, and in a minute was bustling about like a Spartan mother arranging for the bond.

Free on $10,000 Bond. Commandatore Theodore Bacigalupi, one of the leaders of the Italian colony, and Frank J. Freeman, of Wiljows, a well-known attorney, signed the $10,000 bond paper, on which Caminetti was freed pending an appeal.

Diggs, having been convicted on four counts of the indictment, faces a prison term which may be set at twenty years, at the option of the judge, and also a fine of $20,000.

Caminetti, who was found guilty on only one count, faces the maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a fine of $5,000.

There remain over the heads of both Diggs and Caminetti indictments charging conspiracy to violate the act, and Diggs still has a third indictment hanging over him.

With Charles E. Harris, of Sacramento, his former attorney, he is accused of subornation of perjury. Nellie Barton, friend of Marsha Warrington, testified during the Diggs trial that Harris and Diggs had coached her in testimony, which she in turn was to drill Marsha Warrington for use on behalf of Diggs.

The perjury trial will be called before Judge Van Fleet on Wednesday.

Saws of Gins Claim Victims in Laurens

One Man Dead and Another Maimed for Life—Two Others Cut.

DUBLIN, Sept. 6.—The record of the week among cotton ginner in Laurens is one death and one man maimed for life, along with one widow and several fatherless children.

H. D. Temple died from wounds received when he was accidentally caught in the saws of a gin that he was operating on the farm of City Court Sheriff E. M. Grier, a few miles from Dublin.

The first accident happened Monday afternoon, when W. R. Arnold, superintendent of the Empire Cotton Oil Mill, had his arm cut off by a gin that he was repairing while it was in motion.

At the same mill where Mr. Arnold lost his arm, two negroes were injured.

Dublin Puts Ban on Sunday Business

Council Ordinance Would Close Every Store on Sabbath Day.

DUBLIN, Sept. 6.—The proposition of closing down every business house tight in the city of Dublin on Sunday is still causing the people of the city more or less loss of sleep, and bringing on plenty of discussion among the City Councilmen.

At the regular meeting of the Council this week, the matter was brought up again by an amendment to the ordinance prohibiting and one from carrying on any business on Sunday.

so that it would be a little less confusing. The amendment was not strongly objected to, but the discussion that it provoked on the Sunday closing in general was.

80 CITIES WILL JOIN IN STATE TRADE LEAGUE

Big Meeting at Macon September 16 to Organize Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

Practically every one of the State's 80 commercial organizations and trade bodies will be represented at the large meeting to be held in Macon September 16 for the purpose of completing the formation of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce and electing a president.

One of the special objects of the State Chamber of Commerce is the strengthening of the various local organizations of the State known by such names as boards of trade and chambers of commerce, organizing such bodies in every county of the State where there is no such organization, and promoting the active cooperation of these local bodies in the industrial development of the State as a whole.

The executive committee of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce has been making a special effort during the past few weeks to get the names of all such organizations of the State and the following is a list of those towns so far reporting local commercial organizations:

Albany, Americus, Arlington, Ashburn, Athens, Augusta, Barnesville, Baxley, Blackshear, Blakely, Brunswick, Cairo, Calhoun, Camilla, Carrollton, Cartersville, Clarkston, Clayton, College Park, Columbus, Cordele, Dallas, Dalton, Decatur, Douglasville, Dublin, Douglas, Eastman, Elberton, Ellijay, Fitzgerald, Fort Gaines, Fort Valley, Gainesville, Griffin, Hartwell, Hawkinsville, Jefferson, Winder, Jesup, Jonesboro, Kirkwood, Lafayette, LaGrange, Lavonia, Lawrenceville, Lithonia, Locust Grove, McDonough, Macon, Manchester, Milledgeville, Millen, Moultrie, Newnan, Ocala, Perry, Quitman, Rome, Royston, Savannah, Sparta, Stillman, Springdale, Swainsboro, Sylvania, Thomason, Tifton, Tooeva, Union City, Valdosta, Vienna, Vidalia, Washington and Waycross.

Among the counties of the State having more than one local organization are DeKalb, with four, and Fulton, Emanuel, Henry, Houston and Jackson, each with two local organizations.

Decatur Enthuses Over State Chamber.

Business men of Decatur are among the most enthusiastic recruits of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, the newly organized institution whose backers plan great things for the State's development. A large delegation from Decatur, made up of members of the Board of Trade, will go to Macon September 16 to attend the first meeting of the State organization.

The Decatur Board of Trade, incorporating the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, spoke proudly of the fact that DeKalb is the only county in the State in which forty of the commercial organizations are at work. They are the Boards of Trade of Decatur, Kirkwood, Clarkston and Lithonia.

Among those who will go to Macon are W. J. Debnay, president of the board; W. H. S. Hamilton, H. G. Hastings, J. E. Bodenhamer, A. R. Almon, J. O. Norris, Martin Calvin, George H. Naylor, E. J. Freeman, John A. Montgomery, Mayor of Decatur; J. F. Green, Brooks G. Brown, J. V. Dunlap, T. S. Hodges, M. N. Oring, secretary of the Decatur board, and Robert C. W. Hanger, secretary of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and Robert C. W. Hanger, secretary of the Decatur board. Many others will be in the party which will join the special train of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Thomasville Makes 5-Mile Speed Limit

Trains Must Go Slow in Corporate Limits—Many Narrow Escapes.

THOMASVILLE, Sept. 6.—The Thomasville City Council adopted an ordinance this week setting a speed limit of five miles an hour for all trains entering the city.

There are several railroad crossings in the city which are dangerous, especially to automobilists, and there have been some narrow escapes by the occupants of cars.

Owing to deep cuts or curves in the road it is hard to see the trains as they come up and the railroad authorities have been requested to put warnings to give the signal when a train is approaching.

LADY CONSTANCE STEWART-RICHARDSON, classic dancer, who has sailed from England to appear in New York.

Lady Constance Sails in 'Biblical' Costume

Gown Worn Aboard Olympic by Dancer is Striking Creation of Cloth of Gold.

Special Cable to The American. SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 6.—A startling combination of the Oriental and the Biblical was worn to-day by Lady Constance Stewart-Richardson, who sailed on the Olympic to-day for New York.

Her gown was of cloth-of-gold, with Oriental figures in deep greens and browns. Her wide elbow sleeves were faced with iridescent material in the two shades, and she wore gold-thread stockings with gilt trimmings. A gold-embroidered brown turban had flowing gold chiffon veil.

Lady Constance is coming to America to tour the country in a theatrical combination with Gertrude Hoffman and Polette. The trio will be seen at the Atlanta Theater this season.

TRAIN KILLS FARMER SITTING ON CROSSTIE

MACON, Sept. 6.—W. C. Evans, a young farmer of Jackson, was killed to-day when struck by an engine on the Central of Georgia Railroad just beyond the Macon city limits.

Evans was sitting on the end of a cross-tie, supposedly asleep. The engine saw him, but thought he was awake and would get out of the way. The pilot crushed the man to death.

BODY GUARD OF PRESIDENT GETS BANKER PARDON

Captain "Bill" McDonald, an Old Texas Ranger, Pleads Case of Convicted Financier.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—When President Wilson a few days ago pardoned a Texas banker who had been sent to the penitentiary for violation of the national banking laws, few persons knew that he did so at the request of his old bodyguard, "Silent Bill" McDonald, who came all the way from Dallas to lay the case before him.

"Silent Bill" is now United States Marshal for the Northern District of Texas, thanks to the President, and one of his first duties was to take the convicted banker to the penitentiary to serve a five-year term. On the way the banker told his story to "Bill," and so impressed was the veteran ranger that he at once started an investigation on his own account. In the meantime friends of the banker had succeeded in getting the sentence reduced from five years to a year and a day. But this did not satisfy "Bill." He had found that all the man had told him was true, and he did not hesitate to say that no innocent man was going to stay in the penitentiary if he could help it. His friends said he was foolish to proceed any further, as everything possible had been done.

"No, it hasn't," said "Bill." "I'll pay my own fare to Washington and lay this case before the President rather than see an innocent man do time in the penitentiary. I know the man is innocent, and I won't rest until he is freed."

So "Bill" packed his suit case and started for Washington, armed with the papers in the case.

On his arrival here he went at once to the Department of Justice, where he was told that nothing further could be done for the banker. "Well, we'll see about that," said "Bill."

"Bill" saw the President and the next day the banker was pardoned.

NEGROES PRAY HARD When Meteor Shines

Flaming Heavenly Body With Enormous Head Illuminates the Sky Around Cordele.

CORDELE, Sept. 6.—Consternation reigned among the negro population of Cordele at the appearance of the second meteor within the last few days. Some of the superstitious whites were also greatly afraid at the sight of an immense luminous body sweeping across the sky in the southern horizon at an altitude apparently not more than 1,000 feet.

The meteor was traveling from east to west and was so large and brilliant that the entire southern horizon was lighted. Its head appeared larger than an ordinary cotton basket and its tail more than twenty feet long.

DAIRYMEN OBJECT TO Discriminative Test

Valdosta Producers Insist Law Should Apply to Milk Shippers Into Their City.

VALDOSTA, Sept. 6.—Valdosta dairymen object to paying the fees required by the city ordinances for inspecting their cows for tuberculosis until the shippers of milk and cream into this city furnish certificates showing that the latter's cows are free of disease. A number of the ice cream manufacturers here use cream shipped from other points and the local dairymen contend that it is unfair to make them abide by the stringent regulations embodied in the city ordinances and not require the same of their foreign competitors.

ESCAPES FROM JAIL ATTIRED AS A WOMAN

Notorious Pickpocket Exchanges Clothes With a "Fair" Visitor and Makes Quick Getaway.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Jim Cummerford, alias Frank White, a notorious pickpocket and ex-convict, escaped from the Alameda County jail by exchanging clothes with a young woman caller.

The exchange of clothing was made while the corridor of the jail was filled with Sunday visitors. The girl slipped off a white duck suit and the man's costume she had on under this. The prisoner put the girl's suit on over his own clothes, fastened on the hat, which had a wig and veil attached, and the couple, accompanied by another young man, walked out of the door past the unsuspecting jailer.

Deputy Sheriff Stachler was hoodwinked so badly that he shook hands with the bogus girl at the gate. He heard a giggle and thought it was a sob. Stachler missed his prisoner a moment later, and gave the alarm, but the man and the two confederates who had helped him to escape had disappeared.

DUKE INTERESTS MAY Bid on A., B. & A. R. R.

BIG CONSIGNMENT OF PHONE POLES FOR CUBA

BRUNSWICK, Sept. 6.—The steamer Cienfuegos now in port at the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic terminals, is taking on 1,000 telephone poles to be used in Cuba. The poles are to be used on the government line outside Havana, and it is the first consignment of several thousand to be shipped from Brunswick. This is the first shipment on consignment for Cuba, where telephone lines are being installed everywhere by the government.

MRS. GODBEE TO BARE HEART ON WITNESS STAND

Friends of Slayer of Former Husband and His Bride Predict Story of Long Suffering.

CONFIDENT OF ACQUITTAL

Difficulty Expected To Be Encountered in Impaneling Jury in Jenkins County.

MILLEN, Sept. 5.—As the time draws near for the trial of Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee on the charge of killing her divorced husband and his young bride, her success in his affections, there are indications aplenty that the story to be told will be lifted out of the commonplace and sordid setting of emotional insanity and will become the human document of a woman wronged and neglected for more than twenty years.

Many people in Southeast Georgia believe that the woman on trial for her life will have a story to tell that will quicken pulses and grip hearts and excite sympathy, and the trial is anticipated with a breathless eagerness.

The Grand Jury of Jenkins County will assemble Monday to consider the case of Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, who, less than a month ago, met her former husband in the Millen post office, arm in arm with his laughing young bride, and who shot them to death with hardly a word of warning.

The trial of the case will proceed almost immediately as is expected, before Judge Henry C. Hammond.

Awaiting trial, Mrs. Godbee remains in a comfortably appointed cell in the Jenkins County jail. She is wearing a pleasant appearance, hardly looking the fact that she is a grandmother and the mother of a daughter who is known widely for her beauty.

Mrs. Godbee is undisturbed, it seems, almost cheerful, and ready to talk on any subject except that of herself and her case.

Hard to Find Jurors. Considerable difficulty, it is expected, will be attached to the selection of a jury. Either Mrs. Godbee or her slain husband is kin to every third man, woman or child in Jenkins County, and everybody knows, to the degree of intimacy, the families of both.

Jury selection, then, will be difficult, certainly, for it is expected that the veniremen who are not related by blood or marriage to one or the other may have fixed opinions which will eliminate them. As it is, the case is on the lips of every one, common subject for speculation in every household.

Common speculation also hinges about Mrs. Godbee's probable motive in killing Judge Godbee and his wife. Although it has been stated she will plead emotional insanity, there are few who believe her defense will be based altogether on that plea. Those who know her best, however, state that her actions of a lifetime contradict the argument of lack of balance. Her self-possession before the crime and since the crime has been remarkable, it is said.

The fact that she had the revolver in her handbag the morning of the tragedy leads to the certain conclusion that the killing was premeditated. No other motive would have influenced her to go about armed, it is generally considered.

Fascinated by Shooting. But the motive that prompted her to fire a shot into the brain of the youthful bride is shrouded with mystery. Mrs. Godbee's first had no grudge against Mrs. Godbee's second, except the natural grievance that comes with jealousy. It is considered that in the early part of the moment, after she had begun to work the trigger rapidly, fascinated by the sound of shots and the thrill of shooting, she almost involuntarily turned the revolver on the woman.

The most common anticipation concerning the defense is that Mrs. Godbee will charge her former husband with brutal treatment and neglect beginning even in the years of their early married life, 25 years ago.

Fit Homeless Child In Childless Home Is Work of Society

Unique Organization for the Care of Orphans in State of Georgia.

ROME, Sept. 6.—Mrs. L. S. Becker, a representative of a unique philanthropic society, the Georgia Children's Home Society, is in the city in the interest of the organization. The Children's Home Society is unique in the annals of philanthropy. Its business is to fit the homeless child into the childless home. The society does not believe in orphan's homes and like institutions, but works on the idea that every child has the right to be a member of a family circle. The society does not stop at that. It has representatives who travel around finding those who wish to adopt children and also caring for destitute orphans. The lists are carefully compiled and the right child is fitted into the right home. The society believes in temperance and that people of certain temperaments should adopt children of like temperaments. The people of Rome are very much interested in Mrs. Becker's work.

Atlantans Held as Robbery Suspects

Savannah Detectives Arrest R. S. Freeman and George Mann—Jacksonville Man Also Taken.

SAVANNAH, Sept. 6.—R. S. Freeman and George Mann, of Atlanta, well-dressed young men, are held by the Savannah detectives as suspects in a series of burglaries that have alarmed the South Side here the past week. The young men were subjected to a grilling examination, but the detectives would make no statements other than they were "just suspects."

Freeman claims to be the son of J. P. Freeman, Atlanta sport goods man. He had in his possession several pictures of women recently posed at Tybee.

Some evidence of the work of the committee has done much to impress upon the people the importance of fresh air, light and cleanliness, to aid the law in suppressing vice and crime and in breaking up resorts of immorality in the neighborhood, to encourage wholesome thought by lectures and the dissemination of good literature among the young and to encourage habits of industry by establishing classes in cooking, sewing, millinery, etc.

The work just mentioned is followed out systematically through five departments, namely: The moral, educational, literary, industrial, sanitary and musical departments, each with its committees and officers.

With this work have come excellent results in the homes of the people. Some evidence of the work of the unit might be mentioned. Wayward girls have been put into proper environment, dens of vice and immorality have been eliminated from communities; practical aid has been given to the sick; really active girls' clubs have been organized where there have been heart-to-heart talks.

It was under the auspices of the Neighborhood Union that the public schools of Atlanta were used for the first time for free summer schools and recreation centers. This has been done for the past two summers in several of the negro public schools. Through this effort more than a thousand negro boys and girls have been given instruction in handicraft, games and deportment.

To know the true state of affairs it was thought best to appoint an investigating committee to visit the various schools and make reports at the meeting. These reports formed the basis on which to work. Eleven schools were visited and thoroughly inspected. The reports from the different schools were such that all concerned about the welfare of children were moved to work zealously to bring aid to negro children who are studying under such unsanitary and inadequate conditions.

Three Men Struck By Lightning Bolt

One Perhaps Fatally Injured—Copper Band on Hat Saves Another.

CARTERSVILLE, Sept. 6.—During an electric storm at Hitchcock's Grist Mill, ten men near Taylorsville, three men were struck by lightning while sitting under a tree. They are R. D. Hitchcock, Jeff Freeman and John Carroll.

Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Freeman were both seriously injured. Their heads and bodies were badly burned and their clothing burned almost into shreds. A copper band on the inside of Mr. Hitchcock's hat saved him from instant death.

PASTOR TO PREACH ON STYLES AND MANNERS

MACON, Sept. 6.—Great interest has been aroused locally by the announcement that the Rev. W. N. Answorth, pastor of Method Street Methodist Church, and former president of Wesleyan College, will deliver a special sermon Sunday night on "Style, Manners and Morals of the Dress of Modern Women."

Teachers Get Second Pay Check This Week

State Treasurer Will Mail Out $500,000, One-fifth of Common School Budget.

The second payment on the 1913 salaries of Georgia public school teachers will be made early this week when State Treasurer Speer will mail out checks amounting to $500,000. This is one-fifth of the total amount appropriated for the support of the common schools of the State during the year. The first installment was paid several weeks ago, of an amount equal to that to be paid this week.

NEGRO WOMEN IN CRUSADE TO AID THEIR RACE

Committee Is Working to Keep Children in School and Improve Hygienic Conditions.

Five years ago the negro women of Atlanta began a crusade on vice conditions and the lack of hygienic environment of their race, that has been fruitful of good to the community. A handful of women started the movement to educate the mothers who were hindered by poverty and daily labor that led them from their homes and the care of their children.

5 CANDIDATES OUT FOR PLACE AS G. A. R. CHIEF

Liveliest Race in History of Organization Predicted for Chattanooga Encampment.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 4.—Every indication points to a spirited contest at the Chattanooga encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic for commander-in-chief. Five States have so far made entries, and each entry is a popular man. The States already in the contest for the prize are, in alphabetical order, Indiana, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey and South Dakota.

The Department of Indiana has endorsed O. A. Somers, a private in the ranks. Mr. Somers lives at Kokomo, and is a popular man with the members of the Grand Army. He has the State and undivided support of his State and counts on help from a number of the strong States of the Central West and from every member of the Grand Army; to use the words of a friend and supporter, "who believes that the time has come when a private soldier should be honored."

Nebraska has entered the lists with Colonel C. E. Adams, a banker and farmer of Superior, Nebr. He is endorsed by his State Department, and has a war record linked with the history of the Fourteenth Army Corps. Michigan presents Gardner.

Michigan will come to the encampment carrying the flag of the Hon. Washington D. Adams, the well-known editor-statesman, and enter him as a candidate for the honor. Colonel Gardner enlisted in the service when only 16, was with General Sherman during the campaign from Chattanooga to Atlanta and sustained a serious wound at Resaca, which necessitated retirement on an honorable discharge.

New Jersey's candidate for the honor is Colonel Ralph D. Cole, a popular Grand Army man, who has a creditable war record. He has the endorsement of the New Jersey Department of the G. A. R. and is regarded as the candidate of the Eastern section.

South Dakota has endorsed Captain N. H. Kingman, of Selby, and will come to Chattanooga determined to land first. Captain Kingman organized a company in the Thirtieth Wisconsin Regiment, and served with that organization until the close of the war. He has the endorsement of the prominent figures in the Grand Army of the Republic since its organization and his strength is general.

With five strong candidates, said to be the greatest number ever presented before a national encampment, the fight for the honor promises to be spirited and full of interest. It should be explained that these men are candidates in the sense that their respective State Departments have endorsed them.

Two-Step and Waltz Too Tame for Club

Turkey Trot, Bunny Hug, Boston Dip and Tango Prevail in Macon.

MACON, Sept. 6.—No one may attend the regular weekly Thursday night dances given at the Recreation Club, whose grounds are located five miles from the city, unless he or she can dance the turkey trot, the bunny hug, the Boston dip and the tango. In an advertisement published in a Macon paper, it is stated: "All persons attending dances must do the turkey trot, bunny hug and all the latest dances." The two-step and the waltz are not permitted on the floor of the club.

It is believed that this is the only club in the country which obliges its members to dance the new-fangled steps.

GIRLS GIVE WHITFIELD CONVICTS PICNIC DINNER

DALTON, Sept. 6.—Through the efforts of Misses Josie Massey, Emma Mann, Fannie Moore Prothro, Mattie Lee Greener and Margaret Green, an excellent picnic lunch was prepared for the members of the Whitfield County convict camp, the young ladies expending their efforts toward making the occasion one of pleasure to the convicts. The dinner was donated by the people of Tunnel Hill, and included chicken, cakes, ice cream and other delicacies.

Every Tooth is a "Pearl of Great Price" --- You Haven't One to Lose

Our National Weakness. Not so long since an eminent surgeon startled the nation by prescribing "teeth" to cure dyspepsia and indigestion. Today it is the only recognized remedy.

As long as there is a tooth missing—a loose tooth—a hollow tooth in your mouth, you are not masticating your food properly. You favor the sensitive weak part—you are bringing on chronic dyspepsia.

Indigestion, dyspepsia and malnutrition—thinness, weakness and continual distress all arise from bad teeth, from making the stomach "chew" the food.

There's no reason why you should let this danger confront you. Let me make your teeth sound and whole. That will make your health the better. No matter how many are missing, or how many are hollow, aching or loose, I can put them in proper condition by

GEORGIA BEGINS BATTLE TO REPEL THE BOLL WEEVIL

Cotton Pest Crosses State Line and Farm Expts Go to Louisiana for Pointers.

INSECT MAKES A 75-MILE HOP

Enemy of Fleecy Crop Expected to Push Just as Far Next Year and Year After.

By CHARLES A. WHITTLE.

Georgia State College of Agriculture.

The boll weevil has landed in Georgia. He has made his hop of from 50 to 75 miles. Next season he will measure another zone that wide to have and to hold his cotton, and so on till there is no more cotton for him to hop into.

The fight is on in Georgia. It may be said to be inaugurated actively to-morrow with the invasion of weevil territory by about 25 farm demonstration agents of Georgia, who are working along the western border of the State of Georgia.

The party is gathering at St. Charles Hotel in New Orleans today ready to start out to-morrow over Louisiana, where the weevil is being met.

Will Study the Pest.

To get acquainted with the weevil, to see how he operates, what damage he does, when he is active, and to observe how the Louisiana farmers are fighting him, or standing him off, so to speak, as far as they are able while the cotton matures, and to get at all the best practices of agriculture under boll weevil conditions, will engross the attention of the boll weevil scouts for the next ten days.

This scouting party is being taken out by the United States Department of Agriculture, which is operating through the State College of Agriculture of Georgia, using the farm demonstration agents of the Department of Agriculture and the college.

Making use of the opportunity afforded, the Department of Agriculture of the State of Georgia is sending along representatives, including Assistant Commissioner Hughes and State Entomologist Worsham. This department received an appropriation from the recent Legislature for propagating a variety of cotton which Professor Worsham has developed that it is claimed is resistant to weevil and largely resistant to the boll weevil.

Campbell on Scene. Prof. J. Phil Campbell, State agent in charge of farm demonstration agents, boys' corn clubs and girls' clubs, has headed the party of boll weevil scouts to weevil territory. In each State where investigations will be conducted, the State agent will map out an itinerary for the party.

Mr. Evans of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, will have general direction of the trip and will accompany the party, representing Hon. Bradford Knapp, who is chief in charge of all the farm demonstration work in the South.

FIGHT TO KICK LID OFF IS ON IN MOULTRIE, GA.

MOULTRIE, Sept. 6.—One of the most bitter municipal campaigns in the history of Moultrie is now on with full force. The election does not come off until October 6, but the various candidates have been campaigning for some time. Judge George R. Kline and Col. James Humphreys are in the race for mayor. The election will decide whether or not the "lid" will be pulled off in Moultrie.

Charlton's Iron Nerve Breaks Italian Inquisition Is Feared

Porter Charlton is shown in charge of Moultrie is now on with full force. The election does not come off until October 6, but the various candidates have been campaigning for some time. Judge George R. Kline and Col. James Humphreys are in the race for mayor. The election will decide whether or not the "lid" will be pulled off in Moultrie.

Young American Undergoes Third Degree Preparatory to Being Put on Trial.

Special Cable to The American. COMO, ITALY, Sept. 6.—Something of the cheerful indifference of Porter Charlton seems gone. The young American, awaiting trial on the charge that he killed his beautiful wife shortly after their marriage three years ago, has grown nervous under the strain of the exacting third degree of the Italian police.

More than once the delicate-seeming youth has been on the verge of collapse when the police remorselessly plied him with questions, and, in the sinister way that belongs to no one else but Italian police, sought to break his nerve.

But only when his father entered his cell, a day or two ago, did anything like an actual break of nerve occur. Then the young man threw himself on his father's breast and cried like a baby. The father, Judge Paul Charlton, was shaken also by the demonstration, but not to such an extent as was his son.

$25,000 LOVE SUIT A EUGENIC MARRIAGE TEST

Girl Charges That Suitor Broke Engagement on Ground That Brother Had Tuberculosis.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—The first suit to test the law of eugenics has been brought by Miss Rose Markewsky, of No. 907 Myrtle street. She filed, through her attorney, Clarence A. Tooten, a bill for $25,000 against Charles F. Drucker, of No. 923 South Ashland avenue, charging that he broke their engagement on the ground that her older brother has tuberculosis.

"This so-called chivalrous excuse of Mr. Drucker may be eugenics, but I can not see it," declared Miss Markewsky.

"The very idea of his resorting to these tactics is not only contemptible but ridiculous. Why did not he show a spark of manhood and ask to be released from his engagement without trumping up such an absurd excuse."

"If eugenics enters into the case at all, I feel confident that any jury would make the breaking of the engagement optional with me. I can play better golf and tennis than Mr. Drucker. In fact, I think any violent exercise test. He could not even stand the physical test for the police department."

"Wait until my so-called invalid brother hears about this—that's all. Mr. Drucker can not trifle with my affections and expect to get away with impunity. This suit is not for revenge but to give Mr. Drucker an opportunity for serious meditation in future years."

CONTRACT LET FOR ALBANY COUNTRY CLUBHOUSE

ALBANY, Sept. 6.—A contract has been let for the new club house of the Albany Country Club, to be erected on its grounds north of the city, and to cost, when completed, about $5,000. The plans for the club house were prepared by Charles Edwin Choate, an Atlanta architect, and the contract for its erection has been awarded to R. S. Smith, of this city.

'My Dixie Girl' This Week's Bill at Bijou

Jewell Kelley Company Will Present Stirring Drama of Kentucky Mountain Feud.

The splendid success and remarkable attendance record that was made by the Jewell Kelley Company last week at the Bijou is establishing this organization as one of the most popular that has ever entertained Atlanta theater-goers.

The play that has been selected for the third week, which will begin with the matinee to-morrow afternoon, will be beyond a doubt the best offering of the company so far. The play will be a stirring comedy-drama of four acts, "My Dixie Girl," with the scenes laid in a little village in the Kentucky mountains, the home of the intrepid Kentucky feudists.

The various members of the company will have strong roles. Jewell Kelley will play the part of Charles Melville, and Rose Morris will impersonate Grace Hopkins. There are two negro characters in the play that will furnish considerable comedy, and Eddie Black will have one of his famous parts, Dink Botts.

Wealthy Young Man Under $15,000 Bond

J. J. Battle, of Moultrie, To Be Tried For Assault With Intent to Murder.

MOULTRIE, Sept. 6.—J. J. Battle, who is under $15,000 bond for shooting Walter P. Brown, will be tried at an adjourned term of Superior Court here next week.

Mr. Battle, who is one of the wealthiest men in this part of the State, as soon as the Grand Jury returned an indictment charging him with assault with intent to murder, employed an imposing array of counsel.

Military Academy to Open Next Tuesday

Students From All Over the World to Enroll at Famous Southern Institution.

The Georgia Military Academy will open its fourteenth year Tuesday morning. Students from every part of the Union and several foreign countries will make up the roll.

Already members of the faculty and some of the athletes have arrived in preparation for the opening. Colonel J. C. Woodward, president, said Saturday the school would have the most auspicious opening in its history.

UNION TRUST CO. PUTS CAPITAL UP TO ONE MILLION

Connections With Big Northern Financial Centers Enable Atlanta Concern to Expand.

Founded the early part of the year for the purpose of specializing in farm loans in the South, particularly in Georgia, Alabama and Florida, the Union Trust Company, with offices in the Third National Bank building, Atlanta, Saturday made the announcement of an increase of its capital stock from $300,000 to $1,000,000.

Another advance in the capital stock is anticipated within a short time, due to the great demand for this class of loans in the South. An indication of the need of this section of the country in respect to farm loans is contained in the fact that the Georgia farmer can borrow on an average of only $3.03 an acre, while his brother farmer in Illinois, for example, can borrow $24.23 an acre in spite of the circumstance that the farms of the Southern States are considered intrinsically more valuable than those of the Middle Western States.

The Union Trust Company has formed most valuable connections in Chicago, New York and other cities by which it will be able to make loans to the Southern farmers far in excess of the general run of corporations of this nature.

George D. Pollock, founder of two banks in Rome, Ga., and president of one, is the president of the new trust company. Moultrie M. Sessions, president of the Seasons Loan and Trust Company, of Marietta, is vice president and loan manager, and T. R. Lombard, of New York, is vice president. John Ruddle, of Pennsylvania, is secretary and treasurer.

Among the trustees are H. W. Dillon, Atlanta; S. J. Elder, one of the largest planters of Middle Georgia; T. E. Fletcher, Forsyth, Ga.; State Senator B. S. Miller, Judge David W. Meadow, of the Northern circuit; Dr. E. J. Sprattling, Judge U. V. Whipple, presiding judge of the Flint circuit, and John D. Abernathy, attorney and banker of Blakely, Ga.

Vesper Program Announced.

At the Vesper service of the Young Women's Christian Association Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will speak and Miss Adgate Ellis will sing. The meeting, to be held in the rooms at 16 West Baker street promises to be unusually interesting.

Portrayal of Lincoln Is Alkahest Feature

Benjamin Chapin's Four-Act Play Only One of Ten Star Attractions for Atlanta.

One of the most remarkable presentations of the Alkahest Lyceum course in Atlanta the coming season will be the portrayal of Abraham Lincoln by Benjamin Chapin, one of the highest priced men in Lyceum work in America.

Mr. Chapin's portrayal of the famous war President is regarded as so true to life as to be little short of a miracle. The entertainment will be in the nature of a dramatic monologue portrayal of Mr. Chapin's own four-act play, "Lincoln," a character drama of life in the White House.

Mr. Chapin's portrayal of Lincoln is but one of ten splendid numbers which will be given in the Alkahest Lyceum course the coming season. Season tickets for the Alkahest course this year will go on sale at the store of the Cable Piano Company on Broad street, near Peachtree, Monday, September 23, and the sale will continue through Thursday, October 2.

Send for a Sample Bottle of Newbro's Herpicide

We want everyone to become acquainted with a hair preparation that not only promises to do certain things, but does them. We want every person having trouble with their hair to become familiar with the merits of Newbro's Herpicide, to experience its subtle but exquisite odor and to see the beautifying effect which it has upon the hair.

There is a germ or microbe which lodges in the scalp and the result is the scale-like accumulation we call dandruff. That dandruff is due to a germ is no longer a theory, but a scientifically established fact. The existence of this germ was proven by M. Sabouraud, an eminent French scientist, who inoculated a rabbit with human dandruff, causing the rabbit to become denuded of hair in six weeks. A similar demonstration with a guinea pig was later made by Drs. Lesser and Bishop in England. The fact that Newbro's Herpicide is compounded in harmony with the germ theory of dandruff accounts for its extraordinary success in the treatment of this ailment.

Thousands of users have found Herpicide most dependable for the eradication of dandruff, to stop itching of the scalp and to prevent falling hair. It receives the highest endorsements. The results attending its intelligent use are a revelation and stamp Newbro's Herpicide as wonderfully reliable.

Newbro's Herpicide is always positive in its action. Every promise made for it in the advertising, on the label or by the dealer who sells it, is backed up by one hundred per cent of the most pleasing and satisfying efficiency.

To convince yourself of the wonderful hair-saving and beautifying qualities of this scalp prophylactic, send ten cents in postage or silver, to cover cost of packing and mailing, to The Herpicide Company, Dept. 72 B, Detroit, Michigan, for trial size bottle of Herpicide, also a valuable booklet on the care of the hair.

If you prefer to give it a more thorough test than you could from a sample, you can buy a large size bottle from your dealer, who will personally guarantee it. If the first bottle used does not produce good results, he will refund your money.

Herpicide is dispensed in all the better Barber Shops and Beauty Parlors.

JURIST WAGES BITTER FIGHT FOR CHILDREN

William A. Gunter and Wife Baricaded Against Each Other in Same House.

SENSATIONS IN COURTROOM

Father of Alabama Political Powers Attacks Opposing Counsel at Divorce Hearing.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 6.

Barricades and bitterness are stoutly established in the beautiful home of Colonel W. A. Gunter, former Justice of the State Supreme Court and a leading lawyer of Alabama. The divorce suit in which Colonel Gunter and his wife, Mrs. Kate Bragg Gunter, a leader in Montgomery's intellectual set, made sensational charges each against the other, has caused neither to leave the ancestral home on Clayton street.

They live each in a wing apart from the other, neither recognizing the other on the rare occasions when by chance they meet. Between them their six children pass each day, the youngest of whom is but 4 years old, and the oldest in her early teens. It is about the children that the fight is the bitterest.

The Gunter divorce case has stirred Montgomery to its depths. After four months of taking testimony, the proceedings in open court have been concluded, but no decree has come yet. The city in its sentiments is divided between sympathy for Colonel Gunter, who is 79 years old, and for his wife, who is little more than 40.

Sons Political Powers.
The case was full of spectacular features, chief among which was the figure of Mrs. Gunter, fighting almost single-handed against a powerful faction, composed of her aged husband's sons and daughters by a former marriage, the sons being the acknowledged political powers of the city.

Then there was the figure of the aged defendant himself, engaging in a rough-and-tumble fight with his wife's counsel in the courtroom. The litigation for absolute divorce, the possession of the six children, the possession of a fortune of $40,000, and that both parties continue to live at the family home—all these have been features to arouse Montgomery.

Then when the aged man answered the divorce charge with a counter suit, filling it in the court of his son, Judge Gaston Gunter, City Court head, former Mayor and now acknowledged political boss of Montgomery, it created a furore. Immediately the city began to take sides in the affair. W. A. Gunter Jr., another son of the defendant by first marriage and present Mayor of the city, began to attend every session of the hearing along with Police Commissioner C. Patrick McIntyre, the mainstay of the city political machine, who was named associate counsel for the defendant. The daily sessions of the trial began to assume the aspects of a municipal caucus, bent on solving some problem confronting the administration.

Says He Was Defrauded.
In his court case the aged man, who assisted in his own case, intimated that he had been defrauded in marriage. He was 65 years old, and the bride was 18 when the marriage was performed. His petition stated that when he had married the pretty Kate Bragg, a descendant of General Braxton Bragg, he thought he was marrying "a jewel without a flaw," but that he had found out in the fourteen years of married life that her temper was ungovernable, and "though she be as fair as the fair Ophelia," he could no longer live with her.

Lawyer's Face Slapped.
During the first week of the trial Colonel Gunter created a sensation in the courtroom when in a fit of anger he interrupted his counsel while an alienist was testifying about Mr. Gunter's mental condition. Following a heated dispute with the opposing counsel regarding the admission of certain testimony tending to show that his wife was possessed of a violent temper he ran across the room and raising his clenched fist attacked the opposing lawyer. Those behind him came Mrs. Darrington Semple, a daughter by the first marriage and head of a fashionable school for girls in New York city. Brushing her father aside before the astonished victim of the attack could defend himself, she seized the latter and vigorously slapped his cheeks.

The fight was stopped when Mrs. J. Kirkman Jackson, her sister, swooned away and had to be carried from the courtroom. News of the melee reached the ear of Judge Gaston Gunter in his chambers on the second floor of the court building. He bounded down the stairway and rushed into the Chancery courtroom where he declared in heated tones that he would make a personal matter of the case if anyone dared lay hands upon the elder man.

Hostilities almost opened again when Mrs. Gunter took the stand. She openly defied Judge Gaston Gunter, branding him as dishonest when she sought to show cause why she did not want him appointed administrator in her husband's will.

PARTY NEAR DEATH IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

GRIFPIN, Sept. 6.—Clarence Nixon, his wife and family of Senola, narrowly escaped death during a rainstorm, by the overturning of the automobile in which they were riding.

The party was returning from High Falls when their car ran off a high embankment about 2 miles from Griffin. Fortunately the car in turning lurched fell across a ditch at the bottom of the decline, and the occupants were dumped into the ditch.

Alfred Burbank to Have Experiment Farm in Florida

Has Purchased 1,000 Acres in St. Johns County—No Colonization Scheme.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Sept. 6.—Papers have been finally signed by which Alfred Burbank, brother of Luther Burbank and himself a plant wizard of renown, has secured 1,000 acres in St. Johns County for an experiment farm, upon which he will carry on experimental work in developing Florida fruits, truck and stock.

Mr. Burbank was brought here through the efforts of the St. Augustine Chamber of Commerce. The money for his plan is coming out of his own pocket and he is preparing to do many years of work here which will prove of great benefit to Florida.

U. S. Expert Robs Mosquito of Sting

Scientist Devises Recipe Which He Says Will Make Insect as Harmless as Dove.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The teasing, tantalizing sting of the American mosquito has lost its power to harm and madden, if the recipe which Dr. L. B. Howard, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Entomology, has devised to-day, is used.

Some humorists about the department call it twisting the toes of the mosquito, and this is the way it is done.

Take a bath towel, pour a few drops of oil of citronella, spirits of camphor and oil of cedar, compounded together, on the towel.

Throw the towel over the head of the bed, and it is a safe guarantee that every mosquito within a mile will hasten to safer quarters.

Black Green Goods Men Land in Jail

Two Negroes Sell Another Half Interest in Confederate $500 Bill for $50, U. S.

Alexander Dumas, a negro, endeavored to rival the imagination of the famous Frenchman, but he landed in the police station Saturday afternoon on a charge of swindling.

Robert Revelle, a negro of Warm Springs, came to Atlanta with $50 in his pocket to see the sights. He met Alexander and Ike Jackson.

Alexander had a Confederate $500 bill, and when he discovered that Robert had $50 he offered to divide the $500 (Confederate) if Robert would get it changed. Robert gave him the $50 and took the $500 bill back to Warm Springs to get it changed.

He went to his employee, E. Sappington, to get the real money. Mr. Sappington came back to Atlanta with Robert, arranged a decoy and landed Alexander and Ike in jail.

Dr. Broughton to Hold Macon Revival

London Pastor Opens Week's Services in City Auditorium Sunday Afternoon.

MACON, Sept. 6.—Dr. Len G. Broughton, of London, formerly of Atlanta, will open a week's revival here to-morrow afternoon at the City Auditorium, under the auspices of the Baptist churches. During his stay here all of the Baptist churches will suspend services.

Dr. Broughton promised the Macon Baptist clergymen last year that if he ever came to Macon again he would conduct a revival for them. A chorus of 200 has been organized for the meetings.

GRACE CHURCH REVIVAL SERVICES TO END TO-DAY

After a revival campaign of three weeks, the special services at Grace Methodist Church will close Sunday. The Rev. J. M. Bass, the South Georgia Conference evangelist, on Sunday, September 14, commences a similar meeting at Tallahassee, Fla. He will be assisted by O. W. Stapleton, soloist and director of music. There will be four evangelistic services at Grace Church on the last Sunday of the meeting.

NOW'S TIME TO MAKE SHOWING IN AD CONTEST

Big Extra Vote Offer Gives Opportunity to Hustlers—Not to Continue Long.

Contestants who desire to stack up a big number of votes in the Want Ad Contest should put out extra efforts this week and get a fine start, for the big extra vote offer is short on, and will continue but a now time.

Coupon books sold for $2.50 will entitle contestants to 12,000 votes, and $5 coupon books to 30,000 votes up to the night of September 20, when this special bonus vote offer expires and smaller values will be given.

Tell your friends that now is the best time to help you win first prize; that they can give you many more votes now than later. This is positively the largest bonus vote offer which will be made during the contest.

Organizations Enrolling.
A number of Atlanta's live wire organizations are entering for the $1,000 in gold and the $500 in furniture offered as first and second organization prizes, but the race is still young, and any church, club or lodge which enters now, arouses the energy of its members and makes an earnest effort has a good chance to win first prize.

This is an excellent opportunity to gain funds to pay off a church debt, start a fund for a new building, make improvements in church or lodge room or gain a sum for any purpose. The contest will bring members closer together, inspire interest and loyalty, and do a great deal toward building up any organization which takes part.

Individual Prizes.
Remember, the individuals in the Want Ad Contest do not compete with the organizations, but have a separate prize list. The first grand prize is a 5-passenger automobile, the second a trip to California and return for two persons, all expenses paid by The American and Georgian. Besides these there are prizes in various classes, ranging from motorcycles and player-pianos to watches and jewelry. There is a good chance for any person who will devote spare time each day to win a prize well worth the effort required.

The Contest Manager's offices are on the fourth floor of the Foote & Davies building, Edgewood avenue and North Pryor street, and he will explain all details of the contest to anyone who will call and see him. If it is not possible for you to call, telephone Main 109, ask for the Contest Manager or a representative will call and see you.

SUSPECT IS HELD FOR $25,000 TRAIN ROBBERY

MEMPHIS, Sept. 6.—That one of the bandits who held up an Illinois Central train on July 4 near Batesville, Miss., robbing the mail and express cars of $25,000, is being held here was the belief of Federal authorities to-day. A man giving the name of John Roberts was arrested at Somerville on a two-year-old charge of shooting into rural mail boxes.

Roberts made a remark about the mail which caused officers to question him further and he was said he made damaging admissions.

Is This Why English Beauties Are So Fair?

(From London Herald.)
Ever since the discovery that mercurochrome would absorb and remove a soiled complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for toilet cream has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its beneficent cleansing, clearing and preservative action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying a high price for a jar for "special cream" from beauty specialists, soon recognize that mercurochrome was outwitted them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all chemist shops in the British Isles. American druggists also have great demand for it, in original one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using it is to apply it like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

The saxolite lotion for wrinkles and the facial contour has also become extremely popular. One ounce powdered saxolite is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this has a splendid effect in erasing wrinkles and improving contour.—(Adv.)

Pelicans Lose Vital Battle After Vicious Struggle by Narrow Margin of 4 to 3.

NEW ORLEANS TEAM FILLS SACKS IN THE NINTH INNING

Mike Finn Rushes Campbell to Rescue of Hogg When the Bases Are Crowded.

MOBILE, ALA., Sept. 6.—By a one-run margin on Monroe Field this afternoon Mobile won the first of the two-game series from New Orleans in a game that bordered on sensationalism throughout the nine innings.

What saved the local club was the taking out of Pitcher Hogg in the ninth inning, with three men on bases, after he had weakened badly. Three runs, aided by base on balls, in the eighth off three successive hits, one of them being a home run by Left Fielder McKillen, who was the star of the game.

B. Smith's Contract Has Been Extended For Another Year

Baseball Directors Reward Cracker Manager for His Great Work This Season.

Billy Smith, manager of the Crackers, has been rewarded for his great work in bringing the local club from a rank tail-ender last year to the top rung of the ladder this season.

The local manager's original contract called for 1913 and 1914. He will now be at the head of the club in 1915 also. This means that Smith will manage the Atlanta ball club for at least two more years.

Whether Mobile wins or loses today's game does not take any credit away from Smith. Had he any luck with his pitching staff earlier in the season he would surely have copped the Southern League flag.

A crowd of nearly 4,000 people saw the contest that perhaps settles the Southern League championship for 1913.

When the game started, Manager Frank of the New Orleans club, began jockeying and changed his batting order twice. He first had a lineup with Hendry leading off in the first inning that Campbell was going to pitch, and when Hogg was announced he changed it and put Kyle in to lead off.

Harry Welchonce Making Hook Slide to Third Base

Here is the great center fielder of the Crackers, snapped by The Sunday American photographer, sliding into third in one of the games between the Gulls and the Smithmen. It was a corking "hook," and he beat the throw to third by inches only. Harry is almost sure to be bought by one of the major league clubs this fall. If he is not purchased it is a cinch that he will be drafted. He is the most natural hitter in the Southern League, and all of the big league scouts have been looking him over during the past few weeks. The Naps are hot after him.

Dudley Wins Pennant For Thomasville and A Bride for Himself

BASEBALL SEASON AND GREAT UPHILL BATTLE END IN BLAZE OF GLORY

Ten Thousand Fans Bank Field as Crackers Hold Tie in the Pennant Race by Beating the Pepper Kids, 5 to 0—Police in Sorry Exhibition.

ONCE more boys—maybe for the last time—We're still THERE! The get-away game of the 1913 season at Ponce DeLeon went the way of eighteen of the previous twenty games there—to the Game Ball Club on Earth. The score was 5 to 0. The scrappy Pepper Kids did their darndest—and it wasn't enough to wrench us loose from the death-grapple that has sent whirling up to the Hall of Fame the bright record of that grand battle of the Fighting Chance.

tion of the new Southern circuit in 1901, retired from active interest in baseball. The name of the portly Dutchman, who has led four pennant-winners in the league's twelve years, ceased to be listed on the roll of managers.

At the same time, Norman (Kid) Elberfeld, who by his aggressive, never-say-die methods shot Chattanooga into the first division this season after two years of despondency in the cellar section, became the 1914 leader of the New Orleans Pelicans.

Count Lou Castro, known the length and breadth of the Southland, will probably be with Frank next season as utility man, coach, scout and every other fill-in thing a ball club needs.

For days the deal has been on the fire. It was not declared done until last night. And by that deal it is believed that New Orleans will resume the position of a potent factor in Southern Leaguedom that it has always held until this year.

The season just closing has been a remarkable one in more ways than one, and its most remarkable feature was that a team piloted by Charley Frank has finished not only in the second division, but in absolutely last place, with no club seriously contending with him for that dubious honor.

Frank has failed of win pennants before, but he has always been among the leaders. This season, though, has been a disastrous one for him. He has not only lost baseball prestige, but he has lost big money on the New Orleans franchise, which he controls.

Frank Realizes Change Needed. The big Dutchman has enemies, but not one of them has ever branded him a fool. And the wisdom that has brought him championships told him that his days of activity were done.

He had become too peaceful, too complacent, too good-natured to get the results that he had once attained with the ease of the snapping of a finger.

He looked about for the man who had those qualities which he realized he lacked. When his eye rested on Elberfeld, he stopped. He had gone far enough.

Byrne Greatest Third Sacker in National

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—Third Baseman Mowrey, of the Cardinals, is quoted as saying that Bobby Byrne, now of the Phillies, is the greatest third baseman in the National League. Says he: "He can do everything, come in on bunts, go back to take throws and everything that goes with the job."

of high foul balls, and McKillen pulled one down in left field that was made after a long, hard run.

Gulls Won in Third. Mobile practically won the game in the third inning when Peddy was touched up for four hits that scored three runs, aided by base on balls.

Hogg, who started to pitch for Mobile and lasted until the ninth round, when Captain Starr, of the Mobile club, used his noodle and took him out, pitched air-tight ball, allowing only three hits up to the time that he blew.

The game was delayed in the first inning on account of rain for fifteen minutes. When the game started, Manager Frank of the New Orleans club, began jockeying and changed his batting order twice.

Neither team scored a run in the first inning, although the visitors got a man to second when McKillen singled and reached the midway. The crowd, Thompson hurried the first ball pitched to Flick was a fast inshoot that out the inside corner of the plate for a strike.

Hogg Fanned Three in Row. In the second inning, Hogg struck out Hendryx, Flanagan and Erwin in succession, and was given a great ovation for his work. In Mobile's half Robertson beat out an inside hit, the only one he secured in the game, but died at first.

In the third it was a case of three up and three down for New Orleans, but Mobile got in in the half after Peddy walked Miller on four wide ones. Hogg hit to Peddy, who tried to get Miller at second, and both runners were safe. Hogg, getting credit for a Cincinnati hit, Stock beat out an infield hit to third and filled the bases. Starr hit to Kraft at first, and Miller was forced at the plate. Al O'Dell, whom many of the fans are giving credit to his playing in the past week for Mobile's present standing, drove a ball so hot at Erwin that it went through his legs into left field, and Hogg and Stock scored. On Paulet's single Starr came home. Robby fouled out to right and Schmidt stopped the scoring by going out from McDowell to the slide. TWO HITS, NO RUNS.

Paulet Busted Out a Hit. There was nothing that looked like a score until Mobile came to the bat at the end of the fifth inning. Stock hit the first ball over, and it went to first, went to hit, Paulet, by some fast legging, captured it. Starr singled to right and stole second, and O'Dell's infield out from second to first went to hit, Paulet, who had been hitting like a house afire for the past two days came across the field to right field to catch the foul line.

Starr came across the plate with the fourth and what proved to be the winning run of the game. Robertson fouled out to Kraft, who ran almost into the negro bleachers to get the ball. Mobile had a man on third in her half of the sixth when Clark hit a long drive to left that netted two bases and Miller's long fly to right Hogg ending the Innig by flying out to left.

The seventh inning was devoid of any features with the exception of a

FIRST INNING.

The Crackers were given a great ovation as they trotted on the field at 3:13. Every seat in the park was filled when the crack of the bat was heard. Ground rules were made giving the batter three bases for a hit into the crowd. Thompson hurried the first ball pitched at 3:15 to King, and he was out. Bisland, retiring the side. TWO HITS, NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Thompson's first ball to Graf was an inshoot that broke wide. He sent a high skyscraper that was easy for Tommy Long. It started to rain at this stage of the game. Giddo watched a high one shoot by and then fouled a drop to the stand. Giddo smashed a hot liner back to the pitcher's slab that the right field bleachers for the second. Thompson creased with one hand and threw the runner out at first. After taking a strike on a fast inshoot, Williams missed a fast ball Williams struck out on a drop. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Howell singled past third. King was an easy fan victim. Flick hit to Agler, who threw to Bisland, forming Hogg at the midway. A nice snappy play. Flick pilfered to second, making a nice slide under Chapman's throw. With the count two and three on him Coyle grounded to Holland, who made a dandy stop and then threw to Agler for the out. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Thompson curved over the first ball for a strike on Johnson. The next was a wide curve. One ball. Johnson bounced a hit off Holland's shoulder and went to second when Harry made a wild throw to Smith. Elberfeld appeared on the scene at this stage on the top of the rightfield fence. Graham popped up a fly in front of the plate that Chapman smothered. With the count three and two on him Graf drew a walking ticket on a low curve ball outside by a foot. It was the first base on balls off Thompson. Giddo waited out the first one, which was wide. The next was a fast one right over the plate and Giddo failed to swing. Giddo lifted an easy foul to Agler. Williams drew a wide curve for ball one. Then Williams hit to Bisland, forcing Graf at second. Smith took Bizzy's relay. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Howell fouled the first ball pitched to Bisland, who ran way over to the left field stand for it. King waited out two high ones. The next out the inside corner. Strike one. He fouled tipped the next. Strike two. Curving the next one over the plate. Thompson fanned King. King made a protest over the called strike. Thompson's first

SIXTH INNING.

Strike two. Curving the next one over the plate. Thompson fanned King. King made a protest over the called strike. Thompson's first spotlight of Dixie ever shone upon.

It ended at twenty-three minutes after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Roland Howell, the lanky pitching entry for the Kids, swung at the last of Carl Thompson's sweeping curves and rolled a little ground-er toward the slob. Joe Agler got the put-out, and the game, and the season, and the grim battle of the Fighting Chance came to an end.

Crowd Got Into It.

The overflow along the bleachers—more than a thousand—came up on the grass. Chattanooga players surrounded the cops and their prisoners, and it is probable that President Callaway of the Atlanta club prevented something ugly by his prompt action in jumping from the directors' box and taking a hand in the row.

Mr. Callaway ordered the policemen to release Elberfeld, and then he and the players got the Chattanooga manager into the visitors' coop while Bill Smith, and the few policemen who showed up were shoeing the crowd back to its proper place.

Fenninger insisted that the Kid must depart, and pulled his watch. It was a dramatic and tense interval, for the Kid, furious at the bullying treatment of the low-browed cop, was in a mood to cause all the trouble that a forfeited game—even to Atlanta—surely would have caused.

Kid Was a Good Sport.

But an appeal by President Callaway to his sportsmanship was more effectual than the clubs of the Police Department, and within ten seconds of the time limit set by Fenninger the Kid shook hands with the Atlanta mogul, glared savagely at the then distant policeman, and walked slowly from the bench.

to Flick was a curve. One strike. Carl pitched another of the same brand. Two strikes. Then a fast ball was wide. Ball one. The next ball was called a strike and the batter was out. He was disgusted with the decision and threw his bat into the air. NO HITS, NO RUNS.

Gliddo and Johnson exchanged positions in the outfield in this inning. The count was three and two on Long and Thomas waited out the next and as a result walked to first. On the hit and run Welchone died Flick to Coyle. Long going to second. The first ball to Smith was a curve that he hit "foul" for a strike. The next was inside and fast, which he fouled off. Strike two. Smith singled past Williams, who knuckled down the ball, but couldn't field it in time. Long hustled over to third on the tap. Howell tried to catch Smith off first but failed. Blisland fouled off five high fast ones. Holland missed a swing at a curve ball. One strike. On a fast ball Holland hit to Flick, who made a swell pickup, getting Harry at first by inches only. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

Allis' Wonderful Shot Causes Much Discussion Drive of 307 Yards Not a Record—Tichenor

By Tick Tichenor.

THE effect of the wonderful shot played by Edward P. Allis, 3d, in the qualifying round of the Western championship, when he holed his drive on the first hole of the course of the Homewood Country Club, which is 307 yards in length, was to bring forth numerous stories of feats of progress performed by golfers all over the world and of strange and unusual occurrences which have taken place.

No sooner had Allis' ball fallen into the cup after this wonderful shot than people began to ask if it was not a world's record. The feat of driving 307 yards is not so very often accomplished, and to do this and then place the ball in a hole on the green seemed so unlikely that it was but natural it was at once presumed that such a thing had never happened before and in all probability would never happen again.

But those who were of this mind did not know that Allis' feat, wonderful as it was, was only a good third. John Anderson on Thursday, 25, 1908, in a round over the Brae Burn course, holed a tee shot which was 328 yards long, which tops Allis' performance by 21 yards.

But even Anderson's drive, while it is the record for this country, must give way to the record of A. C. Ladd, of the Healey-on-Thames Golf Club, who, it is claimed, holed out in one shot on a hole 330 yards long. Thus thirty yards long. Then he went Mr. Anderson 2 yards better by this shot.

IN WRITING OF THIS SHOT

Travers in his Golf Book, under the chapter entitled "Holes in One," says: "One explanation of this phenomenal feat is that the ball was driven down hill and rolled a great distance after it struck the turf. It is extremely probable that Mr. Ladd could try to duplicate the shot on that particular hole for the remainder of his lifetime without success."

Of all the extraordinary "hole-in-one" stories there is one which comes from Rockford, Illinois, which tells of a golf dream that came true. Possibly you have had dreams which were not fulfilled or possibly you do not believe in them. But be that as it may, here is the story, which has found its way across the Atlantic:

"One of the members, Mr. E. Simpson, entering the clubhouse, said that he had dreamed the previous evening that he drove a ball over a sheet of water bounded by a high hedge and a wire fence onto the green and into the hole in one shot."

Of course, this is the pond hole, the short fifth," laughed the members.

"What is the betting against your dream coming true?" asked one. "I will give you a hundred to one in sovereigns. And I will give a thousand pounds to ten pounds," said a sporting city magnate.

But Mr. Simpson could see nothing in these tempting odds save the sure loss of his money. To hole out in one comes to few golfers in a lifetime, but to nominate the particular hole also belongs to the realm of the miraculous.

So Mr. Simpson made no bets. How keen is his chagrin on this score may be imagined when the following is related:

At the Pond Hole tee his partner reminded him of his vision and Mr. Simpson laid down his ball for an easy iron shot, the hole being a bogey three.

He said afterward that he had an eerie sensation and shoot at the knees. He was sure he did not keep his eye on the ball or rather only his mind's eye.

The couple in front stood near the green awaiting eventualities. Straight for the pin came the ball. It dropped gently on the green twenty feet away from the hole, its revolution trickling into the hole, scarcely touching the pin.

A wild whoop and frantic gesticulations followed. The crowd gathered, and that his dream had been fulfilled, also that he had lost a small fortune by declining the bets offered him.

None congratulated Mr. Simpson so heartily as the city magnate who offered to lay a thousand pounds to ten against his dream coming true.

Although Allis' feat was accomplished during a tournament, while Anderson and Ladd made their records in ordinary rounds, still Allis is not the only man who has performed this feat of hoing his tee shot in a tournament.

JACK Hobens, the professional of the Eagleswood Golf Club, had the good fortune to hole out from the tee in the professional open, when it was last played in Philadelphia. But even Jack Hobens is not the only one who has pulled this stunt. In the amateur and professional event which took place on the day before the open tournament held here in Atlanta over the East Lake course in 1910, Bobby McWatt, playing as a partner with Clarence Angier, scored a one for this team on the third hole, which is 175 yards in length.

But even if this event could be considered more as a practice round than as a part of the tournament, still Hobens and Allis would not be alone in their glory, for in the fourth round of the tournament above mentioned Stewart Malden duplicated McWatt's feat on the same hole.

Prior to McWatt's one this hole had been made in one only once before and that was on Monday of that same week, when W. W. Cunningham was the lucky man. Thus this hole has been made in one three times and all during the same week.

TRAVERS' GOLF GROWN FOR 4TH TIME

Playing a Masterly Game, He Defeats John G. Anderson Five Up and Four to Play.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 6.—For the fourth time Jerome D. Travers is the amateur golf champion of the United States. He defeated John G. Anderson, of Boston, 5 up and 4 to play, in the 80-hole final round at Garden City today, and was once more acclaimed the best golfer of which America can boast.

Back in 1907 Travers won his first championship on the course of the Euclid Club, Cleveland. The following year he successfully defended his title in Garden City. Just a year ago he won for the third time at the Chicago Golf Club and to-day back at Garden City he was again successful.

Walter J. Travis won the championship three times. Travers is the first to gain four victories.

It was a splendid match to-day Anderson putting up a steady fight throughout the long morning round, and for a time leading his great opponent by two holes. A brilliant flash of the form for which Travers is famous won back the two holes on the inward journey and at the seventeenth the champion went into the lead only to drop back to even terms when he explored the depths of a deep trap beside the home green.

It was all square when the first round was over. Just one bad hole, the first, fell to the champion's lot in the afternoon. From that on his golf was perfect, gaining every hole in par until the end came on the fourteenth green.

Travers' Putting Immense.

On almost every green Travers was "knocking at the door," and though not one of the long ones went down, they were so close that the putt which remained was a foregone conclusion.

Anderson could not hold the pace.

The match began in the morning under gray skies and with comparatively small crowd to see the early play.

Travers was out in 43, while Anderson's was 41. Three perfectly played holes marked the beginning of the inward journey, and all were halved in par figures. Then on the thirteenth Anderson approached to within a yard of the cup and won the hole with a 4, a stroke under par. This made him 3 up.

In a neat put, which caromed off Anderson's ball, won the fourteenth for Travers, 4 to 5, after his opponent had approached weakly. The 425-yard fifteenth is a hard 4, but it was halved in that figure, Anderson getting down a difficult putt, but Travers did even better on the sixteenth when the champion turned in a splendid iron shot, winning the hole, 4 to 5, and saving the match.

Trapped in Eighteenth Hole.

It was exactly in same story on the seventeenth, two shots to the green and a win for Travers in 4 to 5. The lead disappeared, however, when the champion was trapped on the eighteenth and Anderson made a par 3.

The cards:

Travers—Out: 53 45 45 75 5—43
In: 4 4 3 5 4 4 4 4 5—37
Anderson—Out: 4 4 5 6 4 5 5 4—41
In: 4 4 3 5 4 4 4 5—37

A big crowd, almost as large as that which followed Hilton at Apawamis in 1911, swarmed out on the first green when the second round began. The spectators saw a poorly played first hole, with both golfers bounding in the big bunker in front of the green. Travers finally won 5 to 6, and was 1 up. He had a chance for a win in 2 on the second, but the one-hand stop and pickup by O'Dell of a ball hit by Hendryx. When there was two out in the eighth it looked like a shutout for Hogg when the unexpected in baseball happened.

Peddy, who could not hit a house, dropped a fly in right field that Miller could not get to, or misjudged. Kyle singled to center and the big pitcher raced around to third.

McKillen Hits a Homer.

Little McKillen, who was another Ty Cobb all through the game, drove the ball over right field fence for a home run and scored the two men ahead of him. Things began to take on a San Francisco earthquake look when McKillen hit to short and by a great throw Stock got his man at first, although the decision looked close.

The real hair-raiser came in the ninth inning for New Orleans, and men, women and children all stood aghast. In fact, you could hear the breathing of the person behind your back when the visiting team filled the bases, due to the weakness of Mr. Hogg. The San Francisco earthquake has nothing on the excitement that prevailed. Call after call was made for Campbell by the stands.

It required noddlework and great noddlework.

Kraft, the first man up, got a scorching single through center. Hendryx sacrificed him to second. Flanagan filled to Robertson, making the second out. Erwin was walked, and then Jack Adams, the Pelican catcher, was purposely sent to first on balls.

Mobile hit the Atlanta pitcher, being willing to take a chance Frank called for Flins Wilson to bat for him.

Crowd Yells for Campbell.

Again the crowd yelled for Hogg to be relieved, and to the relief of the fans Campbell came forth and warmed up for a minute. In the meantime Frank had changed Wilson for George Yantz, a right-hand batter. Only one ball was thrown to Yantz and he hit O'Dell, who threw to first and got his man by a half.

It was then that the crowds sat down in their seats for a few seconds and took needed breaths.

Directors Tender Crackers $75 Each And Big Dinner

The directors of the Atlanta club showed their appreciation of the grand battle Bill Smith's men made in the race just ending by presenting each of the senior club members—the "regulators"—with $75 and an earful of complimentary conversation at a dinner tendered the club last night at the Capital City Club. The junior members of the club—our young friends, the "rookies"—got $25 each and encouragement for the future.

The boys professed themselves delighted with the esteem in which they were held, and greeted with cheers the announcement that Manager Smith's contract, which holds over originally until the end of next year, had been extended by a unanimous vote of the directors to cover the following year also.

So the Atlanta fans are sure of their favorite manager for the next two years, anyway.

Yankees Will Train In Texas Next Year

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Frank Chance, according to information today, has practically decided that the spring training of the New York Americans next year shall be carried out in Texas. Houston is mentioned as a probable selection, the players to report about March 1, go through three weeks of seasoning in the Texas climate, and work North by easy stages. Bermuda, it has been definitely determined, will not see the Highlanders again.

MILLER GOING EAST.

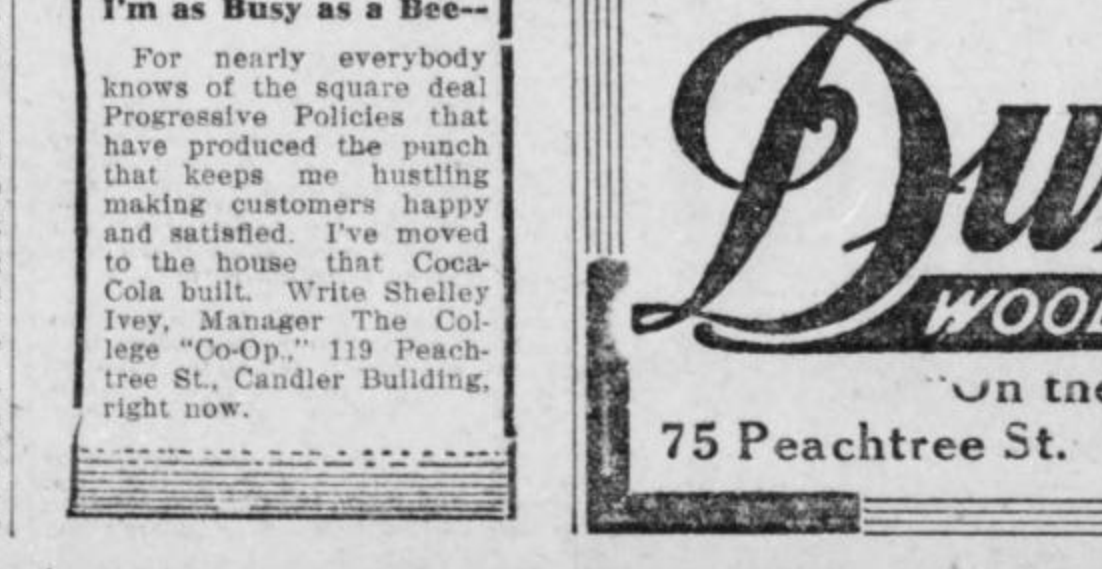

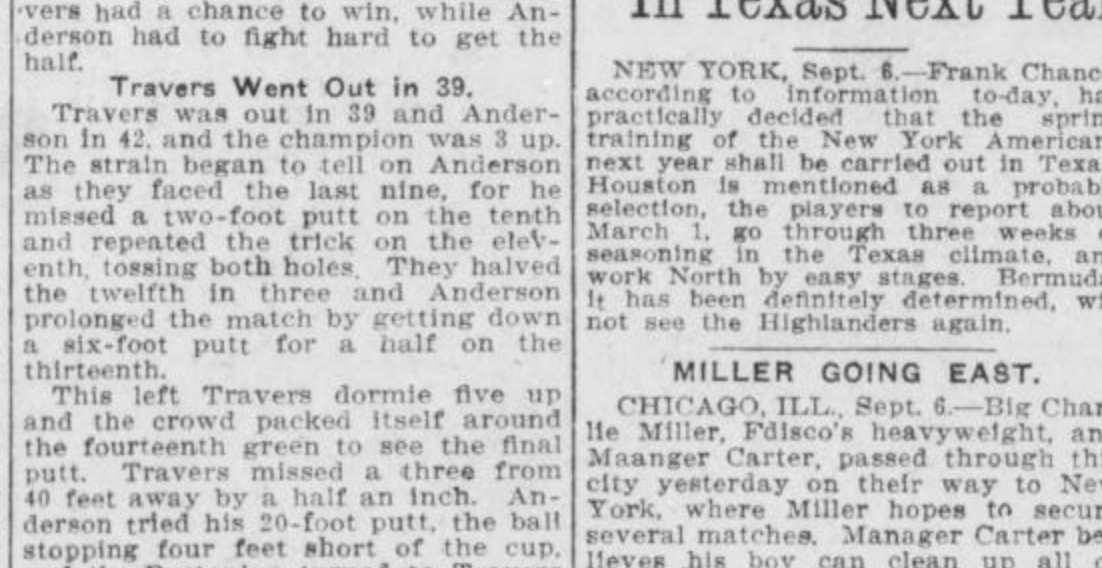

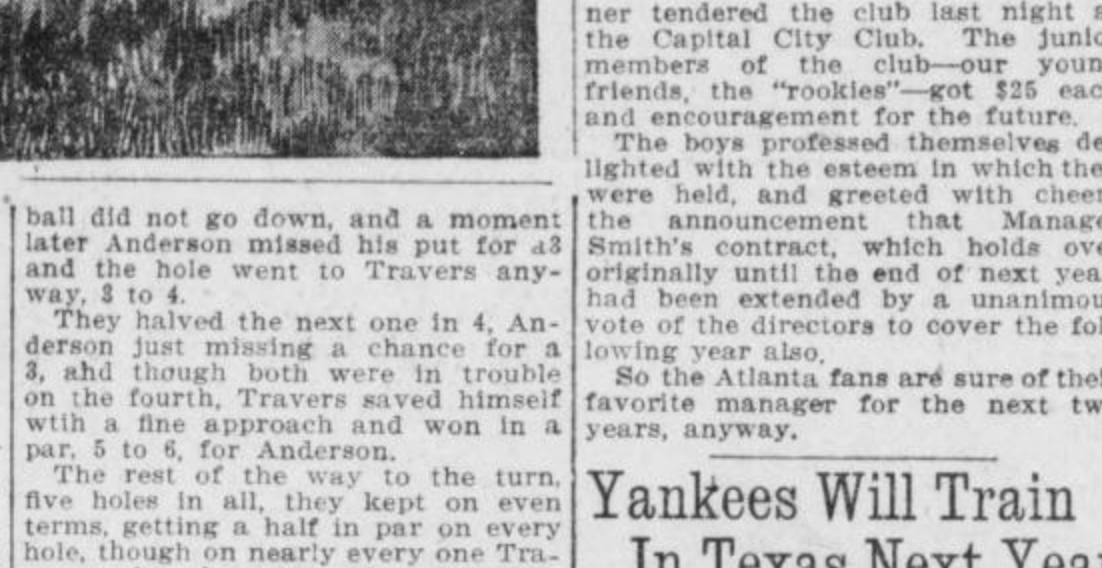

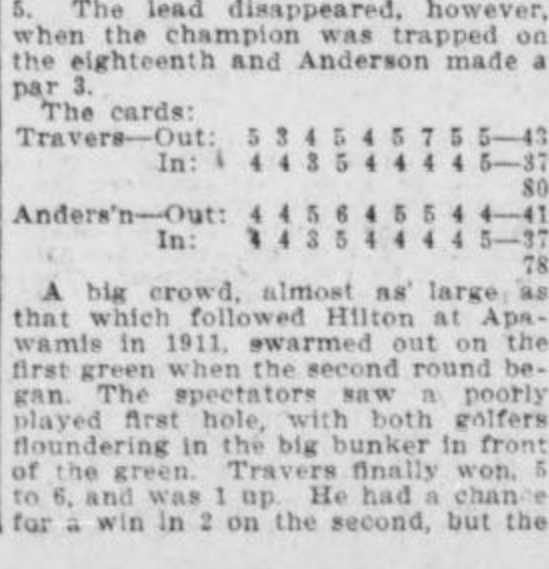

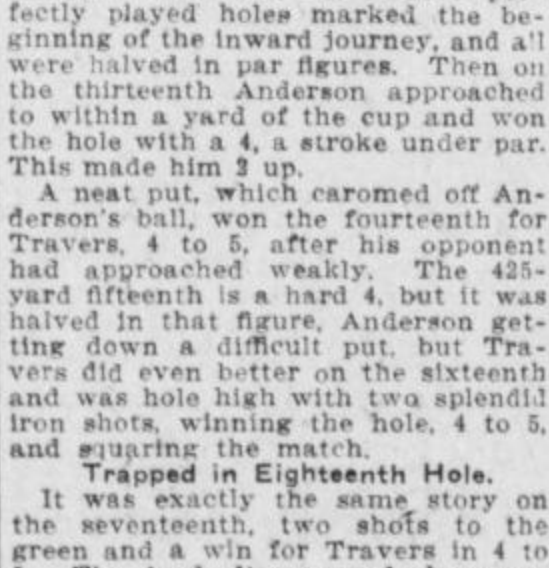

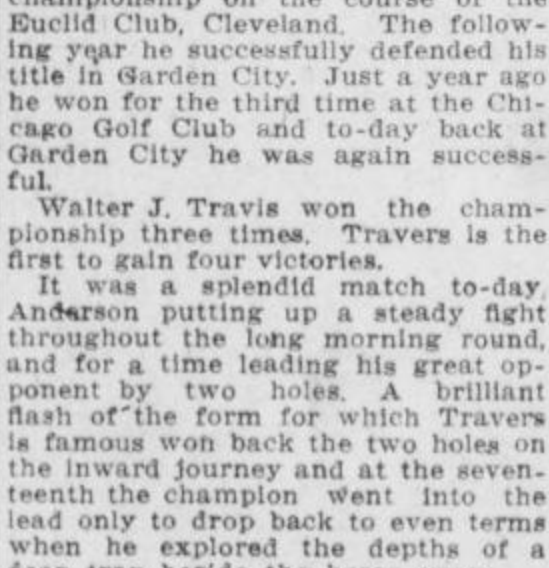

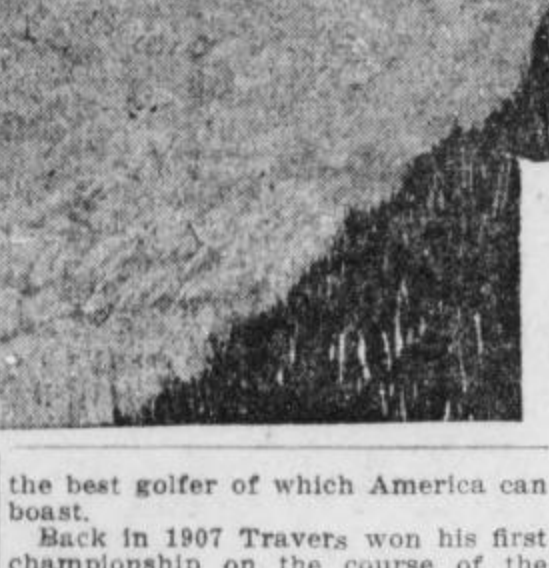

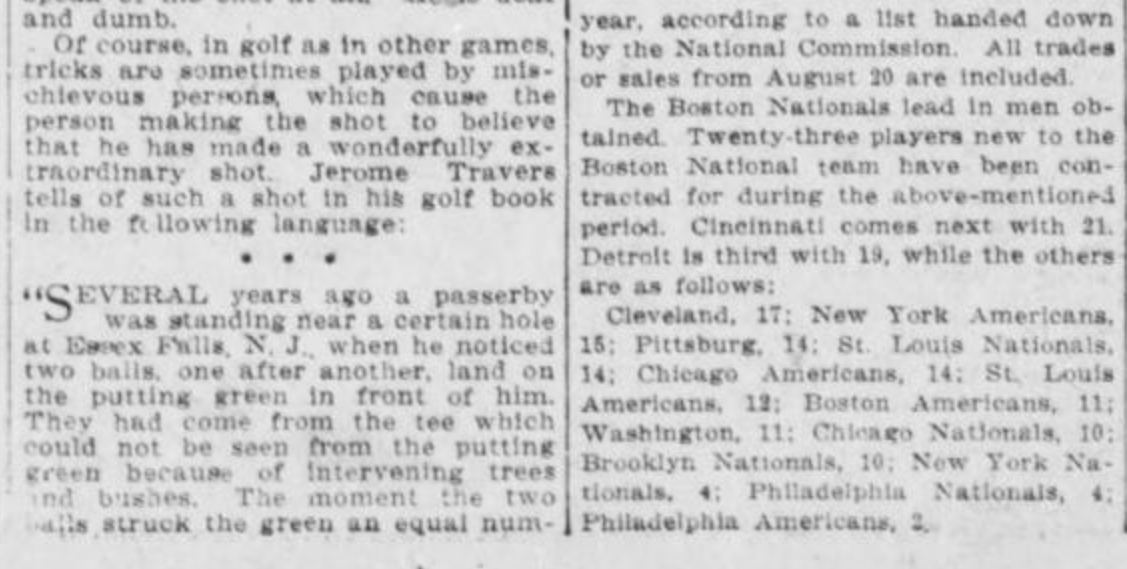

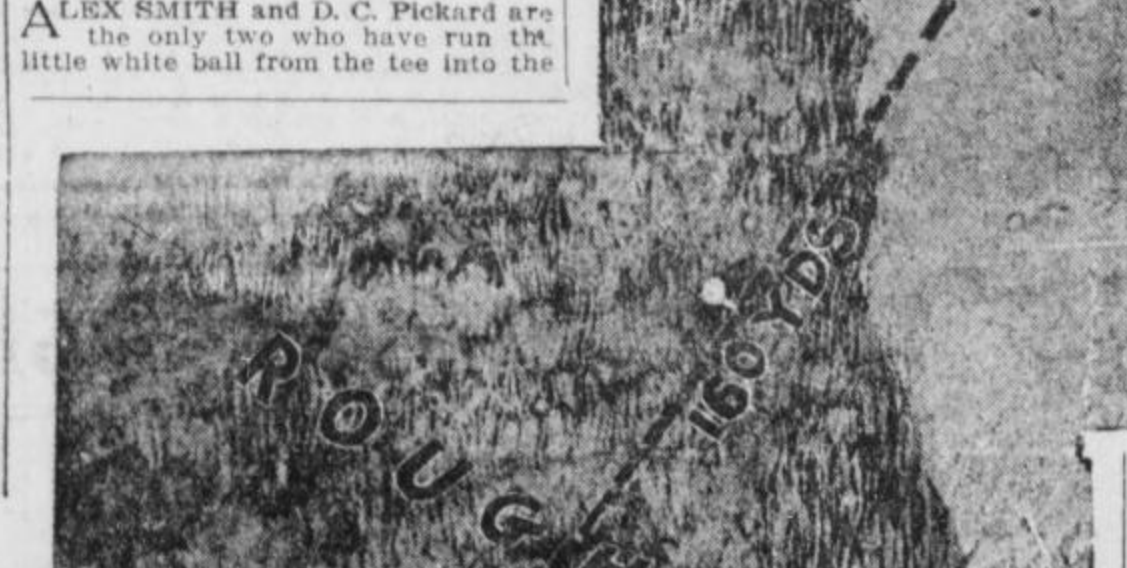

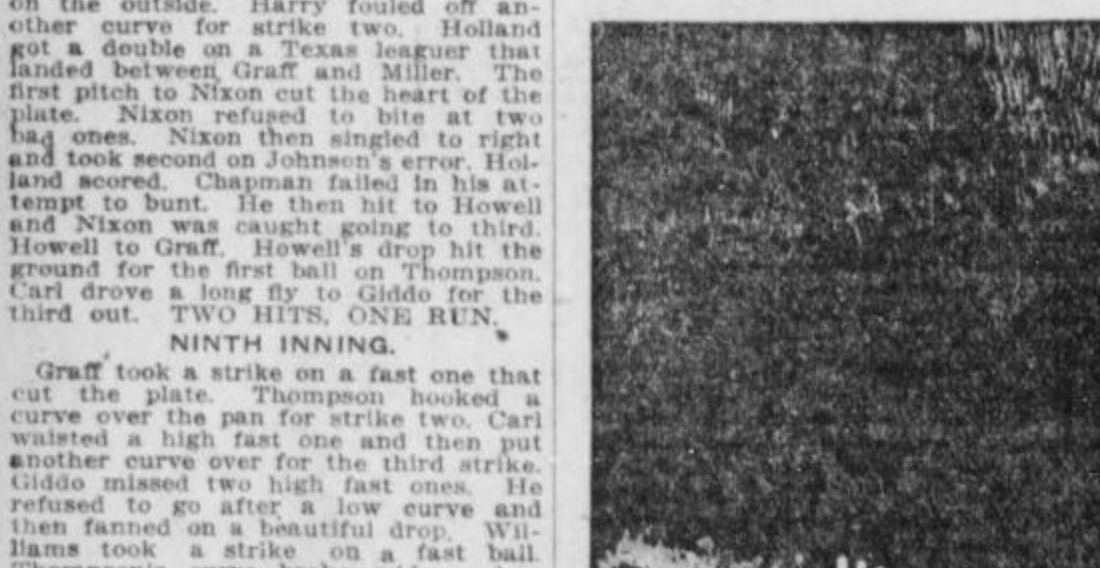

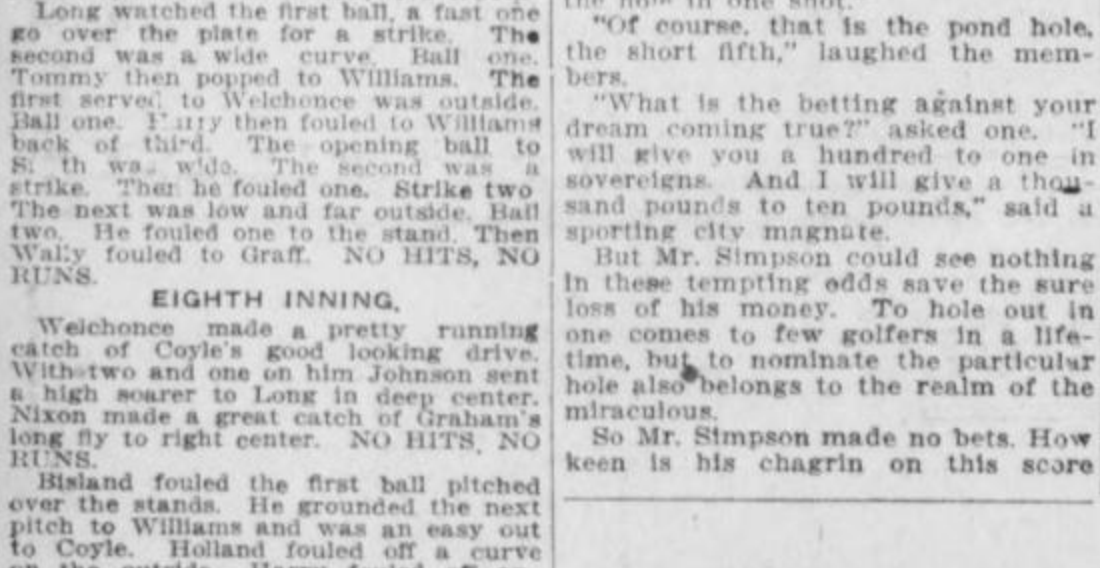

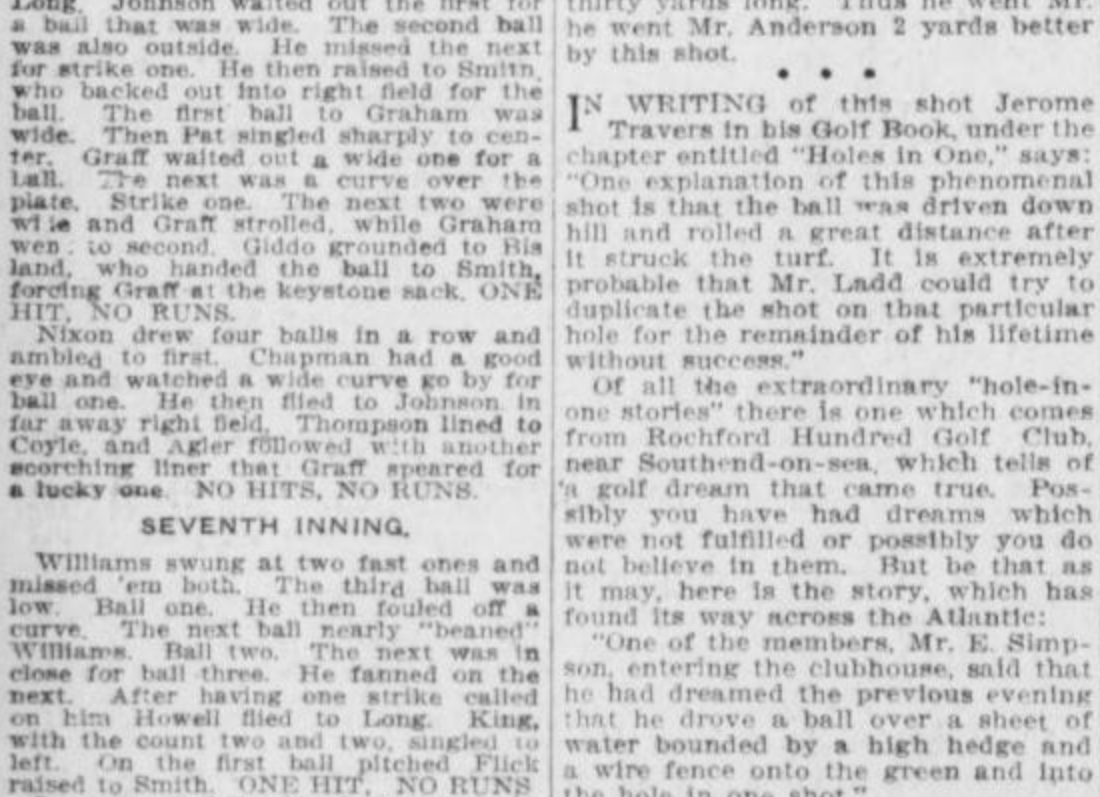

CHICAGO, ILL., Sept. 6.—Big Charles Miller, Filisco's heavyweight, and Manager Carter, passed through this city yesterday on their way to New York, where Miller hopes to secure several matches. Manager Carter believes his boy can clean up all of the big fellows in this section of the country.

Over 200 Players Traded This Year

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.—More than 200 major league players have been traded, purchased from other major clubs or from the minor leagues during the last year, according to a list handed down by the National Commission. All trades or sales from August 30 are included.

The Boston Nationals lead in men obtained. Twenty-three players new to the Boston National team have been contracted for during the above-mentioned period. Cincinnati comes next with 21. Detroit is third with 19, while the others are as follows:

Cleveland, 17; New York Americans, 15; Pittsburgh, 14; St. Louis Nationals, 14; Chicago Americans, 14; St. Louis Americans, 12; Boston Americans, 11; Washington, 11; Chicago Nationals, 10; Brooklyn Nationals, 10; New York Nationals, 4; Philadelphia Nationals, 4; Philadelphia Americans, 2.

cup on the first hole at East Lake in one shot. Smith upon his return to the clubhouse immediately told every one about it, but Picard did not speak of his shot at all. He is deaf and dumb.

Of course, in golf as in other games, tricks are sometimes played by mischievous persons, which cause the person making the shot to believe that he has made a wonderfully extraordinary shot. Jerome Travers tells of such a shot in his golf book in the following language:

"SEVERAL years ago a passerby was standing near a certain hole at Essex Falls, N. J., when he noticed two balls, one after another, land on the putting green in front of him. They had come from the tee which could not be seen from the putting green because of intervening trees and bushes. The moment the two balls struck the green an equal number of boys dashed out of the bushes, picked up the balls placed them in the hole and immediately vanished. His curiosity aroused, the passerby waited for further developments. In a few moments a very fat and dignified-looking old gentleman and an equally dignified-looking old lady, attired in golf costume, sauntered up to the green and made a long, vain search for the balls.

Finally the fat man casually inspected the hole, then frantically beckoned the fat lady to approach. She did so hurriedly, and the pair, side by side, peered into the cup.

"Great Scott! We both holed out in ONE!" shouted the fat man.

"Great heavens! So we DID!" screamed the fat lady, and plucking the two balls from the cup, they started on the run to tell their friends the remarkable tale. No doubt they are telling it yet."

THERE is a story of a Scotch player who claims to have sent the ball 70 miles in one swipe because he drove into the car of a freight train, which was passing and the destination of which was 70 miles away.

There is the claim of the Madison (Wis.) player, who claims to have driven a ball 414,000 yards because he placed his tee shot in a freight car, which was on its way to Minneapolis, Minn.

But these claims are extremely insignificant when compared with the claim of Fred Tyler, of Charleston, S. C., who claims to have driven 92,- 900,000 miles because he drove a ball straight into the sun. I guess we will have to hand it to Tyler on this claim.

TY COBB TRAILS JOE JACKSON BY JUST 4 POINTS

TYRUS RAYMOND COBB is trailing Joe Jackson by just four points in their mad fight for the batting leadership of the American League. These two left-handed hitters are putting up the greatest race in the history of major league baseball.

The latest official figures give Jackson an average of .387, while Cobb is putting the ball at a .383 clip. Tris Speaker, the Red Sox outfielder, is third in the list. He is 21 points behind Cobb.

In all seventeen batters are hitting the ball over .300. Lajoie, Gandil, Baker, Eddie Collins, Barry and Crawford are some of the stars who have places in the charmed circle.

JAKE DAUBERT STILL ON TOP IN NATIONAL

JAKE DAUBERT is still holding his place at the head of the bat-ers in Tom Lynch's circuit. The Brooklyn first sacker is enjoying the best season of his career, and it looks very much as if he will hold his place until the end of the season.

Charley McDonald, of Boston, is second, with Ham Hyatt third. Cravath, Miller, Viox, Magee and Zimmerman are also near the top.

Following are the averages up to and including Wednesday's games:

Robertson Ahead in Last Lap Welchance Breaks Hit Record

ENTERING upon the final week of the season, the games played Tuesday find Dave Robertson still on top in the Southern League batting list, with a lead of five points over Harry Welchance, and every prospect of copping the Rose medal for swatting. Harry, however, has made several hits since that day and has set a new record for total hits in one season, which is something of an achievement in itself.

Atlanta's other lead-breaker, Tommy Long, continued to add to his record-breaking string of runs, boosting it far above the hundred mark. Rivington Blisland's batting average has mounted above the .300 mark, and that, taken with his marvelous fielding, stamps him as one of the most brilliant performers this league ever has seen.

Following are the figures on players batting 200 or better, including the games of Tuesday:

S. D. A. FOOTBALL TEAM SHOULD BE BEST IN HISTORY

Six Veterans to Return for Places on Second District Agricultural Gridiron Squad.

ATLANTA, Sept. 6.—Looking at it through the typewriter, before school has opened and the grueling gridiron battles begun, the 1913 pigskin team of the Second District Agricultural team is going to be the best ever put out by this institution of huskies.

At the present time it looks as though the team for this year will be better than that of last. Six of last year's warriors have already signified their intention of returning to the fold, and with them will come a number of men who have had experience at other schools, besides the scrubs of last year and the raw material.

Probably the brightest hope of the new students is Hancock, from Worth

County. He is the lad who won the marathon race from Albany to Sylvester. Hancock is well acquainted with football, having had experience on the Norman Institute team.

THE old men back are Bob Glover, captain and full back of the team, and Leo Jones, right end. It was the Glover-Jones forward pass combination that made the 1912 team possible. Then there are Owens, the big center, and also the best line school ever had, and Kid Reynolds, right tackle. This kid was the fastest man on the team last year. Tensing, left guard, and Royals, left half, are both coming back. The old players will constitute the most important places on the team, and with them back it looks like a walk-away this year for the Aggies.

PROFESSOR J. M. THRASH is, of course, the head coach. Coach Thrash served his time under the machine man of Tech, J. W. Heisman, and he must have been a mighty apt pupil, judging from the play he has taught the Farmers. Word from Coach Thrash at his summer home states that he has evolved a number of fast and tricky plays during the summer, and will jump right into teaching them to his team when he hits the campus.

It wouldn't be half told to tell about the Farmers without taking a glance into the back yard of that N. I. camp. There are a number of the old boys coming back to help N. I. try to win from the Farmers, among whom are Noble, fullback; Austin, Arso and Berry, scorers; the three brothers, Cochran, Lee, Welch, White, Bird and McMath. Which is nearly all of the old team. However, it is good to know that N. I. is to have a good team. No one likes to see a walk-away. Professor Scroggins will coach his brothers and the team.

NO TRACK IN YALE STADIUM. NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Coach Jimmy Mack, of Yale, says that there will be no track for athletic meets in the new Yale Stadium and that New Haven can never hope to hold the Eastern intercollegiate track and field championships. The stadium is built on a natural depression and the only way to have a track would be a tunnel.

Chance Roasts Yanks, Calls Club 'Dummies,' And Maybe He's Right

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—"Don't think for a minute I talk this way to protect myself because we're 'ast,'" says Frank Chance, manager of the New York Americans. "I didn't believe such a bunch of dummies could be assembled on one club until I joined the Yankees. They didn't know the first principles of baseball. Not only that, they didn't know anything about baseball when we were losing in the spring, everybody laughed, whistled and told funny stories.

"That doesn't win ball games. Baseball is serious. If you want to get on top, the Cubs were on top because the boys had one thought—baseball and to win. They figured out plays before each game how to fool the enemy. It was nothing but baseball with them.

"Of course, now a smart manager can get everything out of a player. He must study the boys, see how he is going to direct them.

"But if you haven't the class you can't squeeze water out of a rock, and if you haven't the class you're not going to win."

Navin Denies $70,000 Offer for Ball Club

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 6.—President Navin this afternoon denied that he had been offered $70,000 for the Providence club by a syndicate of Providence capitalists, as reported from that city.

"I wouldn't sell the club for that price, anyway," he said. "I paid $75,000 for it two years ago, and have sent about $25,000 worth of players there since. We don't care particularly to sell it, though, of course, we would if offered money enough. We had a pretty good team there this year except for lack of good pitching, even though it is finishing low. We will have a better one next year. Besides, it's a good place to train Tigers."

Mitchell to Be Golf 'Pro'

LONDON, Sept. 6.—"Abe" Mitchell, the English amateur golfer, who has entered for the American amateur golf championship at Garden City, N. Y., today announced his intention of becoming a professional as soon as he is offered a suitable position. He was the runner-up for the British amateur championship last year.

Pugh Boat is Sent Abroad

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The Ditcher III, the hydroplane which won the freer-for-all championship and the Wrigley cup at Chicago, has been shipped by James A. Pugh, her owner, to England to compete in the forthcoming races for the British International trophy for motor boats.

Heavies of To-day Are Lacking in Skill

Some persons have remarked that more of the heavyweight fighters have been killed in 1913 by blows than in any one year that the oldest fans can remember. Why is it, do you suppose? Many answers have been advanced, but the most plausible one appears to be that the present crop of heavyweights is one that lacks cleverness.

A fighter must have some natural ability and must be fitted by nature to stand great strain. However, there has been so much demand for a heavyweight hope to beat Jack Johnson that many young men of stalwart appearance, and not even half fitted for such a rugged undertaking, but who have been attracted by the call of gold, have become martyrs to the game. One has but to cite the Calgary affair of May, when a fourth-rater killed Luther McCarty by a blow McCarty in previous fights had trained to the minute. Later, according to the statements of his trainers following his death, did not train a lick, and that he would have been defeated Peikey without half trying. Overconfidence and the lack of physical fitness caused McCarty's untimely end. In the more recent accidental killing of Bull Young by Jess Willard again the lack of condition of the former resulted in his death. Willard is considered by a third-rater, and to have killed Young practically a novice. Willard never has claimed to be a hard hitter.

The ages of the prize ring history, when men possessed real cleverness, show there were no fatalities when Jim Mues, Jake Kilrain, Barty Ryan, Jim Corbett, Jim Jeffries, Tom Sharkey, Joe Choynski, Kid McCoy, Peter Maher and many other big fellows held the public attention. They fought with real cleverness.

What Is World's Fastest Game? Answer: Handball—See A. A. C.

By O. B. Keeler.

YOU keep hearing and reading about tennis these days; with the Atlanta Athletic Club tourney just over and the Cotton States championships about to start at East Lake. And then you hear and read a lot about golf, with a tourney every week or so, staged by the A. A. C.

And there are the celebrated water sports, and basket ball coming on. And tango dancing, which is getting to be regarded as an athletic diversion par excellence.

So this is going to be a modest little word for handball, the Fastest Game in the World.

WE'll make that assertion flat-footed, which is a style that will keep you next to nothing at handball. Handball is the FASTEST GAME.

Tennis is a pretty fast game. Basketball is not exactly a sedative exercise. Boxing is not accomplished with the grace of the g. w. l. s. f. has just heard a loud ki-yi in its immediate vicinity.

THERE are three kinds of handball played in this country—the original Irish, or four-wall court game; the two-wall court modification, and the one-wall or open-face court used by the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Each type has its advantages and its drawbacks.

But any one of the three is sixteen times faster than the next fastest game in the world, which you are hereby permitted to select for yourself, according as your tastes run to tennis, tiddie-de-winkka football or chess.

THE open-face courts in the lower gym at the A. C. measure 24 feet in length by 12 in width, and when a regular game is in progress that comparatively limited space is fuller of compressed action than a Waterbury watch when the governor slips.

The first time you see a four-hand game in progress—watching it safely from the running track above—you remark in full accord with the countryman at the circus, giving Friend Camel the once-over:

"There AIN'T no such game!"

IT doesn't look possible, sure enough. And it sounds like a sextet on the base drum.

Four little figures exhibiting large expanses of sleek and velvety epidermis hammer a white ball against a black wall with a ferocity and vigor that reduce the unaccustomed mind to a palpitating blank until somebody misses and the thumping roar flattens out into a chorus of aahs.

Left and right, swinging like old Terry McGovern in a corner rally, those four figures hammer the ball in streaking lines of white until some desperate shot flies outside or some well-aimed "kill" plunks solidly at the base-board.

DO they hit it hard? Well, there are three standard makes of tennis ball, and only one of them will stand up through five games of regular handball doubles.

Sometimes a single game is the limit, and a ball that will resist Carleton Smith's driving tennis service all

NOISY MUFFLER CUT-OUT MUZZLED BY WISCONSIN; STATE LAW CALLED IDEAL

Western Legislature Sets Georgia an Example in Abating Nuisance. Hamlets Prevented From Passing Nagging Laws Against Tourists.

Atlanta citizens who have been accustomed to the rasping noise of the automobile muffler cut-out will read with interest that Wisconsin has just passed a law directed at this abuse in highway travel, and that other states are rapidly legislating against the nuisance.

Under a law recently passed by the legislature of the State of Wisconsin, the muffler cut-out is prohibited absolutely within the limits of any incorporated city or town or village.

Another interesting departure in the Wisconsin law is the provision prohibiting village officials from passing ordinances regulating automobile usages. The State law is supreme, and no township can interfere with its own local measures. This provision has an Atlanta application, as tourists passing too fast through East Point, Hapeville and College Park can testify.

The Automobile, well-known trade publication, points out the following in Wisconsin's so-called "model automobile law," as reproduced in the Literary Digest:

"Among the requirements in the new law which have heretofore appeared only in local ordinances in various cities are the following:

"Reducing speed to 3 miles an hour while passing through parks and cemeteries, in the highway. The old speed limits of 15 miles an hour in cities and villages, and 25 miles an hour in the country are unchanged, excepting as provided above.

"Requiring every motor vehicle to be equipped with an adequate signal device.

"Dealers or manufacturers who knowingly permit the use of their number-plates on cars owned or controlled by others are liable to a fine of from $10 to $25.

"The law was drafted by James T. Drought, president of the Wisconsin State Automobile Association and a well-known attorney of Milwaukee, who was mainly responsible for the organization of the Milwaukee Automobile Club, the first organization of motorists in the Badger State, and who is still counsel of this club. It was introduced by Senator Alexander R. Martin, of Milwaukee, and was one of the final bills to be passed and signed at the 1913 session of the Legislature."

SAND MAKES BEST ROAD DECLARES WALTHALL

According to W. P. Walthall, well-known real estate man, who is back from an interesting trip to Washington by automobile, Fulton County has spent $500,000 too much on macadam and gravel roads and other roads, through failure to use sand-clay. The sand-clay road is the most satisfactory and long-wearing, according to Mr. Walthall, and it is being built extensively in South Carolina and other States. He regards it as "nature's own" road, and one that man can't improve.

Accompanied by his two young sons and Carl and Max Brittain, Mr. Walthall left Atlanta in a Stevens-Duryea Monday, August 18, and arrived in Washington the following Sunday, after having stopped over a day in Richmond. The party left Washington on the return trip Wednesday, August 27, and arrived in Atlanta Sunday.

When they reached Washington Mr. Walthall steered for the Stevens-Duryea office for minor mechanical repairs that cost $5.15. The only other expense was for gasoline and a new set of tires.

Speaking of the sand-clay road, Mr. Walthall said: "The road built of fine sand is better by far than the road of macadam or other much-used material. In the place where the automobile seldom goes it is seen winding its way through pine thickets. It is the hardest and yet the softest road there is. It can't cut the tires and the tire serves to pack it down.

"The automobile, by the way, is not responsible for bad roads, but for good roads. It is the overloaded convey-

Local Auto Owners Are After Thieves

Three Machines Stolen During Week, and Police Aid is Sought—C. E. Corwin Latest Victim.

Local automobile folk are waxing wroth over the disappearance of automobiles, and it is probable that an appeal will be made to Chief of Police Beavers to instruct his men to watch out carefully for machine thieves.

Another automobile, the third in a week, has been stolen from its downtown parking place. This time it is the machine of Clarence E. Corwin, manager of the F. A. Hardy Optical Company, in the Grant Building, who left his 4-passenger 1912 Hudson at the Walton street entrance of the Grant building Saturday morning, and returning a while later found it gone.

G. Arthur Howell, who lost his car in front of the Candler building, is again at the steering wheel, having had the machine returned after it had taken a flying trip to Duluth.

Lamp Concern Moves From State to State

Demand for Centralization of Industries Causes Big Plant to Seek Home in Ohio.

The demand of the automobile business for complete centralization and standardization has caused a Michigan city to mourn and one in Ohio to rejoice. The occasion of the respective joy and sorrow of the two cities was the removal from Battle Creek to Toledo of the plant of the Castle Lamp Company, manufacturer of automobile lamps, made necessary by the desire of John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Company, to center his various business interests in his home city. The lamp concern, in which Mr. Willys has a large interest, has been re-established on a site furnished by the Willys-Overland Company within a short distance of the latter's plant.

It has always been the desire of President Willys to make every part of his product at home and since a large portion of the output of the lamp company goes into the equipment of Overland and Garford cars, the location of the plant in Toledo is a logical move toward complete economic centralization. The plant employs nearly 200 skilled workmen, many of whom have moved from Battle Creek to Toledo.

OVERLAND OFFICIAL BUSY SHOWING ROADSTER

L. E. Becker, president of the Overland Southern Automobile Company, declares that the inquiries for the new 1914 Overland surpass any record that has yet been attained. Mr. Becker is here shown in a stock model in front of the Capital City Club on West Harris street.

Native of Michigan, Mr. Becker Likes Dixie Home—Predicts Record Automobile Business.

L. E. Becker, president of the new Overland Southern Company, has just returned from a tour of the State with a 1914 Overland roadster.

Mr. Becker came from Fenton, Mich., and is a veteran in the motor car game. Together with his son, W. S. Becker, every detail of Overland interests in the South is being carefully worked out. They intend before the end of the present year to visit every city in their territory and meet the various Overland dealers.

In speaking of conditions and prospects in the South, Mr. Becker says: "The South is on the verge of the most prosperous year in its history. The crops are more diversified and in a more healthy condition than ever before. Both the farmers and the city folks are in an enthusiastic frame of mind and boosting the South is everywhere the slogan.

"As far as Overland business is concerned, we are assured of a banner year. With the value represented in the 1914 Overland and this territory on the threshold of prosperity, there can be no doubt of a big season."

VETERAN TIRE EXPERT.

During five years of uninterrupted service, George Benninger, foreman of the tire mounting and repair department at one of the Studebaker plants in Detroit, has mounted on wheels and rims a quarter of a million automobile tires.

Against Term Horsepower

Leading engineering societies abroad are endeavoring to substitute the term kilowatt for horsepower. The unit of measurement in electric power is the watt. A kilowatt, which is 1,000 watts, equals practically 1.34 horsepower. The Automobile advocates the universal adoption of the new designation.

Says an editorial writer: "In the matter of sound, kilowatt is far superior. It has no ugly hiatus in the middle, but runs trippingly from the tongue. It has a plural, too, while the plural of horsepower has always been doubtful and awkward. Its abbreviation—kw, without a point—has been thoroughly established by the electrical engineering fraternity of the world. The value of kilowatt, as well as its spelling, is international and uniform, which could do no harm in the ever growing export trade."

NEW YELLOWSTONE ROUTE.

Under the auspices of the Chicago, Black Hills and Yellowstone Park Highway Association, a party in a Studebaker car has just laid out an improved and direct motoring route to the park from Chicago. The route runs through Madison, Racine, Manakato, Pierre, Rapid City, the Black Hills and Cody, Wyoming. It is said to be both shorter and better than the former route by way of Denver.

When finished the new salesroom of the Republic will be one of the most handsome in the city.

COUNTY CONVICTS BUSY ON AUTOMOBILE ROADS

PERRY, GA., Sept. 6.—The county convict gang, consisting of 60 convicts, has been divided into two squads, one working on the automobile highway between Perry and Henderson and the other on the road from Fort Valley to Macon near Powersville. County officials declare that the convicts are an invaluable asset in road-making, and that they are contributing largely to the pleasure of motoring in this section.

FOR AUTO SHOW ATLANTA FOLK ARE PREPARING

Decorations and Music to Feature Next Display—Officials Busy on Autodrome Project.

Atlanta automobilists are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to the approaching automobile show in 1914 and the opening of the local Autodrome on the Collier road. Nearly all of the 18,000 square feet of floor space available for the show has been eagerly taken by automobilists and accessory concerns, and R. N. Reed, chairman of the show committee, predicts that there won't be enough space for all.

Although this year's show was a great success, that of 1914 will surpass it in many ways.

Seven Thousand for Music.

The Atlanta Automobile and Accessory Association will spend $7,000 for fourteen concerts by John Philip Sousa's Band, and there will be many other attractive and expensive features of the program.

Contributing to the gayeties of automobile week will be the opening of the Autodrome, which is located on the Collier road, just north of Brookwood, on acreage belonging to city of Atlanta. There is a plan on foot to erect a magnificent country club inside the automobile track, and George W. Hanson, of the Oakland Company, thinks this idea entirely feasible.

Speed Fiends Enticed.

A glance at the list of riders who have already signified their intention of entering the Atlanta races will show what kind of events may be expected. There is Ralph DePalma, Harry Endicott, Bob Burnham, Spencer Wishart, Harry Anderson and a string of others.

A feature of the auto show will be more elaborate decorations than ever before. The committee has arranged to buy 500 canary birds, and as many gilded cages, and to give the birds away to visitors after the show. The show committee is composed of R. N. Reed, chairman; Wylie West, George W. Hanson, C. H. Johnson, J. K. Gwinther, H. D. McCutcheon, John F. Poole, K. T. McKinstry and H. A. Price.

SPEED MANIA PASSING; 100-MILE GAIT BANNED

THE speed mania has had its day. Safety and sanity in the operation of motor cars is the one big thing necessary to a continuation of the phenomenal success which the automobile industry has seen, according to leaders in the business.

Staunch, stable construction and the utilization of every possible mechanical improvement and refinement, rather than an effort to provide tremendous speed, are, in the minds of the big manufacturers, the demands of the day in motor car building. Vice President G. W. Bennett, of the Willys-Overland Company, and one of the leaders of the industry who decries the craze for speed, said in a recent interview:

Disagreement on Speed.

"The motorists who demand speed and ever more speed are the exceedingly small minority of the automobile public of to-day. They and their requirements can and must be ignored by the manufacturer who hopes to produce a motor car that will appeal to the solid, substantial part of the population. The motor car need of the present time is staunchness and dependability rather than terrific speed."

"I most heartily disagree with the men in the industry who have been quoted as predicting a standard, everyday automobile which will be capable of 100 to 150 miles per hour.

Roads Can't Stand Pace.

"This statement is ridiculous on the face of it. At the present time there is not a highway in the United States, nor in the world for that matter, on which a speed of 100 miles per hour is either possible or desirable. Half that speed is all that our best roads can possibly stand, and our laws and common sense forbid even a quarter of it. We are manufacturing automobiles for business and pleasure, and surely there is no business which demands a speed of 100 miles per hour. As for pleasure, anyone who has ever ridden in an automobile is aware that at more than 30 or possibly 40 miles per hour there is an enjoyment.

"The idea of providing any such speed as that mentioned in some of the printed reports is not only silly, but suicidal to the industry. With motor cars scooting through the country at 100 miles per hour, even if the highways were so improved as to allow this insane pace, it would be only a matter of days before every State in the Union would enact restriction laws."

Vest Pocket Cards New Thing on Trips

Full Running Directions Supplied, and Device is Free From Vibration, Dust and Wind.

One of the distinct novelties introduced this year for the benefit of motorists is in the form of a system of vest pocket touring information, published in card form, also in miniature tour books for attaching to the rim of the steering wheel.

The cards are the exact size of playing cards and contain full running directions between cities in both directions. They are fitted into a leather case, which buttons to the rim of the steering wheel, thus giving the driver directions in tenths of miles before him all the time in a form which can not be blown by the wind or affected by the weather, dust or grease. There are 350 cards now on sale.

For the convenience of motorists who are making extensive tours and can not plan their itineraries in advance, the same running directions which are published on the cards have been turned into a compact, flexible, leather-covered tour book, free from advertising. There is a key map in each book, from which the motorist plans his tour and selects the numbers of the routes he desires.

Firestone Escapes From Big Ship Fire

Tire Official, Imperator Passenger, Predicts Unusually Large Business for Next Year.

H. S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, was one of the passengers who escaped the Imperator fire by landing in New York August 27. Mr. Firestone had just returned from a two months' trip in Europe, and had been off the monster ship just a few hours before she caught. Officials in the Akron concern breathed a sigh of relief when they learned he was safe.

Conditions abroad and at home, according to Mr. Firestone, are such that his company's business during the next year will be larger than ever. Several large additions to the factory, for which ground was broken just before Mr. Firestone left, are well under way, and will be completed by early winter. These additions will increase the factory output from 50 to 60 per cent.

YOU seldom need to shift gears. The motor flexibility takes care of the different speed and road conditions.

To ride in a six is a delight. The car starts as smoothly as a yacht. It develops speed smoothly and steadily. It glides over the road. It gives the sensation of flying. It rides like constant coasting.

It will run smoothly—on high gear—at the pace of a man's walk. This is ideal in congested traffic. It will "pick up" almost instantly to the speed of an express train.

This without changing a gear—without touching a lever. Just a slight pressure of the foot on the accelerator pedal is required.

There is no jerkiness. There is no annoying and tiring vibration.

THE HUDSON Six 54 has the true streamline body that comfortably seats four, five, six or seven passengers—four-speed transmission—left-side drive—right-hand (center) control—new, fast type Delco electric cranking and lighting system, patented—entrance to driver's seat from both sides of car—gasoline tank in dash—new "dimming" electric headlights—135-inch wheel base.
